INTRODUCTION

The Lutheran understanding and tradition of worship has its roots in the historic rite of the Western church—the weekly celebration of Holy Communion with its dual roles of Scripture and the Breaking of Bread, the Daily Prayer of the Church, especially Morning Prayer (Matins) and Evening Prayer (Vespers), with its emphasis on praise and intercession, and the sanctification of time in annual, weekly, and daily cycles together with the celebration of the faith and lives of the saints. Through the system of Sundays and major festivals, the history of salvation in Jesus Christ is recapitulated, with its attendant implications for the faith and life of the church. This calendar has undergone changes as it evolved through the centuries, but its primary focus has always remained the work of God in history as He accomplishes His purposes.

The propers that fit into the church's calendar are those liturgical elements related to the particular Sunday or festival—readings, psalmody (Introit, Gradual Psalm, and Offertory), Collect, Verse, and Proper Preface.

"The propers . . . are the insurance that worship will dwell on each point of the Gospel, keeping them in balance and insuring full coverage. They keep the prayers, praise, and preaching of the church from the subjective whim of the preacher or musician by keeping both under a discipline imposed by common agreement of the whole church." (Eugene L. Brand, A Handbook of Church Music [St. Louis: Concordia Publishing House, 1978])

Recent service books, including Lutheran Worship, Lutheran Book of Worship, and Christian Worship: A Lutheran Hymnal, have been prepared in view of significant changes that have taken place in the shape of the church year and use a lectionary greatly enriched by the addition of substantially more Biblical material than was used in the past. As a result, worship leaders, pastors, and musicians alike are faced with new materials with which to plan—new propers, a new lectionary, new seasonal emphases, new hymns—a rich gift indeed! This planning guide is designed to aid in that task.

As possessors of the liturgical tradition of the Western church, Lutherans have held firmly (at least in theory) to a view of corporate worship in which the proclamation of the Word is guided and shaped by the propers of the day. At times this vision has been blurred and its precepts served largely by omission, with the result that liturgy, sermon, and music each have wandered aimlessly around without discernible awareness of their interrelatedness. But as personal time becomes precious and church attendance more problematical, what goes on within the context of Sunday morning must be first-rate and worthy. A musician who fails to plan carefully is no less egocentric than the preacher who ignores the lessons of the day. Congregations are beginning to realize that in the service lies a golden opportunity to grow, to be refreshed, and to praise amid this hectic world. It is the responsibility of worship planners to assist the congregation in holding dear the worship of our Lord. For this to happen services must be carefully planned, varied, and insightful in order that they may be occasions of grace and thanksgiving, rather than merely the fulfillment of some legislated obligation.

Worship leaders have a vast array of resources; they need only the vision. Those who plan the service can come to appreciate the liturgical heritage, with its lectionary, propers, and hymns, for the blessing that it is. Planning the service can be likened to the keyboard player who plays from a figured bass line. The realization of the figures allows for much variety and creative input. Deviating from the figures gives a less than desirable result. The lessons, psalms, and hymns do not bind; rather, they free up. Planners are bound only by their insight, ambition, and inspiration.

Not surprisingly, our contemporary obsession with rushing every part of living has spilled over into our worship. Obviously some considerations are necessary, but when time concerns take priority over the integrity of the service, who is being served? The worship life of the congregation will be better served when care is taken with the pacing of each section of the liturgy and the quality of the content. The result will be God-pleasing, meaningful worship, the very best we can do. Our God requires nothing less.

THE ROLE OF MUSIC PLANNERS FOR WORSHIP

The Context

The liturgy of the church is the service that the people of God joyfully perform in response to His life-giving grace. As such, our worship does not belong to any one person—not the pastor, the musicians, or any persons with special interests. Rather, the liturgy is the act of the whole body of Christ with Christ as its head and each member of the body actively contributing his or her gift. All of the members of the body, therefore, need to be considered in planning worship. Their need to hear and address God must be respected. Involvement by representatives of the congregation is much to be desired. Congregations should consider establishing worship committees. Such a committee should represent not only those with professional or specialized interests—the pastor, choir director, and organist—but members of the congregation chosen from various constituencies. Obviously, the very closest possible working relationship between pastor, musicians, and others should be cultivated. Corporate worship implies that all worshipers have some part to play. The liturgy is not the property of any one person. Some portions of the liturgy are properly those of the presiding minister, an ordained minister of the church. Some portions can be fulfilled by acolytes, lectors, communion assistants, and other assisting ministers. Some portions are rightfully the task of the congregation as a whole. Other portions are best fulfilled by musicians, assisting ministers with special gifts and special roles as singers or instrumentalists.

In worship neither the theater nor the concert hall serves as model. Musicians do not "perform" as much as "offer" their music to God and so assist the congregation in those things that the people are generally unable to do as well as practiced groups or individuals. From this we can also conclude that the difficult and complex is not inherently superior to simpler forms. The test is whether it is appropriate to the situation and whether it suitably assists the people in their worship of God. Furthermore, we can conclude that the presiding minister and the assisting ministers, including the musicians, ought not routinely usurp the congregation's appropriate part in the liturgy and so reduce the people to the level of observers at their own service.

The Minister of Music

As they have examined the vital role that music plays in the life of the parish, many congregations have found that the traditional terms used to name the person called or selected for this task are less than satisfactory. "Church organist" and "Director of Music Program" seem rather incomplete when describing work often rightly referred to as dealing with "the living voice of the Gospel." In their search for a solution to this dilemma, congregations have often settled on the term "Minister of Music." This term seems to describe more clearly and fully the role of the church musician. As a term, it touches on those aspects of ministry that are shared with the pastor in this, the first priority of the church—the nurturing of the worshiping community. "Minister of Music" implies finely honed skills, ongoing training, an understanding and a vision of vital, Christ-centered worship. It denotes the pastoral nature of much of the work of the church musician. The term also recognizes the animating and uniting force that music provides as the Gospel of Jesus Christ is proclaimed fervently and substantively from the organ bench and the choir loft.

The title also suggests the intimacy that ought to exist between God and the church musician. Ministers recognize the source and power of their ministry in the grace of God. The minister of music therefore must be a person given to prayer and reflection on the Holy Scriptures. The beginning of the musician's preparation for services is meditation on the lessons, prayers, and other propers drawn from the Scriptures and prayer for spiritual understanding and grace to act as servant of the Lord of the Church.

The Organist

The organist's planning should start with the Hymn of the Day—giving it special treatment by finding classic or contemporary chorale preludes and varied treatments for its stanzas. The organist can do much to help the Hymn of the Day fulfill its important role.

Other hymns should be selected well in advance so that proper attention and preparation can be given to their importance in the service. Hymns call for a variety of tempos and approaches to maintain the integrity of the hymn. In selecting alternate tunes for difficult hymns, care should be taken to select tunes that match not only meter but also style and, sometimes, season.

Equally important is playing the liturgy. Often it is ignored and left to chance. The organist must work to keep the order of service from becoming lethargic by listening to tapes of how the organ leads the congregation; the playing should be bright and easy to follow.

Organ music at the offering is most appropriate and meaningful when it reflects the theme of the day, based on one of the hymns or related to the season of the church year being observed. Organ music during the distribution may also follow the same directives, as well as relating to Eucharistic themes. A final thought to be kept in mind by the conscientious organist (and others who lead worship): There is no part of the service that cannot be improved with practice.

The Choir Director

With the increasing number of publishers and the wealth of quality music for the church, the job of the choir director could be simply to choose from the riches. But in liturgical churches the task is more important. Lutheran worship views the choral music for the day as taking its key from the lessons, the Psalm, the liturgical texts, and the Hymn of the Day. Thus it takes its proper place as proclamation of the Word.

One begins with the sections of the liturgy assigned to the choir: Introit, Gradual or Psalm, Verse, Offertory. Then the task is finding settings of the Psalm that are simple and direct, perhaps employing a congregational refrain. Choral music based on the lessons themselves may be performed as the presentation of part or all of that lesson, as a response to the lesson, or during the distribution as yet another reminder of the important themes of the day. Another consideration for the choral director is the Hymn of the Day with all its supporting literature, providing opportunities for alternatim praxis (alternation between two musical forces: men and women, congregation and choir, organ and congregation, etc.). In addition there is a wonderful amount of quality choral music with a seasonal application or a general one for the day. Deciding to do only music for the day could be an inhibiting pitfall. Variety and balance are important considerations.

Inevitably there arise those Sundays for which very little music based on the lessons can be found. This situation presents a challenge. There are several options. Anthems may be found that are based on other hymns in the list for that day. Or this may be just the time to introduce a new seasonal hymn to the congregation by having the choir sing it in unison or, if possible, in parts. Appropriate seasonal anthems are more than likely available. The choir might take this as an opportunity to do a Communion anthem during the distribution. All in all, there is always a myriad of options left open to the creative choir director for even the "slimmest" of Sundays.

Using This Guide

This planning guide is organized by the three-year lectionary (Series A, B, C) and according to the seasons of the church year.

Each seasonal section begins with a discussion of that season, its history and theological emphases and customs. Then liturgical information appropriate to that season is given in Worship Practice, along with suggestions and ideas for implementation.

Each Sunday or festival within a season is treated separately. The THEME is briefly stated. The LESSONS FOR THE DAY are listed, followed by choral selections in alphabetical order based on each lesson; no general music has been included since that is outside the scope of this guide. However, music based on parallel texts is occasionally listed (e.g., the various Gospel accounts of the Transfiguration). The lists, while not exhaustive, try to give a variety of voicings (SATB, SAB, unison, etc.), accompanying instruments, and levels of difficulty. It is suggested that single copies of these titles be purchased to establish a personal resource file. (See "Organizing Your Choral Library" below.)

All of the listed information is as complete and up-to-date as possible. Since music today quickly goes out of print, some music now in print will not be available by the time this guide is in use. If a copy of out-of-print music is available, permission to photocopy can often be acquired from publishing firms. This may be especially desirable when the piece in question is the only one on a given text. It is hoped that these lists will be a useful resource to be expanded and refined by the user as time passes.

The following example explains a typical entry:

[1] Oh, Sing unto the Lord a New Song [2] (1,2) [3] (We Praise Thee, Part II) * [4] Willan, H. * [5] SA * [6] CPH 97-7610 * [7] E

- [1] Title. The title indicates whether a piece is in English, a foreign language, or both. Concordia Publishing House (CPH) titles are in boldface type.
- [2] Specific verses of the text that are included in the setting (where known).
- [3] Collection in which the piece appears, if not published as a separate work.
- [4] Composer's name, followed in some instances by a slash (/) and the editor's or arranger's name where appropriate.
- [5] Voices and instruments required. See p. 17 for a list of abbreviations.
- [6] Publisher and catalog number, if available. Where several components of a work are available (full score, choir score, instrumental parts), only the full score number is given.
- [7] Degree of difficulty, from Easy to Difficult, offered as a guide. See the list of abbreviations, p. 17.

Under HYMN SUGGESTIONS, the hymns listed are from Lutheran Worship (LW), Lutheran Book of Worship (LBW), The Lutheran Hymnal (TLH) (1941), Worship Supplement (WS), and Christian Worship: A Lutheran Hymnal (CW). Those marked as the Hymn of the Day (†) are from the listings in LW and LBW. Other suggested hymns are based on the lessons in some way; no general hymn choices are given. Hymns that reflect the themes of the day may also be used during distribution.

The CODA includes any additional music suggestions or worship ideas for the day, such as metrical settings of the Psalm, concertato settings for the Hymn of the Day, and so forth. Other listings include ORGAN MUSIC BASED ON THE HYMN OF THE DAY, HANDBELL MUSIC, INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC, CHILDREN'S SONGS, and SUPPLEMENTAL HYMNODY. Pieces from comprehensive organ collection (such as The Parish Organist, the Concordia Hymn Prelude Series, and Augsburg's Hymn Preludes and Free Accompaniments were not included to save room.) So many fine anthologies from today's best hymn writers have become available since 1982, that it was felt mention of many of these newer hymns was warranted. Perhaps in time many will enter the Church's repertoire permanently.

Included with this guide is a sample Planning Sheet (pp. 37 and 38) for planning the music for the service; it can be adapted to any situation. Besides providing a format for planning ahead, such sheets form a valuable record of what has been done in the past. Especially important is the space for evaluation. Often the best ideas come too late, or something that looked great on paper does not work well. Taking the time on Sunday evening to mull over what happened that morning can be an invaluable tool in improving ministry.

IMPORTANT!!!

In ordering music, one may order either directly from the publisher or from music dealers. Concordia Publishing House distributes only its own publications.

GENERAL LITURGICAL RESOURCES

Introits and Graduals

The place of psalmody such as Introits and Graduals in planning is an important question. The Introit originally served a necessary function in the papal liturgy of Rome. Psalms were sung as the bishop of Rome journeyed with his clergy from his residence to the church at which he was to celebrate the liturgy. When the pope entered the church, the psalmody ended and the liturgy began. The use of entrance psalmody was imitated in other areas of the church even though its original purpose did not apply.

The Introit psalm formerly contained a much larger portion of the psalm than it has more recently. In time, the frame of reference of the psalm fragments that made up the classic Introit became more obscure for generations not nurtured on the psalms. For this and other reasons LBW substituted the use of an Entrance Hymn or Psalm for the Introit, although the use of the classic Introits is permitted. LBW, however, amplifies the Psalm following the Old Testament Reading so the people can continue to grow in their appreciation of the psalter. LW, on the other hand, amplifies the psalm texts of the Introits and offers less psalm material for the Gradual. LW also permits the use of fuller psalm material intended as a response to the Old Testament Reading.

Congregations should be encouraged to grow in appreciation of the theological and devotional riches of the psalter. Worship planners should grant the psalmody the same emphasis, study, and regard that they give to the three lessons. Historically and liturgically the psalm material after the Old Testament Reading is of greater importance than the psalmody that supports the entrance rite. The Introits in LW were designed to adhere as closely as possible to a theme common to all three sets of propers of the new lectionary, respecting the former appointment of the classic Introits. The Graduals, however, are seasonal in character.

There are as yet no new musical settings of these new Introits and Graduals. The only option in using the new versions is the psalm tones found in LW. Congregations and choirs that have found the older settings by Buszin, Bunjes, Willan, etc., a comfortable treasure should consider using them whenever feasible (feast days, minor festivals, commemorations). The following resources use the Introit texts found in TLH: (all of these are permanently out of print)

Psalms and Graduals

The Psalm of the Day is a selected portion of the psalter that serves as the congregation's response to the Word of God read from the Old Testament or the Acts of the Apostles. Traditionally these psalms are sung responsorially. The choir or cantor sings the antiphon, which is repeated by the congregation. The choir or cantor then sings the verses, the congregation repeating the antiphon after each unit of the verses, usually two. The Gradual is an alternate to the Psalm and is appropriately sung by the choir or a cantor. The psalms may be chanted to the simple psalm tones found in LW, LBW, and CW in addition to the resources listed below.

In recent years GIA Publications has produced a number of collections of psalm-based material. Their Psalms for the Church now has six volumes from various composers and in a variety of folk styles. In addition many items in the Cantor/Congregation series are psalm based. (Be careful of the Roman Catholic numbering of the psalms, however!)

The Christian Reformed Psalter Hymnal has, of course, many psalm paraphrases set in four-part harmony. Many of these could be effectively utilized by the parish choir. Available from CRC Publications in Grand Rapids, MI.

A tradition of great benefit in our use of the psalms is the psalm prayer. It is said after the Psalm, following a brief pause; the congregation responds with the Amen. A collection of such prayers, one for each psalm, is available in Lutheran Book of Worship: Ministers Desk Edition (pp. 340-440). Additional psalm prayers are available in John Allyn Melloh and William G. Storey, eds., Praise God in Song (Chicago: GIA Publications, Inc.). This book also includes very helpful introductions concerning the history and practice of Morning and Evening Prayer.

A canticle may be sung following the final psalm. This is also an ancient practice. At Morning Prayer a canticle drawn from the Old Testament is appropriate and at Evening Prayer, one from the New Testament, though this distinction need not be rigidly adhered to. The use of a canticle can add to the joyful character of the festivals of the church year.

Responses

Liturgically, these pieces might be included in any service in which a brief canticle or choral response is desired. They might also serve as an occasional substitute for the traditional Gradual, Verse, or canticle.

Verses and Offertories

Both LW and LBW provide texts for proper Verses for each Sunday and festival. These Verses are usually New Testament texts that serve as a summons to attention as the worshipers prepare to hear Christ address them in the Holy Gospel. When possible, the proper Verse, rather than the common Verses in the service book, should be sung by a choir or cantor.

A similar Scriptural enrichment occurs when a proper Offertory (LBW) is sung by the choir or a cantor. If musical resources do not permit preparation of the proper Offertory each week, one Offertory can be selected to serve for a season. Proper Verses and Offertories can also be sung on occasion to one of the psalm tones given in LW or LBW. Obviously such practice should be restricted lest monotony set in.

Hymn of the Day

This hymn is unfortunately often called the "sermon hymn," a misnomer that perpetuates a narrow view of its role. The Hymn of the Day is much more than a sermon hymn. It is the principal hymn of the service, a point at which the themes of the day converge. These are hymns of proven quality. Through these texts and tunes, the congregation has the opportunity to restate and comment on the message of the day, while spiritual understanding is being strengthened and uplifted. See Carl Schalk, The Hymn of the Day and Its Use in Lutheran Worship (Church Music Pamphlet Series, CPH 99-1252) for a fuller discussion of this important element in liturgical worship. A Hymn of the Day index is provided on pp. 32-35.

There are many ways to highlight the Hymn of the Day—organ preludes, alternatim praxis, choral settings. Concordia Publishing House publishes a series of concertato settings based on the Hymn of the Day; it will ultimately include every Hymn of the Day listed in LW. Concordia also has a seven-volume series of Choral Settings for the Hymn of the Day, which includes a variety of settings for every Hymn of the Day listed in LW and LBW.

Music during Distribution

A variety of music during the distribution of the elements can do much to further the joy of the Eucharist. This is a wonderful time for soloists/choirs to introduce new hymns to the congregation. Instrumental settings of hymns are appropriate. The choir may want to sing one of the metrical settings of the Agnus Dei (LW 7, 208; LBW 1, 103; TLH 146, 147) or one of the many choral settings of that text (see below). Distribution is another opportunity to recount the themes of the day and the season. It may be the time to do a suitable cantata or larger work. Even with the wide variety of possibilities, it is not necessary to provide a seamless flow of music. Silence while the musicians commune gives time for the congregation to meditate upon the themes of the day and the blessings of the Eucharist. Resources particularly appropriate to the Sacrament of Holy Communion include:

Daily Prayer of the Church

This guide considers the Divine Service with Holy Communion to be the principal service for Sunday morning. The church, however, has another ancient and prized pattern of worship, the Daily Prayer of the Church. In his hymn "The Day You Gave Us, Lord, Has Ended," John Ellerton refers to Daily Prayer in these words:

We thank You that Your Church, unsleeping
 While earth rolls onward into light,
 Through all the world its watch is keeping,
 And never rests by day or night.

As to each continent and island
 The dawn leads on another day,
 The voice of prayer is never silent,
 Nor dies the strain of praise away.

Many factors have made it difficult for God's people to gather regularly in their churches for Morning and Evening Prayer. However, the ideal and goal of God's people offering prayer and praise to mark the course of the day remains. Lutherans are likely to experience Morning Prayer occasionally, even if not regularly, on Sundays and festivals as an alternate to Holy Communion and Evening Prayer during such seasons as Advent and Lent. From these reminders of past practice, we may yet be able to restore regular Daily Prayer as a significant part of the church's worship.

When planning for Matins (Morning Prayer) or Vespers (Evening Prayer), there are some subtle differences in approach. Often the role of the choir centers more on the psalms and canticles than on the lessons. Consideration of the canticles will be given in connection with their most appropriate season (the Magnificat with Advent, etc.). The psalms are listed in Psalms for Daily Prayer, LW, p. 292 and LBW, p. 178.

The Office Hymn is the chief hymn in the Daily Prayer of the Church, as the Hymn of the Day is in Holy Communion. Unlike the Hymn of the Day, however, the Office Hymn reflects the character of the liturgical season and of the hour of the day rather than the Scriptures appointed for the day. It generally has the following characteristics: (a) a Latin antecedent; (b) precedent for use in the pre-Reformation books; (c) an objective presentation of the season or feast, often relating to the time of day; and (d) a conclusion with a doxological stanza and an Amen. There are hymns listed in the planning guide that do not possess either criteria (a) or (b), but which admirably fulfill (c). Some will also lack (d). There are feasts and days that have no Office Hymn in any of the Lutheran hymnals in current use. The Office Hymn is used in LW and LBW in Morning Prayer and Evening Prayer at the rubric "The HYMN is sung" and where LW indicates "The OFFICE HYMN is sung" in Matins and Vespers. In this guide, Office Hymns are included in the resource section for each season under Daily Prayer. If the closing doxological stanza has been omitted, see the Metrical Listing of Doxologies, LW, p. 1005.

ORGANIZING YOUR CHORAL LIBRARY

The organizing of a choral library can seem like a daunting task, given the size of your church's library and the mountain of new releases which come out each year from the various publishers of sacred music. But those musicians working in a liturgical church have a built-in system around which to sort and organize. You'll want to organize both your "conductor's file" (of those things in the church's library) and your copies of new materials in much the same way.

First of all, consider the text. If the words are Scripturally based, you may wish to set up your filing system based on the books of the Bible. Obviously those pieces which are settings of Biblical texts used in the three-year lectionary are more useful than others and you may wish to notate on the cover on which days a particular piece would be appropriate for use. Proclaim provides an extensive Biblical Index to the three-year lectionary (see pages 20-27). It's probably a good idea to keep a separate file for those resources based on the Psalms, since that is such a rich area for choral planning. Proclaim also provides a detailed Psalm Index for the three-year lectionary (see pages 28-31).

You may wish to keep all hymn-based materials separately as well—both concertatos and hymn-based anthems. A comprehensive Hymn of the Day index is provided on pages 32-35.

Works which would be appropriate for the various times of the Church Year could make another file. (Advent, Christmas, Epiphany, Lent, Holy Week, Easter, Pentecost, Reformation, All Saints, Thanksgiving, End of the Church Year, Christ the King, etc.)

Another category would be settings of liturgical texts (i. e. Kyrie, Agnus Dei, Te Deum, verses, offertories, canticles, etc.).

The remaining works can be classified thematically. Use themes which are often found in the readings for any given Sunday. This can be of invaluable assistance for those days when very little can be found on the given readings. Use the Topical Index of your hymnal as a guide. Many of the following suggested themes were utilized in this edition of Proclaim.

INDEX TO THE THREE YEAR LECTIONARY (LW & LBW)

Revised Common Lectionary Users Guide

The ELCA will still name Sundays "after Pentecost." However, the dated proper numbers will determine which readings are appointed for the day. When using previously published material, you will simply need to match the Gospel readings from an LBW "Sundays after Pentecost" to one of the new proper numbers. Many worship planners, musicians, and pastors have already had to do this in reverse order to use ecumenical resources for which Lutherans were one to two weeks off from other denominations during the Sundays after Pentecost.

HYMN OF THE DAY

O Lord, We Praise You, Bless You
O Morning Star, How Fair and Bright
O People, Rise and Labor
O Savior of Our Fallen Race
O Sons and Daughters of the King
Of the Father's Love Begotten

Oh, Come, Oh, Come, Emmanuel
Oh, Love, How Deep, How Broad
Oh, Wondrous Type! Oh, Vision Fair
On Jordan's Bank the Baptist's Cry
Once Again My Heart Rejoices
One Thing's Needful
Our Father, by Whose Name
Our Father, Who from Heav'n Above
Out of the Depths I Cry to You
Praise the Almighty, My Soul

Rejoice, Angelic Choirs, Rejoice!
Ride On, Ride On in Majesty
Salvation unto Us Has Come

Savior of the Nations, Come
Seek Where You May to Find a Way

Sing, My Tongue, the Glorious Battle
Sing Praise to God, the Highest Good
Son of God, Eternal Savior

Stars of the Morning
"Take Up Your Cross," the Savior Said

The Church of Christ, in Ev'ry Age
The Church's One Foundation
The Day Is Surely Drawing Near

The King of Love My Shepherd Is
The Only Son from Heaven
The Royal Banners Forward Go
Through the Night of Doubt and Sorrow

EVALUATION

ADVENT

The year must begin somewhere, and so the church's year begins with Advent. The church year, however, is cyclical and continuous rather than forming a line with a beginning and an end. Advent flows as smoothly and logically out of the end of the Time of the Church, with its emphasis on final things, as it flows into Christmas and Epiphany.

"Advent" comes from the Latin adventus, meaning "coming." Adventus signifies the approach of someone of dignity, power, and glory, someone who has the power to bestow favor or exact penalties. The coming of God's Son is, par excellence, such an adventus.

Advent is a time of expectation and hope. Advent unfolds the glory of Christ's coming again so that we can comprehend the mercy and grace of His coming into the flesh. In this way we are made ready to offer praise to God at Christmas. An examination of the propers for Advent shows us that the historical event of Christmas is the focus only for the fourth Sunday of this season. Advent 1 clearly sets forth the temporal and eternal consequences of Christ's coming as Judge. Advent 2 and 3 present St. John the Baptist as the preacher for those who await the coming Kingdom. In our years of waiting, repentance and faith occupy us. Those are, of course, the very necessary prerequisites for recognizing and accepting the Child born on Christmas as God's Son.

Advent is a time of preparation for Christmas. Although the first three weeks of Advent clearly direct us toward Christ's coming again at the end of time, there is a turning point after which we are directed toward preparation for Christmas. The beginning of the Great O Antiphons on December 17 turns our hearts and minds in that direction. The Great O Antiphons (see p. 49) draw on the Old Testament to express Israel's yearning for the Messiah. Israel's faith and expectation are the models for our own waiting. Our waiting is not motivated by a nostalgic attempt to relive the time before Christ's birth; rather, we are to become aware that, like Israel, we must wait on God's Word. The images and symbols of Israel's own hope help us to express our faith and become a part of our prayer for Christ's coming. Vigilant expectation is a good description of the spirit of Advent. At times in the church's history Advent has been interpreted as a penitential season similar to Lent, but such efforts have not been successful. Hope, rather than penitence, is the chief theme. For that reason blue is offered as an alternative color to penitential purple.

Congregations should not duplicate all the austerities of Lenten practice in order to make Advent "a little Lent."

Advent is a time of patient waiting—a time to cultivate the gift of patience. We are a nation of people who desire instant gratification of our wants. This mind-set is diametrically opposed to the spirit of Advent. For our society Advent is already the celebration of the secular Christmas. In Advent the church expresses its yearning for fulfillment, not the fulfillment itself. We cannot properly celebrate during the 12 days of Christmas what we have already celebrated in Advent. This is why the Lutheran Church encourages congregations and individuals to defer the use of Christmas hymns, carols, decorations, trees, parties, and services until the Christmas season. Patient waiting on God is a mark of the Christian. Faith permits us to know that God works in His own good time to fulfill His promises. Learning such patient waiting is a gift with which a proper observance of Advent can enrich God's people.

Among the customs of Advent that deserve our appreciation, the Advent wreath has obviously become one of the most popular. The wreath should be large enough to appear significant but not so large as to overwhelm the altar, font, and reading desks. The candles should be of natural beeswax or red in color. The Advent wreath is of a domestic origin. Attempts to make the wreath more "liturgically correct" by the use of purple and rose or blue candles obscure the basic symbols of the wreath—fire and light.

INTRODUCTION TO ADVENT

At Matins and Morning Prayer the candles of the wreath are best lighted before the service. The same is true of Holy Communion. Candlelighting is not a part of the liturgical action at those services. At Holy Communion, if it is considered necessary to make more of the wreath, the candles used the week before may be lighted prior to the service and then the candle of that day may be lighted without excessive ceremony during the Psalm that follows the Old Testament Reading. Candlelighting is a central action at Evening Prayer. In that service the candles of the wreath may be lighted as "Joyous light of glory" is sung.

WORSHIP PRACTICE

Omit Hymn of Praise

The season of Advent is marked by particular liturgical observances. At Holy Communion the Hymn of Praise, Gloria in excelsis, has traditionally not been sung. By its absence the church restrains the exuberance of its praise. The awareness of something missing expresses our sense that the time of fulfillment has not yet come. Although LW Divine Service I permits the use of "Oh, Come, Oh, Come, Emmanuel" as the Hymn of Praise, the absence of the Hymn of Praise may also serve as a witness to the spirit of the season. "This Is the Feast" (Worthy Is Christ) should be reserved for the 50 Days of Easter and for those festivals that emphasize the eschatological fulfillment of our hope.

Gradual

The appointed Gradual for the Advent season combines Zechariah 9:9 and Psalm 118:26. Settings of the Zechariah portion include:

Be Joyful, O Daughters of Zion * Titcomb, E. * SATB * Carl Fischer CM 437 * M

Rejoice Greatly * Petzold, J. * Unis. * Augsburg Fortress 11-1651; also in Music for the Contemporary Choir, Book 1, Augsburg Fortress 11-9288 * E

Verses and Offertories

Some congregations habitually use the Alleluias (LW, p. 140) or the Common Verse (LW, pp. 164, 184; LBW, pp. 62, 83, 103). When possible, however, the proper Verses provided by LW and LBW for each Sunday and festival should be sung by a choir or cantor. See p. 13 for a list of available settings. Also available is Four Verse Settings for Advent by Richard Wienhorst (SATB, hdb.; CPH 98-2587), which covers all four Sundays.

INTRODUCTION TO ADVENT

Daily Prayer

For the purposes of the Daily Prayer of the Church, Advent begins on the Saturday evening before the First Sunday in Advent, and continues through Matins (Morning Prayer) on December 24. The Invitatory for Advent is readily available for use in Matins (LW: Altar Book, p. 42) and Morning Prayer (LW, p. 288; LBW, p. 174). The Advent Ascription of Praise is also presented in convenient form in Vespers and Matins (LW, pp. 209, 225). The Advent versicles (Evening Prayer—LW, p. 288; LBW, p. 174) can be sung to the same music as is used for the common versicles. Psalms for Morning and Evening Prayer in Advent are listed in LW: Altar Book, p. 127, and in LBW, p. 178. The Benedictus, because of its clear references to St. John the Forerunner and to Christ, is the preferred morning canticle, and the Magnificat is the preferred evening canticle. The O Antiphons (LW, p. 288; LBW, p. 174) serve splendidly as an Advent Litany for use during the prayers at Morning and Evening Prayer. They may be preceded by "Come and save us," sung first by the minister or cantor and then repeated by the people. This can be sung to the same tone as the antiphons. The Litany is concluded with an Advent collect.

Another canticle associated with the Advent season is the Song of Zechariah, or Benedictus, which appears in Matins and Morning Prayer and as Cantic 2 in LBW. Settings include:

Benedictus * Gallus/McCray * SSA * Augsburg Fortress 11-1886 * EM

On more festive occasions at Matins/Morning Prayer and Vespers/Evening Prayer a canticle may be sung after the final psalm. The canticle Surge, illuminare, drawn from Isaiah 60, is appropriate for use in Advent (see p. 110). The text is readily available as Cantic 11 in The Book of Common Prayer (New York: Seabury Press, 1979). Settings may be found in The Book of Canticles (New York: The Church Hymnal Corporation, 1979), among other sources. Lucien Deiss's setting, "Zion, sing," arranged for choir or cantor with congregational participation, is available in Contemporary Worship 5: Services of the Word (Minneapolis: Augsburg Fortress; Philadelphia: Board of Publications; St. Louis: Concordia, 1972).

The O Antiphons

The Great O Antiphons of Advent have been cherished for centuries by Christian worshipers. Each one consists of a title given to Christ in the Old Testament and a petition asking Him to come and fulfill a Scriptural promise or prophecy. One of the great Advent hymns, "Oh, Come, Oh, Come, Emmanuel," is based on them. They may be found in LW, p. 288, and in LBW, p. 174.

The O Antiphons provide many opportunities for enrichment of the congregation's worship. They may be sung as originally intended, as antiphons for the Magnificat or Benedictus from December 17 through December 23. They have also been used as the central part of Advent services of Vespers or Evening Prayer. To use the O Antiphons with Evening Prayer, this order may be followed: the Service of Light, an Advent psalm, and then the antiphons. Each is treated in this manner: a choral setting of the antiphon (see below), a Scripture reading, a collect based on the antiphon, congregational singing of the appropriate stanza of "Oh, Come, Oh, Come, Emmanuel." The service concludes with the Magnificat, prayers, and a blessing. In addition to such special services, the choral settings may be used as anthems during the Advent season. Advent in Our Home (National Bulletin on Liturgy, Vol. 15, No. 85, pp. 151-53) provides useful Biblical references for the O Antiphons and also for the preparation of a Jesse Tree.

Various choral settings of the O Antiphons are available from Concordia Publishing House. Settings for SATB by Healey Willan and unison settings by Carl Schalk based on Gregorian chant appear under one cover, CPH 97-5848. In addition, SAB settings by Richard Gieseke are available, CPH 98-2706, and a new contemporary setting for unison choir, opt. cong. and flute called Rejoice, Rejoice by John Roth, CPH 98-3229.

Service of Lessons and Carols

An increasingly popular Advent service is an adaptation of the famous Kings College Service of Lessons and Carols (recordings of this are found on the Decca label). Customarily nine lessons are read, each followed by a carol or anthem. Seven lessons may be used if a shorter service is desired; however, it is essential to the service that a significant number of lessons be read. As is appropriate in Advent, the lessons are drawn from the Old Testament. If it is desired, the service may be ended with a single reading from the Gospels. Each lesson should be read by a different lector if possible. The music, as well as the lessons, should reflect Advent and its note of expectation rather than Christmas and its spirit of fulfillment.

An essential resource for this service is The Book of Occasional Services (New York: The Church Hymnal Corporation, 1979), which includes the traditional bidding prayer in both traditional and contemporary form (pp. 29-32). At Evening Prayer this service may take the following form:

1. Service of Light, using the Advent or common versicles (LW, pp. 250-53, 288; LBW, pp. 142-45, 174) OR Entrance Hymn—"Hosanna Now Through Advent" (LW 16) Come, O Precious Ransom (LW 34, LBW 24, TLH 55)
2. Bidding Prayer
3. Lord's Prayer
4. Nine (or seven) lessons chosen from the following. The final lesson may be a reading from the Gospel. Hymn and/or choral suggestions follow each of the lessons.

THEME

"The hour is approaching—Christ is coming!"

Today a new year of God's grace begins. God has placed us between the incarnation of His Son and His coming again on that day when the glory of God will be fully revealed. "In the last days the mountain of the Lord's temple will be established . . . and all nations will stream to it" (Is. 2:2). Then "the Mighty One, God, the Lord" (LW, Ps. 50:1) will summon the earth to judgment.

For that reason these days of Advent (and all the days of our waiting) are days in which to "keep watch, because [we] do not know on what day [our] Lord will come" (Matt. 24:42). Then it shall be as it was in the days of Noah; people will be occupied in all the many tasks that make up the days of this age. The Lord's disciples, however, must have understanding. Things appear as they always have, but we must shake off sleep and awake. We must "put aside the deeds of darkness and put on the armor of light" (Rom. 13:12). We have been clothed in Christ by Baptism; now our sinful nature must not control us any longer. The Lord's incarnation which we will celebrate again in four weeks has made possible the drawing near of our salvation.

Even now we can find joy when we are called to "go to the house of the Lord" (LBW, Ps. 122:1). United with those who pray for us and for whom we pray, we find peace and renewal of our resolve in God's Spirit as we wait with vigilance and confidence for the coming of the King of glory.

CODA

On this day the Litany (LW, p. 279; LBW, p. 168; TLH 661) may serve as the Entrance Rite. The ministers and congregation gather at a place apart from the nave of the church. The ministers lead the procession into the nave as the Litany is sung (or said). The Litany closes with the final Kyrie with Amen (LW, p. 283; the Lord's Prayer and Litany Collects are omitted). The procession is timed so that as the Litany closes, the ministers and congregation are in their places in the church. The service then continues with the Collect/Prayer of the Day. If the structure of the church prohibits a procession with the people, the congregation may be seated and the ministers only process into the nave.

Martin Luther regarded the Litany highly and prepared two versions of this ancient prayer. He recommended regular use of it. Because of the wide range of concerns to which the Litany is addressed, it is an appropriate prayer with which to begin the new church year.

ADVENT 2

THEME "Behold the God of justice and righteousness"

On this day, and on next Sunday as well, the liturgy holds before us John the Forerunner as the preacher for those who patiently await the coming of the Kingdom. The church prays that God stir up our hearts to make ready the way of His Son, so that at His coming we may worship Him with purified hearts and minds (Collect).

God's Spirit rests upon the coming Branch who will judge His people with righteousness and justice. The poor of the earth (God's own people), gathering around the Root of Jesse, find peace, safety and deliverance in Him (Is. 11:1, 4, 10). His reign will extend from sea to sea, and all will praise the God of Israel for His marvelous deeds (Ps. 72:8, 18).

In our waiting we are assisted by the Scriptures. They give us endurance and encouragement and unite us as we follow Christ Jesus (Rom. 15:4, 5). In our own worship together we praise God and sing hymns to His name, seeking for one another by the Spirit the hope, joy, and peace that we need during our time of waiting (Rom. 15:13).

Repentance is the name given our waiting. We have been baptized with the Spirit and with fire so that we may die to sin, produce good fruit, escape judgment, and share in the Kingdom (Matt. 3:2, 8, 11).

ADVENT 3

THEME "Endless rejoicing"

Gaudete is the traditional name for this Sunday, a name taken from the first word of the old Latin Introit, Gaudete, "Rejoice in the Lord alway: and again I say, Rejoice" (TLH, p. 54; Phil. 4:4). That element of joy remains in the new propers for this day. The prophet proclaims the glorious day of Israel's return from exile. Flowers will burst into bloom in the desert as the earth is refreshed by God's waters of life. We also live in exile away from our everlasting home. In these days we pray that God will strengthen our feeble hands and knees and take away the fears in our hearts and that He would give us a place among the ransomed of the Lord (Is. 35:1-4, 9, 10).

We, like John's disciples, have been led to know salvation in Jesus Christ. In Word and Sacrament we have seen the wonders done by Jesus. Even today our blindness is lifted, our illnesses healed and the Good News preached to us. We have found Him whom we sought (Matt. 11:1-5). The seed has been planted. The harvest is certain. Patience, forgiveness of those who wait with us, and endurance in suffering are the necessary signs of our confidence in God's coming (James 5:7-10).

THEME

"The heavenly royalty is the Son of David"

The King of glory comes! The Creator of the earth and all who are in it has cleansed the hands of His people and given them a pure heart so they may enter with Him through the ancient doors into His kingdom (Ps. 24:1, 4, 7). The King who comes is Immanuel, God with us, who came once before as the child of Mary. By human nature He was the awaited descendant of David. Through the Spirit He was declared to be the Son of God as was confirmed by His resurrection (Rom. 1:3, 4). (On Christmas we shall celebrate not only the birth of God's Son but also His passion, death, and resurrection, the reason for His coming.)

In His grace God chose Mary as the instrument through whom He came to save His people. "She was found to be with child through the Holy Spirit" (Matt. 1:18). This child, Immanuel, is the great sign of God's care of His people (Is. 7:14). In Him evil is undone and righteousness is revealed. Ahaz could not believe—or would not. Joseph's example, on the other hand, calls us to obedient faith. As he took Mary to his home, so we are to long to receive Mary's child into our own lives. We have no reason to be anxious. All will be done for us as God has ordained.

CHRISTMAS

Two Christmases vie for our allegiance: the Christmas of our society and the Christmas of the church. For our society, Christmas is a time of nostalgia for the innocence of childhood and of yearning for a golden age. Underlying the cultural Christmas is truth, but only imperfectly remembered and understood. The Christmas of faith also remembers a time of innocence: Eden and a world created in beauty and harmony. A promise of renewal was made at Bethlehem when heaven and earth gave glory to God. What our culture cannot as readily accept is the evil that all too soon reached out toward the Holy Child or the blood that had to be spilled so the new heaven and the new earth might be given. The birth of a pastoral king is easier to accept than the birth of One who will be Priest and Sacrifice.

The church celebrates the mystery of salvation revealed in Christ's birth, rather than the birthday itself. "Of the Father's love begotten" is a more comprehensive statement about Christmas than "Baby Jesus" songs. The crib and the carols and legends about the lovely Baby are truly a gift for our faith. Yet we celebrate more than human feeling. We celebrate the mystery of God become human in Christ who is both our King and our Servant. Our liturgies, therefore, must witness to both the lowly son of David and the glorious Son of God who holds the cosmos in His hands.

The name for the festival, Christmas, means Christ Mass, that is, the liturgy celebrated on the day when Christ came among us as one of us. A familiar Christmas song reminds us each year of the Twelve Days of Christmas, December 25 to January 5 (Twelfth Night). Our cultural Christmas is begun during Advent and is fairly well exhausted by December 25. Leaders of the church's worship need determination to avoid that distortion and imagination to maintain the spirit of celebration for the full 12 days. The color of the season is white, a sign of the light that plays so large a part in the Biblical texts associated with the season.

The solemnity of the Festival of The Nativity of Our Lord is shown by the provision of three sets of propers for the day: one for use at midnight, one for use at dawn, and one for the principal service on December 25. The celebration of Christmas in Jerusalem may have played a part in this development. Christians assembled at night in the Grotto of the Nativity in Bethlehem, the traditional location of Christ's birth. They returned to Jerusalem, arriving there in time for a celebration at dawn at the Church of the Resurrection. They gathered again later in the morning for the principal liturgy of Holy Communion of the festival. This pattern may have been consciously imitated in Rome and from there became the practice throughout the Western church.

The Lutheran Hymnal contains only a portion of the traditional propers appointed for Christmas Day. Lutheran Worship and Lutheran Book of Worship have restored them all to us. We can learn how to use them wisely in the years ahead. Because relatively few congregations find it possible to celebrate the festival so completely, contemporary service books, by their rubrics, encourage a flexible use of the three sets. These suggestions are a guide for worship planners:

1. A service of Holy Communion should be offered on Christmas Day itself as the principal service. The propers for the principal service (LW, The Second Service; LBW, Set 2) are the traditional and still most appropriate ones to use for this celebration.
2. Congregations that conduct a service during the night hours may rotate use of the propers for LW, The First Service (LBW, Set 1) and LW, The Third Service (LBW, Set 3) in alternating years.

3. If a congregation is able to manage the full array of three services, by tradition at the midnight service the propers for LW, The First Service (LBW, Set 1), are used, with Luke 2:1-14 as the Gospel. Likewise, at dawn the propers for LW, The Third Service (LBW, Set 3), with Luke 2:15-20, have the weight of tradition. At the principal service later in the morning the propers for LW, The Second Service (LBW, Set 2), should be used.

4. If a congregation has but one Christmas service, all three sets of propers may be alternated. Care should be taken not to omit use of those for the principal service.

The presence of visitors at Christmas services should not deter a congregation from the celebration of Holy Communion. The birth of Jesus in Bethlehem, the house of bread, reminds us that Jesus is the Bread of heaven set before us in the Breaking of Bread. The Sacrament is a powerful proclamation of the Gospel and witness to God's love and our faith. God's people should not be denied the Sacrament because of the presence of some who may not comprehend its deepest meaning or be able to participate because of close communion practices.

Propers are provided also for two Sundays after Christmas and for two minor festivals, New Year's Eve and New Year's Day. The First Sunday after Christmas is celebrated every year although some congregations, following a long tradition, may choose to observe the festivals of St. Stephen (December 26), St. John (December 27), and the Holy Innocents (December 28) if they should fall on the Sunday after Christmas.

In the past, January 1 was observed as the Octave of Christmas. The octave day of a festival underlined the festival's themes and at the same time added some new dimension. The Octave of Christmas used the bestowal of the name of Jesus on the Child and His circumcision to deepen understanding of the meaning of His birth. Octave days are no longer emphasized in contemporary service books, and in Lutheran Worship the theme of Jesus' name has been attached to the evening of December 31 and the circumcision to January 1; Lutheran Book of Worship attaches the theme of Jesus' name to January 1, while New Year's Eve is listed under Occasions, with the focus on the changing of the years.

Only one set of propers is provided for the Second Sunday after Christmas. More are not needed, for this Sunday does not occur every year. Furthermore, congregations that do not celebrate the Epiphany when January 6 falls on a weekday may consider celebrating that festival on this Sunday.

Congregations frequently offer special children's services at Christmas time. Such services should clearly be opportunities for worship rather than performance. The participation of children in appropriate ways in the regular Christmas services of the congregation commends itself more than the use of special programs. The Quempas Celebration (see p. 75) is an excellent instrument for that purpose.

A Christmas custom deserving of more attention is that of the crib (Krippe, creche), a representation in wood or another worthy material of the nativity scene in Bethlehem. Churches located in areas where natural Christmas trees are prohibited will find a crib a suitable replacement. Congregations can plan, design, and execute a crib over a period of years or, if necessary, purchase one. The crib may be placed in the narthex or the nave. Care must be taken that it does not obscure the altar, lectern, or font, which remain the center of the liturgy at all times. Nor should the crib obstruct the necessary movements in the service. The crib may serve as a "station" along the route of a procession. When all have reached the crib, a hymn may be sung, a lesson read, or a prayer chanted or said. The procession then proceeds to its destination. The crib may be put in place during the final days of Advent. A day or two before Christmas the figures of Mary and Joseph are added. On Christmas the figures of Jesus, the angel, and the shepherds are added. The Magi are added on Epiphany.

CHRISTMAS

For many congregations the Christmas tree continues to claim a favored position. The tree also must not obstruct movement or obscure the altar, font, and lectern. A natural tree, cut as shortly before Christmas Day as possible and treated with preservatives and fire retardants, is preferred. Imitation trees should be avoided as an unworthy offering to God, although in areas where evergreen trees do not naturally grow, trees crafted from other natural materials are acceptable and perhaps even preferable. The tree should not be erected until after the final Advent service. It is removed on Epiphany and, where this may be legally and safely done, is burned with the trees that have graced the homes of the people of the congregation.

For further reading on this season, see the listing on p. 42.

CHRISTMAS RESOURCES

Hymn of Praise

At Holy Communion during the Christmas season "Glory to God in the highest" is the appropriate Hymn of Praise because of its echo of the angel's proclamation and its praise of Christ.

Gradual

The appointed Gradual for the Christmas season combines Isaiah 9:6 and Psalm 98:1a. A setting that combines these two verses is "Unto Us a Child Is Born," for unison choir and handbells (Four Introits, Set II, E. Martens, CPH 97-5467).

Verses and Offertories

Some congregations habitually use the Alleluia (LW, p. 140) or the Common Verse (LW, pp. 164, 184; LBW, pp. 62, 83, 103). On Christmas Day the proper Verses should be sung if possible. These can be sung by a choir, using one of the several settings available; see p. 13 for general collections. Also available is "Verses and Offertories for Christmas" by R. Hillert (Augsburg Fortress 11-2055), which covers all three Nativity services. After the Verse at Holy Communion on Christmas Day, the hymn "We Praise, O Christ, Your Holy Name" (LW 35, LBW 48, TLH 80, WS 708) may be sung. This hymn is freely based on an 11th-century sequence for Christmas as considerably expanded by Martin Luther.

Hymn Suggestions for the Christmas Season

The vast heritage of Christian hymnody is most rich in the area of the birth of Jesus Christ and the mystery of the incarnation. Instead of offering suggestions for the specific services, a chart is offered here covering most Christmas hymns and carols known to Lutherans. Great care should be taken in choosing hymns for the various services that texts match the subtle nuances of each service.

Supplemental Hymns

If you wish to broaden the Christmas hymnody of your parish or choir, these contemporary hymns by Timothy Dudley-Smith might be useful:

Chill of the Nightfall
Not in Lordly State and Splendor
O Prince of Peace

They are available in Lift Every Heart by Timothy Dudley-Smith (Carol Stream: Hope Publishing Company, 1984).

Another possibility is "An Uneasy Carol" by Fred Kaan; contact Hope Publishing Company for copyright information.

Daily Prayer

For the purposes of the Daily Prayer of the Church, days and seasons begin on the evening, as it seems to us, before the day. The season of Christmas therefore begins with Vespers (Evening Prayer) on December 24 and continues through Matins (Morning Prayer) on January 5. However, many of the propers for Daily Prayer for Christmas are shared with Epiphany and so their use continues through the season of Epiphany.

Seasonal Invitations, antiphons, and versicles for Daily Prayer appear on p. 289 in Lutheran Worship and p. 175 in Lutheran Book of Worship. In addition, the Christmas Invitatory for Matins is found in Lutheran Worship: Altar Book, p. 42. The antiphons may be sung to a psalm tone, the Invitations to the music given on LW, p. 237, and LBW, p. 132, and the Christmas versicles to the music given on LW, p. 250, and LBW, p. 142. Both service books recommend psalms for use in Daily Prayer for each day of the season (LW: Altar Book, p. 127; LBW, p. 178). The Benedictus is the preferred morning canticle, and the Magnificat the preferred evening canticle. The Service of Light makes Evening Prayer a particularly attractive service for this season, especially if the people are given individual candles, which are lighted during the Hymn of Light ("Joyous light of glory").

Suggested office hymns for Christmas are the following:

Canticles

The three canticles most clearly associated with the Nativity are Gloria in excelsis, the Hymn of Praise in the Divine Services; Benedictus, the Gospel Canticle at Matins and Morning Prayer; and Magnificat, the Gospel Canticle in Vespers and Evening Prayer. Each of these is a celebration of the incarnation of the Son of God. Choral settings of these include:

Phos hilaron

The themes of light and darkness, so much a part of the testimony of John concerning Christ, the Light of the world, are developed in Phos hilaron ("Joyous light of glory") in the Service of Light in Evening Prayer, suggesting special treatment of this ancient lamp-lighting hymn during the Christmas season. Quempas Celebration

The singing of the Quempas Celebration is a delightful custom dating from the Middle Ages. The celebration consists of three carols: Quem pasores (from which it obtains its title), Nunc angelorum, and Resonet in laudibus. The full Quempas appears at LW 54, LBW 68, and WS 718. LW offers these directions:

During a short prelude on the Quempas four groups of children station themselves in the four corners of the church. Group A sings the first phrase of the Quempas (preferably unaccompanied), group B the second phrase, group C the third phrase, and group D the fourth phrase. (This symbolizes the announcement of Christ's birth to the four corners of the world.)

While the adult choir sings the first stanza of the Nunc angelorum, the children move to new stations. Congregation, choirs, and available instruments then join in the refrain Resonet in laudibus. The remaining stanzas are sung in the same way.

Further suggestions and historical background are offered in The Quempas Carol (CPH 98-1518, Unis./SATB; CPH 98-1747, Unis./SAB).

Service of Lessons and Carols

This service, with different lessons from the Service of Advent Lessons and Carols, is appropriate any time during the Twelve Days of Christmas or as an evening Epiphany service in connection with the burning of the Christmas greens. A prepared service of lessons and carols for the Christmas season, The Road to Bethlehem (Praetorius, M./Schalk, C.), is available from CPH (97-6358). Resources for such a service are most readily available in The Book of Occasional Services (New York: The Church Hymnal Corporation, 1979), including texts of the traditional bidding prayer in both traditional and contemporary form and an extensive list of Biblical readings from which nine (or seven) can be chosen. Two possible versions of this service follow.

THE NATIVITY OF OUR LORD

The First Service *

THEME "The light of Christ illuminates our life"

We are a people walking in darkness, but on this night a great light shines upon us. God "caused this holy night to shine with the brightness of the true Light" (Collect). "In the mystery of the Word made flesh [God has] given us a new revelation of [His] glory" (Preface). God's holy angels are sent to proclaim the good news. "Today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you" (Luke 2:11). Not only for the ancient people of God but for all nations has the Savior appeared. "Ascribe to the Lord, O families of nations, . . . the glory due His name; bring an offering and come into His courts. . . . Tremble before Him, all the earth" (Ps. 96:7-9). God's glory bursts on the world and peace is given to those on whom His favor rests. A child is born, a son is given. He comes as the awaited King. "Of the increase of His government and peace there will be no end" (Is. 9:6, 7). For that peace, He gave Himself so He might ransom us and purify us for God's service. While we wait for the fulfillment of our hope, God purifies us so we may lead upright lives in the midst of our unrighteous age (Titus 2:11-14). To celebrate Christmas is to share in the light and to reveal that light to the ages.

THE NATIVITY OF OUR LORD

The Second Service

THEME "The Word makes His dwelling in the midst of the world"

"When all was still, and it was midnight," God's almighty Word descended from the royal throne (LW, Introit, The First Service). The display of glory, the adoration of the shepherds, and all the wonders of Christmas night are ended. The Second Service, the principal service of Christmas, invites us, like Mary, to ponder all these things. The prophet summons the watchmen to raise their voices and proclaim the coming of the Lord's salvation to His Zion. In response we eagerly burst into songs of joy. The Lord has redeemed us, His people (Is. 52:8, 9). "Light has sprung up for the righteous." The Lord Most High has revealed Himself as the King (LBW, Ps. 97:11, 9, 1). Despite the unbelief and rebellion of humanity, God in His gracious will has decreed that the nations will become the inheritance of the Son (LW, Ps. 2:8). The Child so humbly born today is in fact the very radiance of God's glory and the exact representation of God's being (Heb. 1:3). In the beginning, John writes, all things were made through Him. He is the life and light of the world. What the world cannot understand, we have come to know and believe by the testimony of God's witnesses (John 1:3-7).

THE NATIVITY OF OUR LORD

The Third Service *

THEME "Heaven and earth burst forth in jubilant song."

The message of the angels brings the shepherds (representatives and signs of "The Holy People, The Redeemed of the Lord" of all ages and nations who will follow them) to the Light (Is. 62:12). This Shepherd's Liturgy invites us to pass through the gates of our church into the joy occasioned by the Lord's proclamation of the birth of His Son. With voice and musical instrument we sing a new song to the Lord. We shout for joy to Him. We burst into jubilant song so God's righteousness may be revealed to the people of the earth (Ps. 98:1-4).

He saves us, not because of righteous things we have done, but because of His mercy. Through Baptism by water and the Spirit (who overshadows us in grace as Mary was once overshadowed) we are empowered to worship the Child and become heirs having the hope of eternal life (Titus 3:5-7).

The liturgy for the three services of Christmas permits us to delight in the wonders of the Child, but we are always led beyond sentiment and nostalgia to the fulfillment of God's purpose: that we be made His holy people.

THEME "Out of Egypt I called My Son"

In each of the three series of lessons provided for the First Sunday after Christmas, the Gospel presents episodes from the childhood of Jesus. In Series A (based largely on the Gospel according to Matthew), the Gospel tells of the flight of the Holy Family into Egypt. The inability of darkness to understand the Light reveals itself in Herod's hostility and will ultimately lead to Christ's death. Some dreams hold terror; some hold hope. Joseph's dream brought him both: fear for the life of a son and hope in the enduring purposes of God (Matt. 2:13-15). Jesus, the true Israelite, was to be summoned out of Egypt, the land of the dead, to find life for the house of Israel. Even after Herod was dead others would seek His life. Already at Christmas the shadow of the cross is felt, and the radiance of Easter's morning light is seen.

The Old Testament reading is a beautiful meditation on God's love for His people whom He redeemed from their distress by the sending of His Son (Is. 63:9). All that happened on Christmas, the flight into Egypt and the return, Jesus' ministry, His suffering and His victory were in accordance with the plan of God so we might become members of His household. God calls us sons and daughters; we say, "Our Father," and take our place as heirs (Gal. 4:4-7). God's works are great; His deeds, glorious and majestic. We gather on this day to cause His wonders to be remembered by the upright. To Him belongs praise eternally (Ps. 111:1-4).

It is usually difficult to have a choir in each service of the Christmas season. Since it is unlikely that the congregation will sing the full range of Christmas hymnody, consider having soloists from your choirs sing Christmas hymns and carols during this time.

NEW YEAR'S EVE

The Eve of the Name of Jesus (LW)
December 31

THEME "He shall be given the name Jesus, because He will save His people from their sins."

The Collect of the Day skillfully draws together the two emphases of the liturgy for this night: the changing of the years and the name of Jesus as a revelation of God's salvation. Through the years God has cared for His people, a truth revealed in His care for Abraham and Sarah to whom He promised a home in a land like the garden of the Lord. In time heaven and earth as we know them will pass away, but God's promise and salvation will remain forever (Is. 51:2, 3, 6). God's love is guaranteed. He did not spare His own Son, who was named Jesus because "He will save His people from their sins" (Matt. 1:21). Jesus died and was raised to life for us. He continually intercedes for us. We know that the passing of time, or even the very end of time, cannot separate us from the love of God (Rom. 8:32, 39). With the psalmist, we marvel that God continues to be mindful of His human children through the ages (Ps. 8:4).

CODA

New Year's Eve presents a problem for LW worship planners because the propers provided for December 31 emphasize the name of Jesus but the people's expectations are concentrated on the changing of the year. A name sometimes given for the night of December 31, Watch Night, suggests a solution to this problem. The church's way of watching is the vigil, a service of Scripture reading, psalmody, and prayer. A brief vigil on New Year's Eve appropriately would include Scripture readings that concern time and the work of God in time. Using materials from LW or LBW, a service for New Year's Eve could follow this order:

1. Service of Light (LW, pp. 250-53; LBW, pp. 142-44)

The Christmas versicles can be sung to the same music provided for the common versicles. Two office hymns suggest themselves as alternatives for "Joyous light of glory": "O Lord of Light, Who Made the Stars" (LW 17, LBW 323, WS 703, CW 31) and "O Savior of Our Fallen Race" (LW 45, LBW 49).

NEW YEAR'S EVE ((LW)

2. Vigil

Ecclesiastes 3:1-15 For everything there is a season
Psalm 90 [Sung to a psalm tone or another setting]

Collect

2 Corinthians 5:17—:2 The acceptable time
Psalm 63 [Sung to a psalm tone or another setting]

Collect

Announcement of the baptisms during the year now ending

Announcement of the marriages during the year

Announcement of the deaths during the year

(Other lessons and psalms may be chosen over the years.)

3. Holy Communion

Beginning with Gloria in excelsis. The propers for New Year's Eve in LW or The Name of Jesus in LBW are used. In view of the Vigil, the Old Testament Reading and Psalm of the Day may be omitted. Although LW and LBW do not direct the use of a dismissal hymn at Holy Communion, at this service the ministers and people might withdraw in recession as a hymn is sung. They may then greet each other in the narthex with good wishes for the coming year.

NEW YEAR'S EVE (LBW)

December 31

THEME "We have been born again through the living and enduring word of God."

The Word was born in accordance with the Word of the Lord, which stands forever (1 Peter 1:25). "Time, like an ever-rolling stream, soon bears us all away," but the everlasting Father who is always the same has spoken favorably so that we, the children of His servants of old, shall continue and stand fast in His sight (Ps. 102:27, 28). Yet through the years the Master of the vineyard comes and seeks fruit. For the love of His Son, God remains patient in the event of our unfruitfulness (Luke 13: 7, 8). He has planted well; He nourishes us; He will not prematurely uproot us. This merciful patience is manifested in the birth of His Son. By right He summons us to turn away from the sins of the past, to return to Him and bear the fruits of repentance and faith in response to His generosity (Jer. 24:7).

NEW YEAR'S DAY

The Circumcision of Our Lord (LW)

The Name of Jesus (LBW)

January 1

THEME "God's people are marked with His covenant promise forever."

Circumcision is a mark of the ancient agreement between God and His people Israel. It marked both the promise and the burden of membership in Israel. Jesus came among His people, subject to the same Law as given to Israel, to set humanity free from the condemnation of the Law. He "made himself nothing, taking the very nature of a servant, being made in human likeness. And being found in appearance as a man, He humbled Himself and became obedient to death—even death on a cross!" (Phil. 2:7, 8).

The Lord's circumcision is a sign both of the legitimate force of the Law and of the sacrifice that would be required for Christ to deliver us from it. Today Jesus is given a name appropriate to His task. God put His name on Israel and thereby blessed them (Num. 6:27). Those who bear His name become inheritors of His promise. We take the name of the Holy Trinity on ourselves in Baptism. We invoke the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit each time we make the sign of the cross in remembrance of that Baptism by which "Christians are first marked with the cross and washed in the name of the Holy Trinity" (LW: Altar Book, pp. 26, 29). Because Jesus shed His blood on our behalf, God has given Him a name that is above every other name. The true circumcision of the spirit is given us, making us pure and enabling us to bow in worship and faith before Jesus, the Son of God and Son of David (Phil. 2:9-11).

* Congregations that have already used Psalm 8 on December 31 may consider using Psalm 67 on this day. Because Romans 1:1-7 was read on Advent 4 in Series A, it is recommended that the Philippians 2 reading be chosen for today. The addition of verses 15 through 20 to today's Gospel will clearly establish the context of the circumcision and naming of our Lord and emphasize the Gospel's position as the principal reading.

THEME "Christ is the very Word made flesh."

Today's liturgy repeats and enriches themes already presented during the Christmas season. The Gospel, indeed, is the same noble, contemplative prologue to John's Gospel that is read on the morning of Christmas Day.

In the Incarnation God has made Himself like us according to our physical nature so that our human nature might be restored to holiness (John 1:10-14). In fact, His chosen people have been predestined that we might enter the heavenly realms as His adopted children (Eph. 1:3-5). The reading from Isaiah suggests the theme of God's marriage to Israel, a theme that will add richness to our celebration of The Epiphany of Our Lord. By God's saving work we are adorned in the beauty of His righteousness and given a new name. Though the Lord has shown His power and majesty in every manifestation of the natural creation, He reveals His mercy in His dealings with His people. He reveals the way of life in His word to Jacob; He blesses His people with peace (Ps. 147:12-20). In accordance with God's goodness, we who gather to anticipate the royal nuptials in our Eucharist have been declared the crown of God's splendor and the royal diadem in His hand (Is. 61:10; 62:2, 3).

EPIPHANY

Not even so rich a feast as Christmas prepares the worshiper for the opulence of Epiphany. At first glance, Epiphany may seem simple and direct: the Magi offer their worship and sacrifices to the Child born on Christmas. But Epiphany is much more.

Epiphany is about Christ's birth; it is the nativity celebration of the East.

Epiphany is about the Magi, the coming of the Gentiles, as the prophets had proclaimed, to offer gifts as a sign of the end of the division of humankind and the acknowledgment by the nations of Israel's God.

Epiphany is about the Baptism of our Lord. Jesus is the true Israelite who crosses the waters of Jordan, conquers the ancient serpent, readies for the baptism of His death and resurrection, is identified as the Lamb of God, declared God's Son and Servant, and anointed by the Holy Spirit with kingly gifts.

Epiphany is about Cana, its water turned into wine in anticipation of the wine of the new covenant, the espousal of Christ to the Church, and the eschatological wedding of the Lamb.

All this is a part of the history and meaning of the festival. Epiphany is a celebration fit for an Eastern monarch. Everything is in abundance, and a new surprise is hidden behind every veil. Orderly western minds have separated these themes and fixed them to Christmas Day, Epiphany Day, the First Sunday after Epiphany (Baptism of Our Lord), and the Second Sunday after Epiphany (Cana in Series C). Yet, they remain permanent and essential aspects of the festival itself. The historical events we celebrate are the rays of God's glory in history within which He reconciles Himself to us and us to Him. The Light of the world has come, and the glory of the Lord has risen on us. God's Light bathes the feast and drives away all darkness. The festival, indeed, has been called the Feast of Light.

The word "Epiphany" refers to the appearance of a god among mortals. The same word was adapted to describe the visit in state of a king to a favored city. He was greeted with pomp. Days were spent in feasting and revelry, all at the king's expense. He granted generous gifts and gave tokens of his favor. All this was his "epiphany." The epiphany of Jesus is the Lord's gracious appearance to His people with signs and wonders and favors given at His own expense.

The season of Epiphany opens with the splendor of the festival on January 6. The ancient character of Epiphany Day and the significant role it plays in presenting the Biblical keys to an understanding of Christ's person and work should encourage every congregation to celebrate the festival on January 6 even when it falls on a weekday. If the festival is not celebrated, it remains merely something after which Sundays are counted. (Where sufficient reasons exist for not keeping the festival on January 6, a congregation may consider celebrating it on the Second Sunday after Christmas.)

The First Sunday after Epiphany is the Festival of The Baptism of Our Lord. As for Epiphany Day itself, the color for the Baptism is white. We see Christ rise out of the waters of Jordan and the Spirit anoint Him, and we hear the Voice from heaven declare Jesus to be the Beloved Son. This is a very appropriate day on which to celebrate Holy Baptism. By Baptism new sons and daughters are adopted by God into His family. That family (the congregation) ought be present at baptisms. "Private" baptisms are an anomaly.^{*} With or without baptisms, the font on this day at least should be filled with water, and Baptism should be a focus of the service.

The same Voice and words heard at the Baptism of our Lord close the season on the last Sunday after the Epiphany, Transfiguration. On that day Jesus is bathed in the heavenly light proclaimed on Epiphany. Indeed, Jesus is revealed to be the glory of God. Appropriately on this day the color is again white.

The Sundays between the Baptism and the Transfiguration are "green" Sundays, ordinary Sundays as distinguished from festival Sundays. Green is the color of life and growth in the church. The Sundays after Epiphany partake of the same character as those after Pentecost. On these Sundays the principle of continuous reading is followed for the Epistle (1 and 2 Corinthians) and the Gospel of the year, Matthew, Mark, or Luke. The readings from 1 and 2 Corinthians in Series A, B, and C offer a look at the life of the early church when Jew and Gentile met, clashed, and were formed by God into the "new people" of Christ. The Old Testament readings set forth the Scriptural foundations of the images that formed Israel's expectation of the Messiah. The Gospels present the call of the first disciples and the teachings and signs that reveal Jesus to be the Messiah announced by the prophets. The springtime of the Kingdom, however, is already unsettled by the hint of the storms of opposition to come.

The three "-gesima," or Pre-Lent, Sundays have been suppressed in the reform of the calendar, not only by Lutheran Worship and Lutheran Book of Worship but by most recent service books. Their propers now appear elsewhere in the three-year series. The "-gesimas" began as an introduction to Lent and gradually became an extension of Lent. The newly extended Epiphany season affords us additional access to materials that highlight the teaching and healing ministry of Jesus. The Lenten season stands in clearer relief.

For further reading on this season, see the listing on p. 42.

WORSHIP PRACTICE

Hymn of Praise

At Holy Communion throughout the Epiphany season "Glory to God in the highest" is the appropriate Hymn of Praise.

^{*} Baptism is the act of the whole church. In Baptism the congregation pledges itself to the faithful nurture of the newly baptized and welcomes them "as fellow members of the body of Christ, children of the same heavenly Father." Active participation in the baptismal liturgy also serves to remind the members of their own baptism and of the baptismal character of all that the church does. LW and LBW both wisely direct: "Baptism should be celebrated within the chief service of the congregation. When extraordinary circumstances require baptism at other times, a public announcement should be made at the service the Sunday following." (LW: Altar Book, p. 32; LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, p. 30)

Gradual

The appointed Gradual for the season of Epiphany combines Psalms 117 and 96:8. Settings of the Psalm 117 portion include:

Oh, Praise Our God * Schuetz, H. * SATB * CPH 98-2539; also in Ten Psalms from the "Becker Psalter", CPH 97-6303

Oh, Praise the Lord, All Ye Nations (We Praise Thee, Part I) * Willan, H. * SSA * CPH 97-7564

The metrical version of Psalm 117 is "From All That Dwell Below the Skies," LW 440, LBW 550, TLH 15, CW 250.

Other Hymns

If you wish to broaden the Epiphany hymnody of your parish, these resources might be helpful:

Oxford Book of Carols—ed. Percy Dearmer, R. Vaughan Williams, Martin Shaw (London: Oxford University Press, 1928). See especially 141, "The January Carol," and 173, "Golden Carol." "Rise, Shine"—Wood, Dale. Hymn insert from Augsburg 7421 H.

Daily Prayer

For the purposes of the Daily Prayer of the Church, Epiphany begins with Vespers (Evening Prayer) on January 5 and continues through Vespers (Evening Prayer) on the Tuesday before Ash Wednesday. A more festive treatment of Daily Prayer should be given during the "white" days, from Epiphany through Saturday morning of the week of The Baptism of Our Lord and again from Saturday evening before The Transfiguration of Our Lord through that Tuesday evening.

Seasonal Invitations, antiphons, and versicles for Daily Prayer appear in LW, pp. 288-89, and in LBW, pp. 174-75. In addition, the Epiphany Invitatory for Matins is found in LW: Altar Book, p. 42. The antiphons may be sung to a psalm tone, the Invitations to the music given in LW, p. 237, and LBW, p. 132, and the Epiphany versicles to the music given in LW, p. 250, and LBW, p. 142. The common Invitations and versicles may be used on the green Sundays. On the green Sundays, to broaden the congregation's means of offering prayer, Responsive Prayer 1 (LW, p. 270; LBW, p. 161) may be used as an alternative to the usual prayers at Matins and Morning Prayer. Responsive Prayer 2 (LW, p. 273; LBW, p. 164) may be used as an alternative to the usual prayers at Vespers and Evening Prayer.

Psalms for Daily Prayer are offered in LW: Altar Book, p. 127. The four weeks for "General" use are intended for use during Epiphany. However, this listing follows the monastic practice of consecutive reading of the psalms without particular reference to day or hour. This method may be useful for private recitation or for small groups that regularly gather for devotions. The public worship of the congregation and family worship are better served by a distribution of the psalms selected for their content; for such a list, see LBW, p. 178.

For suggested office hymns, see specific festivals and Epiphany 2, pp. 121-125.

Canticles

As noted in the introductory material on Service Resources, p. 12, a canticle may be sung by a cantor, the choir, or the people following the Psalms selected for Matins (Morning Prayer) and Vespers (Evening Prayer). This canticle is selected for its appropriateness to the season or hour. It should be a canticle other than the Gospel Canticles appointed (Benedictus or Te Deum at Matins, Magnificat or Nunc dimittis at Vespers). This custom is especially commended for the most festive celebrations of the year.

A canticle associated with Epiphany is Surge, illuminare ("Arise, shine, for your light has come"), drawn from Isaiah 60. It would be most appropriate on the festivals of Epiphany, Baptism of Our Lord, and Transfiguration. For a list of choral settings, see The Epiphany of Our Lord, p. 111. It may also be sung to one of the psalm tones.

Surge, illuminare

Arise, shine, for your light has come, *
and the glory of the Lord has dawned upon you.
For behold, darkness covers the land; *
deep gloom enshrouds the peoples.
But over you the Lord will rise, *
and His glory will appear upon you.
Nations will stream to Your light, *
and kings to the brightness of Your dawning.
Your gates will always be open; *
by day or night they will never be shut.
They will call you, The City of the Lord, *
The Zion of the Holy One of Israel.
Violence will no more be heard in your land, *
ruin or destruction within your borders.
You will call your walls, Salvation, *
and all your portals, Praise.
The sun will no more be your light by day; *
by night you will not need the brightness of the moon.
The Lord will be your everlasting light, *
and your God will be your glory.

Glory to the Father, and to the Son, *
and to the Holy Spirit;
as it was in the beginning, *
is now, and will be forever. Amen.

(Canticle text from The Book of Common Prayer of the Episcopal Church in the United States.)

Entrance Rite Optional

Early in its development the Divine Service began directly with the readings. As time went on the Confession, Introit, Kyrie-Litany, and Hymn of Praise were added. These constitute what is now known as the Entrance Rite. It is useful from time to time to remind the people of the difference between the essential core of the liturgy and the later additions. Sometimes good reasons also exist for a shorter service. Omission of part of the Entrance Rite is one way of doing this. During the "green" period of the Epiphany season, for example, the Kyrie-Litany might well be omitted.

THE EPIPHANY OF OUR LORD

January 6

THEME "The unapproachable light has come"

"Arise, shine, for your light has come, and the glory of the Lord rises upon you" (Is. 60:1). Epiphany exalts in that glory of the transcendent God who enters the world and showers His own light upon us. He has sent us His only-begotten Son and in Him, found in fashion as a man, has manifested the fullness of His glory (Preface). Epiphany celebrates the end of the ancient division between Israel and the Gentile nations. It is Israel's glory that the nations will come to her Light (Is. 60:3). Paul declares this to be a mystery revealed to him by God. Through the preaching of the Gospel, the Gentiles will become heirs together with Israel, members together of one body and sharers together in the promise (Eph. 3:3, 6, 8). Like the Magi, we follow the light of the star and gather today to worship Christ. Most of us who worship in the churches of our land are among the Gentiles called to God's salvation against all reason in these last days. We offer our greatest treasures in our worship, but none of them are as rich as the gift of salvation God has given us. He judges us in righteousness, defends us in our affliction and causes righteousness to flourish among us. "May His name endure forever" (Ps. 72:10, 11, 17).

CODA

The Gospel of the Magi lends itself to dramatization by the children and youth of the congregation. This offers the younger members of the congregation an opportunity to make a special contribution to the service. At the Offertory, "kings" (and "queens") wearing crowns may bear an offering of gold, incense, myrrh, the money gifts, and bread and wine to the chancel.

THE EPIPHANY OF OUR LORD

Following the Gospel on this day, the Announcement of the Church Year may be said or sung. The Announcement prepares the worshipers for the Lent-Easter time that will shortly begin.

Dear Sisters and Brothers, we have celebrated with great joy the birth of our Lord Jesus Christ. Now, by the mercy of God, I am able to announce to you the happiness which will come from the Resurrection of our Savior. ____ (date) ____ will be Ash Wednesday, the beginning of the holy season of Lent. On ____ (date) ____ we shall celebrate with joy the holy Festival of the Resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ. ____ (date) ____ is the Day of the Ascension of Our Lord, and ____ (date) ____ the Day of Pentecost. ____ (date) ____ will be the First Sunday of the Advent of our Lord, to whom be honor and glory, now and forever. Amen.

A social hour after the liturgy may include the burning of Christmas trees and a "farewell to Christmas" in which the people sing the Christmas carols and hymns for a final time.

Another option in doing the Psalm for this day would be one of the metrical versions:

Hail to the Lord's Anointed (LW 82, LBW 87, TLH 59, CW 93)
Jesus Shall Reign (LW 312, LBW 530, TLH 511, CW 84)

THE BAPTISM OF OUR LORD

Epiphany 1

THEME "All righteousness is fulfilled in Jesus' baptism."

The glory of Epiphany shines upon the King, the true Son of God. He has been chosen by God and set upon the throne. He reigns in righteousness and rejects all wickedness. He has been anointed by God's Spirit in full, sweet-scented measure. He rules in the company of friends made noble by His presence; His royal bride, the Church, sits beside Him in the place of honor (Ps. 45:7-9).

Moved by love for the Father, Jesus, the Servant of God, entered the waters of Baptism. The voice of the Lord moved over the waters of the Jordan and declared Him the chosen Son. The Holy Spirit came upon Him and anointed Him in kingly fashion. So God evidences His delight in His faithful Servant. Now Jesus opens the covenant for the people of the nations. He opens the eyes of the blind and releases them from their darkness, to be set in the light of the Kingdom of God (Is. 42:1, 6, 7). In this God shows no favoritism. He accepts people from every nation who fear Him and do what is right (Acts 10:34, 35). He has given us the name of daughter or son. We are empowered to produce fruit in keeping with repentance, turning to God and away from the darkness. In the Small Catechism Luther reminds us that the Christian life is one of a continuing baptism (Small Catechism: Holy Baptism IV). Daily we are to be plunged into the waters that drown sin; by faith we rise to fruitful lives. God catches us up in the salvation His Servant brings to the world.

Office Hymns for The Baptism of Jesus

For office hymns, see the listings under The Epiphany of Our Lord, p. 111. In addition, a suitable office hymn from an outside source is found below.

CODA

This is a very appropriate day on which to celebrate Holy Baptism. If the font is located in a space of sufficient size, the service might begin with the congregation gathered around the font for a recollection of Baptism. The confession of sins and forgiveness could be conducted at the font. On this day children can be encouraged to visit the font at which they were baptized with their parents and sponsors.

If Morning Prayer is used, that office can close with the Paschal Blessing, itself a "visit" to the font in which we first share in Christ's death and resurrection. The Paschal Blessing celebrates Christ's victory over death and our incorporation into that victory. The Paschal Blessing is led by the ministers at the font. If space permits, the congregation may be invited to come to the font. At the blessing the presiding minister may dip a small branch of evergreen into the font and sprinkle the people as a sensory reminder of their baptism.

If the Easter Vigil is not yet celebrated in a congregation, this day provides an opportunity for a renewal of baptismal vows. A form such as this can be used:

The Renewal of Baptismal Vows

Presiding Minister:	Dear friends, we are buried into Christ by Baptism into His death, and raised with Him to newness of life. I call upon you, therefore, to renew the solemn promises and vows of Holy Baptism, by which we once renounced the devil and all his works and all his ways and promised to serve God faithfully in the Holy Christian Church.
Presiding Minister:	Do you renounce the devil?
Congregation:	I do renounce him.

Presiding Minister: Do you renounce all his works?
Congregation: I do renounce them.
 Presiding Minister: Do you renounce all his ways?
Congregation: I do renounce them.
 Presiding Minister: Do you believe in God, the Father Almighty?
Congregation: Yes, I believe in God, the Father Almighty, maker of heaven and earth.
 Presiding Minister: Do you believe in Jesus Christ, His only Son?
Congregation: Yes, I believe in Jesus Christ, His only Son, our Lord, who was conceived by the Holy Spirit, born of the virgin Mary, suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, died, and was buried. He descended into hell. The third day He rose again from the dead. He ascended into heaven and sits at the right hand of God, the Father Almighty. From thence He will come to judge the living and the dead.
 Presiding Minister: Do you believe in the Holy Spirit?
Congregation: Yes, I believe in the Holy Spirit, the holy Christian Church, the communion of saints, the forgiveness of sins, the resurrection of the body, and the life everlasting.
 Presiding Minister: Almighty God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who has given you the new birth of water and of the Spirit and has forgiven you all your sins, strengthen you with His grace to life everlasting.
Congregation: Amen.

In addition to the hymn suggestions above, general baptismal hymns may be sung if your parish uses this day for a Baptism festival.

Following is an office hymn suitable for The Baptism of Our Lord; it is in public domain. A somewhat similar hymn, "The Sinless One to Jordan Came," can be found in English Praise: A Supplement to the English Hymnal (London: Oxford University Press, 1975). Both texts work with the tune Puer nobis (LW 14, LBW 36, TLH 63, CW 6).

1. From wilderness to Jordan came
 The final Prophet to proclaim
 That Judgment soon was to begin
 To punish Israel for their sin.
2. Although of Abraham's descent,
 Since all have sinned, all must repent,
 And, like the Gentiles, undergo
 A baptism, and its import show.
3. But when Christ came, no judgment dire
 Did He pronounce with venging fire;
 Himself the baptism underwent,
 The sinless, perfect penitent.
4. On Him the Spirit as a dove
 Descended, and the Father's love
 Voiced His approval that the Son
 Mankind's salvation had begun.

5. All glory, Lord, to You we pay
For Your Epiphany today;
And to the Father tribute bring,
As by the Spirit here we sing.

EPIPHANY 2

THEME "Behold the Lamb of God"

All they wanted, the two men said, was to know "Where are you staying?" Jesus gave them their wish, and so much more. God entices us with the little we know of the truth; He intends to lead us from one bit of the truth to the next until finally the Truth possesses us. Jesus was more than the rabbi whom the disciples of John acknowledged Him to be. Andrew and Peter were led on to recognize Jesus as the Messiah (John 1:37-41), and their lives were forever altered. They joined the company of those who would proclaim the presence of the Lamb of God to distant nations.

God's servant was appointed to restore the tribes of Jacob and to be a light for the Gentiles (Is. 49:5, 6). The salvation He brought to the world is revealed to us through newer disciples by Word and Sacrament in our liturgies. Like the Corinthians, we have been enriched in every way by the Christ who was endowed with the Holy Spirit at His Baptism. The spiritual gifts we have received following Christ's epiphany to us in Baptism are to be used in diaconal ministry, witness and worship as we wait for the Lord's final epiphany (1 Cor. 1:5-8). As we wait we put our trust in the Lord. His plans for us exceed all we dare expect (LW, Ps. 92:4, 5). He has transformed us into His likeness. His will has become our delight. In our assemblies, we bear witness to one another about His faithfulness (LBW, Ps. 40:4, 5, 9-11).

* General notes concerning the lessons for the period from the Second through the Eighth Sundays after Epiphany are given in the introduction to the season (p. 107). Worship planners should note that the lessons from 1 and 2 Corinthians in Series A, B, and C are read semicontinuously. No direct relationship is intended between the readings from Corinthians and the other two lessons. Because Holy Scripture presents a unified witness to God's redemptive work, correlations will be found. However, the second lesson should not be squeezed into an artificial unity and harmony of the three readings.

THEME

"The light of Christ nullifies the abyss of darkness."

The Verse for today is a fanfare summoning us to expectant attention for the Gospel, as it succinctly sums up the ministry of Jesus in Galilee of the Gentiles. "Jesus went throughout Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, preaching the good news of the kingdom, and healing every disease and sickness among the people" (LW, p. 24). Once dishonored, now honored by the appearance of Christ, scorned Galilee is chosen by God as the seat of salvation (Is. 9:1; Matt. 4:23). In like fashion God had chosen former slaves to be His very own people (Amos 3:2), and Jesus chose the first disciples from among the disregarded folk of Galilee—Peter and Andrew, James and John.

So also Christ has summoned us who are of low degree. He has scattered the darkness in which we lived and has shown us the Light of the world. "The Lord is my light and my salvation—whom shall I fear?" (Ps. 27:1) One thing we ask of the Lord: that we may dwell in His house all our days (Ps. 27:4). When brothers and sisters are divided by false allegiances, however, our security is threatened. Christ is not divided. The Light casts no shadows. There is not one light for some and another light for others. The wisdom of the worldly wise divides. The preaching of the cross of Christ ends all divisions among those who gather on the Lord's Day to follow Christ (1 Cor. 1:10, 13, 17).

THEME "God's people delight in the Lord their God."

Untaught by God's Spirit, we seek towers to build so we may make some noble show of obedience. Yet, Micah says, the Lord seeks three lowly things of His people: to act justly, love mercy, and walk humbly with our God (Micah 6:8). The wisdom of the wise scorns such lowly things, but God chooses the lowly and despised things of the world to shame such wisdom. God's wisdom is demonstrated in Christ Jesus—our righteousness, holiness, and redemption—so all our boasting will be in the Lord and not in ourselves (1 Cor. 1:26-31). Jesus continues God's quest for a holy people and demonstrates that true holiness turns the heart away from self-indulgence and self-seeking. The Spirit-filled heart delights in God's humility. The kingdom-centered heart conforms to Jesus' own poverty of spirit, His hungering and thirsting after righteousness, His mercy and single-minded devotion to God's will even in the face of derision and threat (Matt. 5:1-12). The people of God find their delight, therefore, in God's will. The waters of life refresh them daily, enabling them to bear fruit and to endure even the withering winds that blow across the desert of this age (Ps. 1:1-4).

THEME "Gifted with God's grace, we share His grace with others."

Ritual observances are never a substitute for the fulfillment of God's will. While fasting has its rightful place in the disciple's life, such ritual observance must be an honest reflection of a life given to God (Is. 58:5-7). We find motive and instruction for such a life in God's statutes, in which the humble delight (Ps. 119:24). God's commandments are a light for the upright; they lead the disciple to act with mercy and compassion (Ps. 112:4). In such ways the congregation of God's servants seasons the world and shines God's light into the darkness. That light and glory have appeared to us in Christ Jesus. Like Peter (Epiphany 2), we have been brought to see the Messiah; we have answered His call and believe. Our faith rests not on human wisdom but on God's power (1 Cor. 2:5). Whoever follows Jesus will not walk in darkness but in the light of life, for Jesus has come not to abolish the Law and the Prophets but to fulfill them (Matt. 5:17). Our eyes are opened so we may see wonderful things in God's law (Ps. 119:18). Three things God desires of us (Epiphany 4). These are seen fully in the works of Jesus (Epiphany 3, 4, 5), and are signs of God's compassion and revelations of His nature. The Righteous One grants us the righteousness that surpasses that of the Pharisees and the teachers of the law so we may loose the chains of injustice from the oppressed and share our food with the needy.

THEME "God is made known to us by the Spirit."

"Lord, to whom shall we go? You [alone] have the words of eternal life" (Verse). Hearing and seeing Jesus enables the disciple to make this confession. Faith does not come by the wisdom of the world, but only by the revelation of God's thoughts by the Spirit (1 Cor. 2:10-12). A choice between life and death is continually set before us. The choice we make reveals itself in our conduct. Life is found in love of God, attention to His voice, and fidelity (Deut. 30:15, 16, 20). When Christ is in us, He makes it possible for us to do this by controlling our thoughts and actions. His Spirit must inform our spirit, for our righteousness cannot be limited to a shallow observance of the letter of the Law. Our righteousness must be like that of Christ, a loving searching out of the will of God. To that end we hide God's Word in our heart, and so the wisdom of God revealed in Christ transforms our relationships with others (Ps. 119:11). We are made God's salt and God's light in the world (Epiphany 5).

THEME

"The truth of Christ is revealed in the depth of mercy and compassion."

Many followed Jesus when He appeared a wonder-worker to them. His words about the Father's wisdom drove some away in disappointment. The dramatic works that revealed Him to us from Epiphany through Epiphany 3 have been displaced since Epiphany 4 by serious talk about the way disciples follow the Anointed One. God's Spirit has anointed us, too, and we have been made God's temple, the locale from which He reaches out to the world (1 Cor. 3:16). The God who dwells within us is holy in all His being and all His ways (Lev. 19:2). Therefore, the disciples of Jesus are to be perfect (Matt. 5:48).

In the language of the temple, we are to offer ourselves as sacrifices in response to the graciousness of God. Our lives will not be taken from us, however, by a priestly knife. God does not seek our blood. "As a father has compassion on his children, so the Lord has compassion on those who fear Him." "He forgives all [our] sins and heals all [our] diseases" (Ps. 103:13, 3). Our sacrifice is to live in a way that is holy and acceptable to God. As God loves us to the giving of His Son, the disciple is to set aside his or her passions and self-centeredness. The neighbor must be cared for as the disciple cares for self (Lev. 19:18, Matt. 5:43-45). Such love is not some giddy emotion but the same thoughtful and self-giving concern for the neighbor's well-being that God shows to us.

THEME "There is resolve to anxieties through Word and Sacrament."

Epiphany reveals God's presence among us and makes known the mystery of salvation. Depending on our own wisdom, we inevitably misunderstand His will for us. We are hardly able to judge the things of God for ourselves (1 Cor. 4:5). However, we are not to teeter back and forth between the light and the darkness. We cannot serve two gods (Epiphany 7). Those who serve God seek first His kingdom and His righteousness. Then they are able to see their lives and needs in correct perspective and place their trust in the Lord at all times (Matt. 6:33, 34). God has revealed His secrets to us; we must prove faithful. We may at times forget Him, but as a mother cannot forget the baby at her breast, God will never forget a single child of His among the multitude of people (Is. 49:15). His anger will not consume us for our forgetting of Him, for His compassions never fail (Is. 49:13). Our congregational Holy Communion displays that compassion to us in abundance. Comforted by His absolution, nourished by the body and blood of His Son, and refreshed by the Word of revelation, our souls find rest in God, certainty and hope (Ps. 62:1, 2, 5).

THE TRANSFIGURATION OF OUR LORD

Last Sunday after the Epiphany

THEME

"We shall be eyewitnesses to the unsurpassing glory of the transfigured Christ."

On Mt. Zion, God installed sons of David as shepherd-kings to guide the people. As the Scriptures prophesied, David's greater Son is today revealed as the Beloved Son (Ps. 2:7, 12). He has obediently set upon the road that will lead Him to Jerusalem to die and to be raised again. The glories of the Epiphany have receded from our worship in the last few weeks. Today, suddenly, just before we set out on the Lenten road, the glory of the Lord bursts forth again. The death of the transfigured Christ is God's great glory and wisdom. Once again, as at the Baptism, the Father speaks: "This is My Son, whom I love; with Him I am well pleased. Listen to Him!" (2 Peter 1:17, Matt. 17:5)

The cloud of God's glory, which earlier overshadowed another mountain to accompany the giving of a covenant (Ex. 24:12, 15, 16), now descends on Jesus as He prepares to establish the new covenant through His blood. The transfiguration of Jesus not only confirms the testimonies of the ancient fathers but foreshadows our adoption by grace in the new covenant (Collect). "We know that when He appears, we shall be like Him" (LBW, Offertory). We attend to "the word of the prophets," confirmed in Christ "until the day dawns and the morning star rises in [our] hearts" (2 Peter 1:19). (The propers for the day set our salvation in the larger context of God's saving work. The Gospel is not an excuse for discussion of subjective "mountain-top experiences" or for berating Peter for allegedly misunderstanding the transfiguration.)

CODA

On this day, a "farewell to Alleluia" may be sung at the close of the liturgy. The Wednesday following Transfiguration is Ash Wednesday, and Alleluia is not sung from that day until Easter. This 11th-century hymn, translated by John Mason Neale, is a traditional farewell to Alleluia.

Alleluia, Song of Sweetness

1. Alleluia, song of sweetness, Voice of joy that cannot die;
Alleluia is the anthem Ever dear to choirs on high;
In the house of God abiding Thus they sing eternally.
2. Alleluia thou resoundest, True Jerusalem and free;
Alleluia, joyful mother, All thy children sing with thee;
But by Babylon's sad waters Mourning exiles now are we.
3. Alleluia cannot always Be our song while here below;
Alleluia our transgressions Make us for awhile forego;
For the solemn time is coming When our tears for sin must flow.

TRANSFIGURATION

4. Therefore in our hymns we pray Thee Grant us, blessed Trinity,
At the last to keep Thine Easter in our home beyond the sky,
There to Thee forever singing Alleluia joyfully.

The hymn is usually sung to Tantum ergo but may be sung to Picardy.

An attractive banner bearing the word "Alleluia" may be carried through the church as the hymn is sung, solemnly rolled up, and laid away until Easter when it is unfurled and carried through the church in triumph. Children may be invited beforehand to prepare banners, simple and inexpensive, bearing the word "Alleluia." These can be placed into a special chest as the hymn is sung. They may be hung up to decorate the church for the first service of Easter. In earlier days, in some places "Alleluia" was actually placed into a casket and buried, not to be unearthed again until Easter.

LENT

The Spirit of the Season

"You bid Your people cleanse their hearts and prepare with joy for the paschal feast. Renew our zeal in faith and life, and bring us to the fullness of grace that belongs to the children of God" (Preface for Lent). No other liturgical text offers a clearer or more concise statement of the purpose and theme of Lent. The word lent has its origin in the same root as one of the German words for "spring," Lenz. As nature awakens from the death of winter, so the Christian finds newness of life in Christ, rising from sin's death.

Lent is a time in which God's baptized people cleanse their hearts through the discipline of Lent, described as repentance, prayer, fasting and almsgiving. Lent is a time for growing into Christ by concentration on our Baptism, so that the obstacles set in the way of God's grace by our old nature may be removed by His Spirit and we may be signs of God's kingdom in the world. It calls for a greater openness to the Word of God, zeal in joining the congregation in worship and sharing in the Holy Communion, and conversion in every area of faith and life that we may walk in the Gospel of Christ.

The prophets (Isaiah 58:5-9a, Epiphany 5, Series A; Joel 2:12-19, Ash Wednesday) call God's people to a true repentance that requires an honest and specific facing of the evil in their lives, both collectively and individually. Not only our heart but our entire being must conform to the righteousness of God. Christian people adopt such bodily disciplines as prayer, self-denial and works of love not to earn God's favor (which in any event they have by grace) but because "when Christ says (Matthew 4:17), 'Be penitent,' he is surely talking about total penitence and total newness of life and fruits." Fasting, that is, self-denial, is the action opposed to our enslavement to the attractions of this world. Almsgiving, works of love, is the way we share the results of our growing freedom with our neighbors who also need our help. Both fasting and almsgiving facilitate prayer that sets before God our concern for the well-being of others and assist our listening for God's Word of grace and His intention for us.

Lent is a time in which God's people prepare with joy for the paschal feast. Lent is a 40-day journey toward a very specific goal. That goal is the annual celebration of our Lord's pascha, that is, His passover through death to life. Beyond is the pentecost, the 50 days of paschal celebration. Pascha is the ancient Christian name for both the old and the new Passover. It comes from the Hebrew name pesach. Our English title Easter has its source in another root which suggests the idea of the East, the place of the dawn.

Lent had its origins in the church's baptismal discipline. Several weeks before the Easter Vigil candidates for Baptism were enrolled by the bishop. They underwent intensive catechesis, attended the liturgy frequently (although they were excluded from the Communion, being dismissed after the sermon) and were encouraged to live lives exemplified by the works of repentance, prayer, fasting and almsgiving. They were baptized at the Great Vigil of Easter. They sought a share in Christ's pascha, being buried into His death by Baptism and joining in the festive meal, the Eucharist.

Baptized persons guilty of serious sin submitted themselves to a time of deep repentance during the same period of Lent. They confessed their sin to their bishop and accepted excommunication, that is, exclusion from the Holy Communion, until Maundy Thursday. During Lent they too attended more faithfully upon God's Word, expressed their penitence and relived the disciplines that led to Baptism. On Maundy Thursday they were reconciled with the church, the congregation acknowledging the sincerity of their repentance by offering prayer for their forgiveness. The reconciliation was sealed by their readmission to the Sacrament of the Altar on that night in which Jesus had first given the fruits of His holy cross to His disciples in bread and wine.

INTRODUCTION TO LENT

The final stage in the development of Lent as we know it came when Christians not guilty of serious sin but nevertheless desiring for themselves the gifts of God's grace voluntarily undertook to renew their Baptism. Luther notes, "repentance . . . is nothing else than a return and approach to Baptism, to resume and practice what had earlier been begun but abandoned." Today all the people of God take up the journey to Jerusalem in spirit. Careful study of the readings for Lent reveals the content of the classic pre-baptismal catechesis. The Gospels, particularly in Series A, unfold the church's teaching of the catechumens as they prepared for a share through faith in Christ's victory. The Preface for Lent reminds us that our preparation is one of joy. Lent is not covered by a pall of gloom. Our sins have been great, but the outcome of our Lenten preparation is not in doubt. God has called us His sons and daughters in Baptism. His promises are sure. We prepare in confidence for the certain triumph of Christ in us.

In a society in which more and more people enter maturity unbaptized and great segments of our population remain unevangelized, many Christians see close parallels between the time of the early church and our own age. As a result, several denominations have reinstated the Lenten catechumenate for adults who seek admission to the church. In all congregations, whether they are exploring this renewal of the catechumenate or not, our contemporary Lent remains shaped by that old baptismal discipline. Lent still retains the power to summon back to the sources of life in Christ many who have been alienated from the church and whose faith has wavered.

Lent is a time in which God renews His people's zeal in faith and life. Through the death and resurrection of Christ we are delivered from sin and death. By the power of the Spirit we are led to faith, and through faith to life. Lent has been a time of renewed participation in Word and Sacrament. Congregations offer extra opportunities for Christian people to assemble and share the Word and Holy Communion with each other. Lent is a time for retreats and prayer hours, for the practice of meditation and reflection on the gracious will of God for His people.

Lent is a time in which we pray that we may be given the fullness of grace that belongs to the children of God. Baptism begins a life-long process of dying and rising again, as Luther teaches in the Small Catechism. Baptism is not only an event but a continuing process which does not end until we enter the grave for the final time and God raises us up to perfected life. The nearness of Christ's passion and death renews our awareness during Lent that all we have is given by God's grace; we are beggars before God. During Lent we turn to God so that the work which He began in us may result in our growth into His image. We are not content with marginal faith but seek for ourselves the ending of the power of sin, death, and the devil in us and the fullest realization of God's salvation. Having been baptized, we thereafter seek the living waters and cannot rest until we drink from the water of life that runs from the throne of the Lamb.

"Lent is a harsh season, yet deep and somehow calm: bittersweet. It begins in ashes and the sign of the cross. It ends by the font when the church baptizes. For all of us, Lent means living up to our baptism."

The focus of Lent, then, is not first of all the passion of our Lord, but Baptism. Lent is not an extended Holy Week. The sacrifice of Christ is always at the heart of our faith, life and worship, but Holy Week, rather than Lent, is the time when the passion of Christ becomes the focus of the liturgy. Lent points the Christian to and seeks to prepare her or him for the Vigil of Easter and so for the Fifty Days of Easter. "It is this centrality of Baptism that the church is trying to restore to the liturgy by making the Easter Vigil the fulcrum of the Lent-to-Pentecost path the child of God takes." *

Preparation for the celebration of Lent begins with preparation for the liturgies of the Three Holy Days, that is, the services from the Divine Service of Maundy Thursday night through Evening Prayer of Easter Day. The next step is preparation for the Great Fifty Days of Easter and the services that culminate on the Day of Pentecost. Then the planner of worship can most profitably turn to the services of Lent. Lent should not be permitted to overshadow the Easter celebration. The riches of these 90 days should not be exhausted during the season of preparation. The test of our celebration of the days of Lent is the way we celebrate the Three and Fifty Days.

The Challenge of Ritual

For some individuals Lent, the Three Holy Days and Easter present a special problem. The churches in America have generally absorbed the customs clustered around Advent and Christmas, but the same is not true for the traditions gathered around this cycle. The churches are very much in the midst of a process of rediscovery and assimilation. For various cultural reasons many American Christians are suspicious of ritual practices. In many instances they are unaware of the way ritual provides order, meaning, and stability to their lives, so they look suspiciously at ritual in worship suggested by worship leaders. On the other hand, they may be excessively addicted to the ritual to which they are accustomed but may not recognize as ritual.

Such individuals frequently suspect that ritual masks an indifference to the inner content of the faith or a romantic fascination with the irrelevant past. The prophets and our Lord Himself, of course, made it plain that such danger exists. Yet daily life and worship alike depend on ritual. Whether we kneel or stand to pray, whether the minister is vested in traditional liturgical garb or not, whether ashes are imposed or withheld, ritual is always being celebrated. Not performing a certain ritual is already a ritual action. The real issue then is whether the ritual used reflects the inner faith and life of the people. Will it sustain and nurture piety or will it misguide that piety?

Since they are aware of this problem, worship planners can prepare themselves for the inevitable questions and possible suspicion. Making oneself more aware of the nature and function of ritual is a first step.^{*} Our assessment of the congregation's strengths and weaknesses in faith, discipleship and worship will suggest ways to utilize the strengths in meeting the needs. Introducing the imposition of ashes on Ash Wednesday, for example, without a prior understanding of the ways the congregation experiences confession and forgiveness may not be at all wise or even meet the essential needs of the people. Worship leaders should seek first to experience a new rite for themselves, if at all possible, before introducing it. Analysis of their own responses will help them determine what work needs to be done and how to make possible a favorable response. We have, after all, not properly worshiped simply because the ministers were in the right places and the music was performed competently. Long-range planning is important. Introduction of the Easter Vigil may require several years of work in the pulpit, classroom, discussion groups and Sunday liturgy. To celebrate the Vigil requires the creation of a new world of perception and feeling.

Good worship cannot thrive on the flat, unimaginative and materialistic base provided by our common culture. What is needed are renewed ways of looking at God's creation and the wholeness of the human personality, and at the richness of the Scriptural witness to the wonder of God's creating, redeeming, and sanctifying work. Worship leaders are engaged in the task of tearing aside the veil modernity has put over the eyes of worshipers. The basic units of worship are the Spirit-filled words, actions and symbols we have been given. They make salutary ritual possible. At no other time than during the great cycle of Lent,

Holy Week, and the time of Easter do we come closer to the meaning and power of those words, actions and symbols. We are challenged to do our best with them. We can encourage ourselves with the fact that all does not have to be accomplished in one year. And beyond that, we find hope in the knowledge that finally it is the Spirit within God's saints which groans with us in this travail.

The Shape of the Season

Custom speaks of the 40 days of Lent. We are reminded of Moses' presence before the Lord on Sinai for 40 days, the 40 years in which God led Israel in the wilderness, Elijah's 40-day fast on his pilgrimage to Horeb, and, of course, our Lord's fast of 40 days. Sundays are not counted because fasting is not appropriate to the day of the Lord's victory. Therefore, Sundays are carefully designated as Sundays in Lent, not of Lent.

The Gospels for each day set forth the chief themes for the Sunday. They must be read, however, in view of the coming Easter Vigil when the candidates for Baptism are plunged into the waters of death and life and when the faithful renew their own baptismal experience. The Gospels read during Lent reflect the way in which the church catechized during the flood tide of conversions in the Mediterranean world. The Old Testament readings are generally related to the Gospels typologically. Typology was a favorite catechetical and homiletical device in the early church. A "type" is a saving act or sign given by God under the covenant with Israel which, seen retrospectively, was considered a foreshadowing of a similar but fuller redemptive act by Christ. From these saving acts believers draw insight into God's will for them. This method of interpretation can be seen most clearly in Series A but is used in Series B and C as well.

Ash Wednesday begins the season with a call to participation in the Lenten journey. "The mood of the Ash Wednesday service is one of penitence and reflection upon the quality of one's faith and life. . . ." In the past the Fourth Sunday in Lent was given special treatment. Known as "Refreshment Sunday" because of the traditional Gospel of Christ's feeding of the multitude, the day was marked by a lessening of the severities of the season before the faithful undertook the final severe weeks of Lent. The day no longer has this special character for us. Our Lent is hardly so severe that it needs relaxing. Furthermore, the old Gospel is no longer read on Lent 4 but appears in a series of readings from John 6 during the Time of the Church in Series B. Minor festivals occurring during Lent are generally minimized; however, the Annunciation of Our Lord (March 25) provides an opportunity to link the incarnation and the paschal mystery which ought not be lost.

Liturgical Practice During the Season

From Ash Wednesday on, the use of the organ and other instruments may be restricted to support for the singing of the congregation and choir. Crosses, statues and pictures may be veiled by opaque purple or unbleached fabrics. Gauze should not be used, since the intention is to conceal the object from our vision. During Lent a processional cross of more humble material and design may be substituted for the cross used throughout the year. Flowers are customarily not placed in the chancel during Lent.

INTRODUCTION TO LENT

The color for the season is purple, suggesting sobriety. The "Lenten array," paraments and veils made of unbleached linen fabric decorated with dark red ornamentation, is a traditional alternative to purple. Black is the preferred color on Ash Wednesday, although purple may be used.

Lent is a good time to encourage use of the sign of the cross at the Invocation. "The sign of the cross is made in remembrance of Baptism, when Christians are first marked with the cross and washed in the name of the Holy Trinity."

On Lent 1 the Litany may be sung or said in procession as the Entrance Rite. This may also be done on other appropriate occasions during Lent. The Litany may also be used as a separate office during Lent. The office begins with the invocation, one or more psalms, a lesson and a hymn. The Litany follows. The office closes with appropriate collects, the Lord's Prayer and a blessing.

Lent is an opportunity for the celebration of Corporate Confession and Forgiveness (Absolution). This characteristically Lutheran custom is the forerunner of our rather diminished custom of communion announcement. A schedule of such services gives the church an opportunity to offer the call to repentance and the sweetness of absolution in a more personal manner. Shrove Tuesday is a good day for such a service. This order appears in LW: Altar Book, pp. 383-84 (rubrics, pp. 33-34) and in LBW: Minister's Desk Edition, pp. 318-21 (rubrics, pp. 33-34; propers, p. 191). The reintroduction of this custom will require preparation on the part of the pastors of the congregation and sustained guidance for the congregation. Only ordained ministers may preside at this service.

Ash Wednesday

On Ash Wednesday the entire liturgy should be celebrated with a note of austerity to reflect the character of the day. Ash Wednesday is a day of solemn corporate confession when the congregation laments the sins of God's people and commits itself corporately to assist each member in preparing for a godly celebration of the death and resurrection of Christ in liturgy and life.

Music before and after the service should be omitted on this day. The ministers may enter in silence without hymn or psalm. The service may be spoken in large part. Those portions of the service that cry out to be sung, such as psalms and canticles, may be sung. Silence during distribution is appropriate. The ministers also leave in silence after the service. Black chancel hangings (the preferred use) will serve to emphasize the solemnity of the day. Purple is an alternate color on this day.

Both the name "Ash Wednesday" and ancient tradition suggest the imposition of ashes on this day as a reminder of our human frailty and mortality and as a sign of our repentance, sorrow and need for grace. The ashes are prepared by burning the palms used the previous year on Passion Sunday. The ashes are sifted, mixed with just enough olive oil to help the ashes adhere to the skin, and placed in a shallow dish. During the Ash Wednesday rite (p. 164), the people are invited to come forward and kneel. The minister, using his thumb, marks the cross on each person's forehead with the ashes.

The Holy Communion should surely be celebrated on this day. The schedule of services ought to be reviewed to determine whether the living patterns of the congregation make it impossible for some to attend an evening service. Additional services should be offered if necessary.

Preferably the service should begin with a liturgical celebration of the congregation's commitment to a worthy celebration of Lent; see those suggested in LW: Agenda (pp. 15-19) and LBW: Ministers Desk

Edition (pp. 21-22, 128-31). See also Philip H. Pfatteicher and Carlos R. Messerli, Manual on the Liturgy: Lutheran Book of Worship (Minneapolis: Augsburg, 1979), pp. 305-9; and From Ashes to Fire: Supplemental Worship Resources 8 (Nashville: Abingdon, 1979), pp. 34-49. The necessary liturgical and musical material should be included in the service folder, together with interpretative material so the congregation may participate with understanding.

LENT RESOURCES

Omit Alleluias

The church in the East has gone one way, the church in the West, another. Alleluia continues to ring out during Lent in the Eastern liturgy, but in the West Alleluia is not sung until it announces the resurrection of the Lord at the Vigil. The proper Verses during Lent all omit Alleluia. The common Verse, "Lord, to whom shall we go," is replaced by "Return to the Lord, your God." Hymn texts should be examined for Alleluia. If an appointed psalm contains Alleluia, the words "Praise the Lord" can generally be substituted. The absence of Alleluia makes us conscious of the Lord's loss on our behalf. Its return at the Easter Vigil stirs our joy.

Omit Hymn of Praise

At the Divine Service the Hymn of Praise, Gloria in excelsis ("Glory to God in the highest"), is omitted. During the most solemn times of the year the church holds to an older way of doing things. The absence of the Gloria reflects earlier times when that hymn had not become a part of the liturgy. "Worthy is Christ" is not an appropriate choice during Lent because of the text's paschal character. Divine Service I (LW) permits the use of "The Royal Banners Forward Go" (LW 2). This text is more appropriate during Holy Week than at the beginning of Lent. The absence of the Hymn of Praise still speaks more loudly of the nature of the season than does the substitution of texts.

Alternate Versions of the Kyrie and Agnus Dei

The Lenten season is a good time to use alternate versions of the Kyrie and Agnus Dei. Such versions include:

Kyrie—LW 209; LBW 168, 96; TLH 6; CW 266

Agnus Dei—LW 7, 208; LBW 1, 103; TLH 146, 147; CW 268

Choral settings of both the Kyrie and Agnus Dei abound. These include:

KYRIE

Daily Prayer

For the purposes of the Daily Prayer of the Church, Lent extends from Matins (Morning Prayer) on Ash Wednesday to Vespers (Evening Prayer) on Holy Saturday. The orders for Daily Prayer should provide the usual services for midweek worship during Lent. They need not be elaborately done. One or two psalms appropriate to Lent or the time of day may be sung in addition to Psalm 95 or 141. (For psalms, see LW: Altar Book, p. 127, or LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, p. 96.) One or two lessons may be selected that relate to the readings presented on the previous Sunday, or those lessons may be repeated. A complete set of weekday lessons highlighting Lenten themes may be found in Lesser Feasts and Fasts (New York: Church Hymnal Corporation, 1980), pp. 21-53. No special godliness, virtue or efficacy is associated with cleverly devised series of lessons based on a popular theme. In these services, it is not desirable that a complete set of three lessons be read, in imitation of the Divine Service, nor does the congregation rise for the reading of a lesson from the Gospels.

For Matins and Vespers during Lent, LW: Altar Book (pp. 40-69) provides an Ascription of Praise, an Invitatory, and two Responsories for Lent. For Morning Prayer and Evening Prayer LW (p. 290) and LBW (p. 176) provide an Invitatory for Lent and Versicles for the Service of Light, to be sung to the usual music. Antiphons of the season are also provided for psalms and the Benedictus and Magnificat (antiphons are not sung with the Te Deum). Alleluia is not sung following the Gloria Patri in Daily Prayer. The appropriate Gospel Cantic in the morning is the Benedictus and in the evening, the Magnificat. At the litany in Evening Prayer, in the bidding "For the faithful . . . let us give thanks," the response, "Alleluia," is changed to "To you, O Lord." The great Litany (LW, pp. 279-83; LBW, pp. 168-73) can be used very appropriately as the Prayer in Matins, Morning Prayer, Vespers, or Evening Prayer. Following the final Kyrie (LW, p. 283; LBW, p. 173), Matins concludes with one of the collects (LW, pp. 220-21), the Lord's Prayer, Benedicamus and the Blessing. Morning Prayer concludes with the prayer for preservation (LW, p. 242; LBW, p. 136), the Lord's Prayer, Benedicamus and the Blessing. Vespers and Evening Prayer conclude with the prayer for peace (LW, p. 260; LBW, p. 151), the Lord's Prayer, Benedicamus and the Blessing. The Paschal Blessing at Morning Prayer should be reserved for the Fifty Days of Easter.

Suggested office hymns for Lent are the following:

O Christ, Our King, Creator, Lord	—	101	—	—
O Lord, Throughout These Forty Days	92	99	—	—

Vespers (Evening Prayer) only

O Christ, You Are the Light and Day	—	273	559	—
-------------------------------------	---	-----	-----	---

Following are two additional office hymns for Lent (LM—88 88). Both are in public domain (source unknown). A suggested tune is Herr Jesu Christ, dich zu uns wend (LW 201, LBW 253, TLH 3).

Matins/Morning Prayer

- 1 O Christ, true Sun of righteousness,
Let dawn our darkened spirits bless,
The light of grace to us restore,
While day to earth returns once more.
- 2 This is th'accepted time when we Should mourn for our iniquity,
And let Your gift of pard'ning grace
Our grievous sinfulness efface.
- 3 Thoughts, words, and deeds we now review—
What we did ill, or failed to do—
And, as we would be pure within,
Repent, confess, and fast from sin.
- 4 Soon will that day, Your day, appear
And all things with its brightness cheer;
Then we, renewed, will celebrate
The vict'ry of Your risen state.
- 5 Let all the world from shore to shore
You, gracious Trinity, adore;
And may these forty days of Lent
In penitence and praise be spent.

Vespers/Evening Prayer

- 1 O Maker of the world, give ear;
That holy season now is here
When we, who discipline endure,
May from all evil find a cure.
- 2 Our sins are manifold and sore,
But pardon those who sin deplore,
And free us from its binding chain,
Who seek for You and turn again.
- 3 Teach us through self-control to find
In body and in heart and mind
A holy use of all You give
That we in richer joy may live.
- 4 Thereby for us this Lent may be
A time of growth in sanctity,
A time of walking in Your ways,
Throughout its holy forty days.
- 5 Let all the world from shore to shore
You, gracious Trinity, adore;
And may these forty days of Lent
In penitence and praise be spent.

Another suitable office hymn for this season is "The Glory of These Forty Days" (The Hymnal: 1940, 61).

Canticles

Daily Prayer may be enhanced by the addition of another canticle following the psalm. In effect the canticle becomes a second or third psalm. At Matins/Morning Prayer the canticle is ordinarily taken from an Old Testament text and at Vespers/Evening Prayer, from a New Testament text. Congregations with a limited repertoire of such canticles may find it helpful to set that tradition aside until they have learned a sufficient number of such canticles.

Two canticles commend themselves for use during Lent. Querite Dominum, "Seek the Lord while he may be found," is based on a portion of Isaiah 55. It appears in LBW 15 and can be sung to one of the psalm tones found in LW or LBW. Another setting is:

Seek the Lord * Hill, J. * Unis., cong. * Hinshaw HMC-262

Another useful canticle for Lent is Kyrie Pantokrator, a song of penitence drawn from the Prayer of Manasseh.

O Lord and Ruler of the hosts of heaven, *
God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and of all their righteous offspring:
You made the heavens and the earth, *
with all their vast array.
All things quake with fear at your presence; *
they tremble because of your power.
But your merciful promise is beyond all measure; *
it surpasses all that our minds can fathom.
O Lord, you are full of compassion, * long-suffering, and abounding in mercy.
You hold back your hand; *
you do not punish as we deserve.
In your great goodness, Lord, you have promised forgiveness to sinners, * that they may repent of their sin and be saved.
And now, O Lord, I bend the knee of my heart, *
and make my appeal, sure of your gracious goodness.
I have sinned, O Lord, I have sinned, *
and I know my wickedness only too well.
Therefore I make this prayer to you: *
Forgive me, Lord, forgive me.
Do not let me perish in my sin, *
nor condemn me to the depths of the earth.
For you, O Lord, are the God of those who repent, *
and in me you will show forth your goodness.
Unworthy as I am, you will save me, in accordance with your great mercy, * and I will praise you without ceasing all the days of my life.
For all the powers of heaven sing your praises, * and yours is the glory to ages of ages. Amen.

(Canticle 14 from The Book of Common Prayer [New York: Seabury Press, 1979], pp. 90-91.)

This also may be sung to a psalm tone. Another setting is:

The Prayer of Manasseh * Routley, E. * Unis., cong. * Hinshaw HMC-241

Settings of both Querite Dominum and Kyrie Pantokrator are available in The Book of Canticles (New York: Church Hymnal Corporation, 1979).

Lucien Deiss' "Keep in Mind," drawn from 2 Timothy 2:8-11, is also appropriate (Lucien Deiss, Biblical Hymns and Psalms, Vol. I [Chicago: World Library Publications, 1965]). It is available in LBW 13 and in Services of the Word: Contemporary Worship 5 (St. Louis: Concordia; Philadelphia: Board of Publications; Minneapolis: Augsburg, 1972), pp. 49-51.

ASH WEDNESDAY

THEME "Prepared for complete reconciliation in Christ Jesus"

"Now is the time of God's favor, now is the day of salvation" (2 Cor. 6:2b). Now! On Ash Wednesday the liturgy summons us to 40 days of preparation for the celebration of the Lord's pascha, His passage through the waters of death into life. Preparation for the Three Holy Days is a sign of a life committed to daily dying and rising. Preparation is a matter of urgency, not something to be put off. The bridegroom and bride are summoned to leave their bridal chamber! God hates nothing He has made. He forgives the sins of all who are penitent. Today the church "blows the trumpet" and summons all, both those who have followed Christ for many years and those who are just now seeking a place in His company, despite the urgency of daily demands, to cry out to the Lord, "Spare Your people!"

Repentance is a way of life. That life is characterized by "giving to the needy" (almsgiving), prayer, and fasting (self-denial). Faith is expressed in action; it is not merely intellectual exercise or emotional experience. Faith moves us to do the works of Christ. Faith is not a matter of public show but of communion with God and the giving of self as Christ gave Himself. Lent is not a burden but an opportunity for reconciliation with God, the washing away of sin, and the consecration of life to God.

CODA

For a full discussion of Ash Wednesday, its character and liturgy, see pp. 156-157.

An Ash Wednesday rite may follow this order:

Ministers enter in silence, led by the veiled cross.

An entrance hymn is not necessary, particularly when Psalm 51 is sung (as it should be) to begin the service.

Psalm 51

The psalm may be shortened to vv. 1-12 (LW) or vv. 1-13 (LBW). Either v. 1 or v. 17 (LW), or v. 18 (LBW), may serve as antiphon. The LW Introit for this day is from Psalm 51.

Address to Congregation (LW: Agenda, p. 15; LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, p. 129)

Litany (LW: Agenda, pp. 15-18; LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, pp. 129-131)

Imposition of Ashes

The people come before the altar and kneel. The minister marks the forehead of each person with the ashes. As this is done, the minister says to each individual, "Remember that you are dust, and to dust you shall return."

Prayer of the Day

Silence for reflection, or a hymn

The Divine Service (Holy Communion) then continues with the Old Testament Lesson. Since Psalm 51, the psalm of the day, was sung previously, Psalm 103:8-14 is sung or said between the lessons; verse 8 may serve as antiphon.

This rite may also be used following the sermon in this fashion:

The Divine Service (Holy Communion) then continues with the Offering/Offertory.

THEME "In baptismal confidence, we face the assault of Satan and struggle with temptation."

We have begun the Lenten pilgrimage. As Israel was led by God through the wilderness to the promised land, so the people of God's renewed Israel follow their Savior through the wilderness of this world to celebrate with Him the glory of the world to come (LBW, Prayer of the Day). On this first Sunday in Lent the cost of the pilgrimage is forthrightly given. Death and life are at issue. Those who are led by the Spirit to and beyond Holy Baptism are accosted by Satan who would reassert his lordship over them. For the catechumens who seek new life in Baptism at the Vigil and also for those who in Lent seek to live more fully in their baptism, the truth remains the same: Before we can share life with Christ, we must die with Him.

This is a Sunday of stark contrasts: the first Adam, the new Adam; the disobedience of the sons and daughters of Adam and Eve, the obedience of the Renewer of our race; the power of death, the power of life. This Sunday clarifies our need, so from the depths of our condition catechumens and the faithful alike cry out to the Lord who is our hope. We find redemption only in Him (Ps. 130:1, 5, 7-8). The way of Lent (and of life itself) will not be easy for us; God does not spare us. Indeed, it is the Spirit that leads us from the waters of Baptism to the wilderness where we must confront Satan's temptation. But we are not abandoned there. The angels of God's mercy minister to us. God is with us to direct, sanctify and govern our hearts and bodies in the ways and works of His commandments so we may be preserved in body and in soul (LW, Collect of the Day). We are sustained in this struggle by the knowledge that as death has reigned through the trespass of Adam and Eve, so God's abundant grace is ours through Jesus Christ (Rom. 5:17).

CODA

On this day the Litany (LW, pp. 279-87; LBW, pp. 168-73; TLH 661) may serve as the Entrance Rite. The ministers and people gather at a place apart from the nave of the church. The ministers lead the procession into the nave as the Litany is sung (or said). The Litany closes with the final Kyrie (LW, p. 283; the Lord's Prayer and Litany collects are omitted). The procession is timed so that as the Litany closes, the ministers and congregation are in their places in the church. The service then continues with the Collect/Prayer of the Day. If the structure of the church prohibits a procession with the people, the congregation may be seated and only the ministers process into the nave. The Litany has been associated with prayer during times of penitence and may be used at other occasions during Lent as well.

THEME

"Faith—God's Eternal Baptismal Gift"

Seven deadly sins threaten us, tradition teaches. Least feared by us, perhaps, but in our day a treacherous foe to the baptized, is acedia. Acedia (sloth is the traditional and not at all helpful translation) is the sin of indifference, ennui, the "I've been there and it isn't all that it's cracked up to be" attitude. So today the church urges us to consider Abraham, the father of all those who believe, and to whom, for his faith, Canaan was promised. Today we are encouraged to complete the journey we have begun to Canaan, a new Canaan, more than a land of milk and honey (Gen. 12:1, 5, 7).

The catechumens are urged today to complete the course so they may enter this Canaan. And we who have long been baptized ask God this Lent to confirm the promise once given lest we falter and find the gates closed to us. So that we may reach Canaan, we seek God's face. In our celebration of Word and Sacrament that face is turned toward us as we recall the wonders He has done for His people. In them, all who faithfully seek admittance to Canaan find hope (Ps. 105:4-5, 11). How dreadful for us if those to whom the promise has been given were to lose their place even as God's grace leads others into Canaan! The disciples certainly were astonished when they found Jesus talking to the Samaritan, one they felt sure was well outside the covenant, and a woman at that! They urged Him to eat, motivated by their love for Him, but Jesus had a greater food in which to find strength (John 4:27, 31-34). The woman had eaten of that food even as she drank of the water of life. The promise became hers. She became Abraham's true daughter even as some who claimed Abraham's dignity were cast aside. Abraham's true children are those who cling to the promise and follow God wherever they are led. To be among the baptized means to die to all the hopes given us by family and society and personal accomplishment, and to live by faith alone (Rom. 4:4-5, 16).

THEME "Rejoice as baptized children of light"

What better day than the Sabbath for God's salvation to touch the eyes of a blind person to give them sight? For the Pharisees the Sabbath was a test and a snare. Could the God-fearing person resist the impulse to transgress the Law? For Jesus the Sabbath was a glorious sign of the salvation God was working in and through Himself. Physical sightlessness was handicap enough for the people of His days on earth. Far more handicapping was the inner blindness of those who found no joy in God's uncalculated mercy, a mercy that delighted in filling the world with sight and sound so all might have intimations of the splendor of the eternal Kingdom.

The darkness around us is fearsome enough. The darkness within us causes us to blunder about and puts in jeopardy not just our shins but our souls. Darkness is an almost universal image of waywardness and self-destruction. Those seeking Baptism seek the light so they may leave the darkness. We who already have had light given to us desire that the shadows cast by our sin be driven out. Let it not be said of us, "Who is blind but my servant, and deaf like the messenger I send?"

(Is. 42:19). To fall back into the darkness is to surrender hope. In Lent all those who search for light are crying aloud to the Lord. Our sins beset us. They set snares for us. God alone provides an escape from darkness to the light (Ps. 142:1, 3-4, 7). Once indeed we were darkness but now we are to be the light of the Lord in this world of shadows. Let the catechumens know now the kind of life to which Baptism calls them. Let the penitent wake up from sleep into the light of Christ (Eph. 5:8, 14).

THEME

"Baptism is that gracious water of life that bathes us in the righteousness of Christ and gifts us with the Spirit of Life."

We are the baptized of God. By our baptism we are admitted into the household of God and graciously brought to His table to eat bread and drink from the cup and so share in the Meal over which Christ the Lord presides. The Holy Meal is the culmination of the rites of the Easter Vigil at which catechumens are plunged into the life-giving waters and at which all the faithful renew their share in Christ's death and resurrection. At that Meal, as at all celebrations of the Holy Eucharist, we are confronted with the mystery of the cup of which Jesus drank and of which He invites us to drink. That cup is filled with the bitterness of repentance, witness, service, and death. That cup is filled with the joy of the victory of God's Son and the triumph of the saints of God. To drink of that cup (which all of Christ's followers will surely do) always means sharing in the bitterness as well as the joy. Today the catechumens are cautioned about their future, and the penitent faithful are reminded that the way of Jesus leads not to a rose garden but to a crown of thorns before it leads to a crown of gold (Matt. 20:23, 26-28).

The Lenten road of return to the Lord annually leads us to the repentance that is our daily drinking of the Lord's cup. In that drinking we find healing and renewal (Hos. 5:15—6:2). The Spirit of Christ within us sets us free from sin and its child, arrogant death. To that end God sent His Son to whom we now belong by virtue of our baptism (Rom. 8:3, 9-10). Led by God's light and truth, we come to dwell with God in the presence of His altar. All our accusers are silenced because of our trust in God (LBW, Ps. 43:1, 3-4, 6). Because of the salvation He has given us, we praise Him. He is exalted, yet He has looked down on the lowly and preserves their lives (LW, Ps. 138:1, 6).

THEME

"Christ is enveloped in death that we may be embraced in eternal life."

Death and life are the issue in Lent: death that reaches as far back as our rebelling and life that springs forth from God who knows no death and would have no death. Yet there is death. Lazarus, friend of Jesus, in the wisdom of God died. Lazarus becomes the final Lenten sign of God's unceasing war against death. God's Son came to trample down death so people might have life. So today the catechumens learn a new dimension of the Baptism they seek. Baptism reaches from the font to the grave and beyond. Now, at the end of Lent, they and we await the dawning of Easter when the new life of Christ is announced. Now we await, also, the dawning of Christ in the east when His summons will crack open the tombs of the dead. Then the Spirit of the Lord will restore tendon to dry bone and cover flesh with skin. Then limp lungs will be filled with Spirit-breathed life. In the tombs where death once reigned, life will be victorious.

At the Easter Vigil the voice of the candidate will be heard by the Lord. He will strike from them the cords of death that entangle them. We feel ourselves to be overcome by the trouble and sorrow of human sin. We feel as though we are already among the dead. Yet the Lord protects those who turn to Him in confidence. He stills the struggles of Lent and life and will give our souls rest. In the resurrection of the Son our souls are delivered from death (LW, Ps. 116:1, 3, 6; LBW, Ps. 116:1-2, 5-8). The new life given in Baptism and renewed at the Holy Table lays an obligation upon us, one we should receive willingly. Those who put their hope in the resurrection of Christ from the dead are already now God's children and heirs. As the child shares in the fortune and work of the family, so we must share in Christ's suffering in this life in witness and ministry in order to share in His glory (Rom. 8:11-12, 15-17). These words are also words of life.

* The association of the readings from Ezekiel 37 and Romans 8 and the use of Psalm 116 on this day indicate very clearly that the reading of the Lazarus text is essential to the celebration of the Fifth Sunday in Lent in Year A. If pastoral necessity requires a shorter version of today's Gospel, John 11:17-45 may be read.

HOLY WEEK

The Spirit and Shape of the Week

No other week in the church year has so strong an aura of special devotion inherent in it than this week. That is as it should be, because the eight days from Passion (Palm) Sunday to Easter Sunday immerse us in the central mystery of God's work of salvation through the Lord's death and resurrection. This week is rich in grace.

Our understanding of the liturgies of the week, however, is not without some difficulty. Holy Week contains in itself not only the final days of Lent but also the beginning of the celebration of the Pasch of Christ. Holy Week falls into two distinct parts. Passion (Palm) Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of Holy Week, and the day hours of Maundy Thursday complete our time of preparation. The liturgies of these days are marked by a spirit of austerity. From our perspective portions of the liturgy appear to be omitted. Sometimes these omissions are explained as "penitential" in nature. These "omitted" portions, other than Alleluia, are among the later additions to the liturgy; their absence reflects the conservatism of the church and a reluctance to make changes in the liturgy during this holy period. The Holy Communion of Maundy Thursday night begins the Three Holy Days, or Holy Triduum, which is completed at Evening Prayer (Vespers) on Easter Day. The services of these days form a single unit of celebration of Christ's death and resurrection. The week thus faces both back to the very beginning of Lent, and forward to the 50-day celebration of the resurrection which is sealed on the Day of Pentecost.

Holy Week has grown from a one-day celebration of Christ's triumph. The three days we call Maundy Thursday, Good Friday, and Holy Saturday result from an expansion of that one festival. On each of these days one or more aspects of the original celebration was explicated. The celebration of Christ's entrance into Jerusalem on Sunday added another chronological element. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday filled in the missing days of the church's celebration of the final week of Christ's ministry of humility and service. Finally a two-week-long Passiontide was developed. "Passion Sunday" came two weeks before Easter and "Palm Sunday" the week before. This expansion to a considerable degree reflected the medieval emphasis on the suffering and death of Christ and a comparable de-emphasizing of His resurrection and victory.

The reform of the calendar and lectionary reestablishes the balance once more. Lent is a time of preparation for the paschal festival, now spread over three days. The two-week Passiontide is suppressed. Holy Week remains to emphasize the suffering, death and burial of the Lord. The reading of the Passion on Sunday and again on Friday supports this. The Passion according to Matthew, Mark or Luke becomes the center of the liturgy on Sunday, explaining the newer and highly appropriate title of "Sunday of the Passion," or "Passion Sunday."

One feature of Holy Week is the provision of propers for each day, the only week of the year for which this is done. (Future service books will probably give the same dignity to the seven days of Easter Week, which are equally worthy of this distinction.) The designation to be given such days as Ash Wednesday and the days of Holy Week is troublesome. "Festival" does not seem to fit them, with its suggestion of festivity. The designation given in some calendars is "Days of Special Devotion."

Liturgical Practice During Holy Week

The practices of Lent outlined in the introduction to the season (pp. 155-60) are maintained this week also, through the daylight hours of Saturday in Holy Week. The liturgical practices of Easter time replace Lenten practice beginning with the Easter Vigil on Saturday night.

The preferred color use for Passion (Palm) Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of Holy Week, and Maundy Thursday is scarlet, a dark red suggesting the blood shed by Christ. The ornamentation should be of a dark thread, such as black, rather than gold. If the altar ornaments are removed as a part of the Maundy Thursday rite, the altar should remain bare on Good Friday and Holy Saturday; if paraments are used on Friday and Saturday, Holy Week scarlet is preferable to black.

One or more opportunities should be offered during Holy Week for the celebration of Corporate Confession and Forgiveness (Absolution). This liturgy is a celebration of our Holy Baptism by which we are committed to a life of repentance and renewal. The order of service appears in LW: Altar Book, pp. 383-84 (rubrics, pp. 33-34), and in LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, pp. 318-21 (rubrics, pp. 33-34; propers, p. 191). Some congregations may also wish to offer opportunities for Individual Confession and Forgiveness (Absolution) (LW: Altar Book, pp. 385-86, rubrics on p. 34; LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, pp. 322-23, rubrics on pp. 34-35). Both liturgies are presided over by ordained ministers only. Introduction of these services, requiring careful preparation on the part of the ministers and patient instruction of the people, will make an important contribution to the piety of the congregation.

Palm Sunday (Sunday of the Passion)

The liturgy for Palm Sunday (Sunday of the Passion) must be planned with special care. Palm Sunday begins Holy Week, which by itself gives this liturgy great importance. In addition to this, the liturgy needs careful planning to give the proper weight to both emphases of the day, in the Procession with Palms and in the setting forth of the Passion of the Lord. Worship planners should consult LW: Agenda (pp. 35-37) and LBW: Ministers Desk Edition (pp. 22, 134-35).

On the previous Sunday the congregation should be notified that the Palm Sunday service will be longer than the ordinary service and that they should come somewhat earlier than usual to the place designated for the beginning of the Procession. During the week the ministers and musicians should rehearse the movement of the procession quite specifically. The Sunday school and parochial school should be alerted to the special role they are to play. Timing, preparation, brass bands, flags, and happy children make for a successful parade. Banners, brass instruments, actively involved children and careful preparation make for a successful Procession with Palms. If the procession leaves the church grounds, a parade permit may be needed as well as consultation with the local police department.

The procession should begin at some convenient place outside the church, weather permitting, or in the parish hall or another place where the people can gather. As they assemble, they should be given a palm frond (or some newly sprouted branch, such as willow) and a service folder. The service folder should be carefully prepared with all of the text, music and directions the people need to participate comfortably without anxiety about their part. Reprinting permission must be requested well in advance for materials under copyright.

HOLY WEEK

The Processional Gospel for the year (A, B, or C) is the preferred reading; if it was read as the Gospel on Advent 1, the John 12 reading may be substituted (LW: Agenda, pp. 35-36). The route of the procession may include stops at one or more landmarks, such as a cross, shrine, statue or painting, and at the entrance to the church. An appropriate collect may be said at such "stations," particularly at the entrance to the church or nave. Hymns and canticles with refrains commend themselves for use during the procession, the choir singing the verses and the people, the refrain. Some possibilities are "All Glory, Laud, and Honor" (LW 102, LBW 108), "Lift Up Your Heads" (LW 23, 24), "Fling Wide the Door" (LBW 32), and "Ride On, Ride On in Majesty" (LW 105, LBW 121). Singing frequently deteriorates as people go through entrances and on stairways, so church musicians may plan for a suitable choral or instrumental piece to be performed as the people enter the church and find their places in the nave.

If a procession is ruled out by the nature of the building or for some pastoral concern, the congregation should be given the palm and service folder as they enter the nave before the service and instructed to rise and turn to face the rear of the nave. The ministers may gather at the rear, read the Processional Gospel there, and then process down the aisle to the chancel.

Worshippers should be instructed that the palms are to be taken home and placed behind a crucifix or religious picture. If plans call for the imposition of ashes the following year, the congregation will be asked to return the old palms for that purpose before Ash Wednesday.

For the reading of the Passion the lectors should rehearse their roles in the place where they will read it. At least three readers are needed: the Evangelist/Narrator (possibly a woman because most of the lines are spoken by male characters), Christ (one of the ordained ministers, but not necessarily), and one or more persons for the other roles. The shorter form of the Passion may be read at some of the Sunday services in congregations having more than one service, but the complete Passion should be read at least at the "chief" service of the day.

The Passion is announced by the Narrator in this manner: "The Passion of our Lord Jesus Christ according to St. Matthew/Mark/Luke." The usual Gospel acclamations are omitted. The congregation sits following the announcement; they may rise for the final portion (Matthew 27:33; Mark 15:22; Luke 23:33). A time of silence may be observed at the words telling of Jesus' death (Matthew 27:50; Mark 15:37; Luke 23:46). The Passion narrative from each Gospel is available from Fortress Press (Philadelphia) in an inexpensive format; a copy should be placed in the hands of each worshiper.

The Passion may also be sung in a musical setting by the choir or cantors in keeping with an old tradition (see p. 202).

The service then continues as usual. Silence during distribution in Holy Week is especially appropriate. After the reading of the Passion, the music used should refer to the Passion rather than the entrance into Jerusalem.

THE THREE HOLY DAYS

At the very center of the church year stand the Three Holy Days, or Holy Triduum (triduum, Latin for "three days"). The Triduum is the annual liturgical celebration of the Lord's Pasch, or passover. The celebration of His death and resurrection is extended for the pentecost of days (50 days) stretching from Easter Day through the Day of Pentecost. Each Sunday, of course, is a weekly remembrance of Christ's victory also.

We are in a time of revival of the liturgical celebration of these three days in which we remember the death, entombment and resurrection of Christ. Many Lutheran congregations are unaware of the church's historic manner of celebrating these days. Nor is it only within Lutheranism that this has been true. By the time of the Reformation the church in the West had by and large only a distorted understanding of the ancient rites. The Reformers knew them only as rites that appeared to have little or no meaning, to be but vestiges of the past. The Lutheran churches, as they discontinued observance of the ancient rites, developed alternate ways of celebrating these days.

Where these alternate forms of observance are alive and vital, they should be respected and appreciated for the generations of Christians they have nurtured in the faith. However, the liturgical renewal movement of the past 100 years and especially the last 40 years has recovered the ancient forms and revitalized them with their inherent evangelical power. These rites proclaim the triumph of Christ and of God's grace in liturgy, psalmody, hymnody, Scripture and sacrament. The task of leaders in worship is to work toward the recovery of these services for the benefit of their congregations. In time, patterns of celebration can then emerge which will enable Lutheran churches to remain faithful to the catholic tradition which they rightly prize, and yet assist them in celebrating the Three Holy Days in a way that is reformed, renewed and related to the day and place in which they live. Disregard for past experience and uninformed innovation are not in the best interest of the church's worship.

Careful study is an essential first step for the worship planner. The planner must know not only the history and structure of the rite being planned but, more importantly, its inner spirit and purpose within the context of the year. Before making any changes in the celebration of the Three Holy Days, the planner must respect present forms of worship and the piety of the people who use them. Without that respect one cannot build on what is presently done. That which differs from the desired goal is not necessarily bad. It is a process of enrichment that is before us, not of censure. Patient education and preparation of the congregation must follow. Certainly the congregation is entitled to know what is prepared and why. This may call for references from the pulpit, special programs in the church's schools, musical previews, exposition of pertinent Scripture and preparation of teaching materials for distribution.

In the earliest times the Lord's passover was celebrated on only one day. With time the celebration was spread over the three-day period from the night of Maundy Thursday through the Liturgy of the Cross on Good Friday, the Great Vigil of Easter, and the liturgy of Easter morning to Evening Prayer on Easter. Worshipers, worship leaders, and planners will be physically tired but spiritually renewed at the end of the celebration. Is it all too much? Human beings need times of festivity, times when the difference between life in God's time is sharply contrasted with life in ordinary time. The labor of celebrating the Three Days imposes quite a different sort of fatigue than that which accompanies our usual day-to-day rushing about.

Maundy Thursday

Maundy Thursday receives its unusual title from the Latin mandatum, "command." The overarching theme of the day is the Lord's new command to His disciples: "Love one another. As I have loved you, so you must love one another." The world "will know that you are my disciples if you love one another" (John 13:34-35). Our Lord in this way provides to His own the significance of both the footwashing and the institution of the Supper on this last night of His pre-resurrection life. Indeed, His command sets forth the deep meaning of His crucifixion and rising again: God so loved the world that He gave His only-begotten Son, that all those who believe in Him would have eternal life. Maundy Thursday is not an "idea" festival on which Communion as an abstraction is celebrated, nor is it primarily "the birthday of the Sacrament." Maundy Thursday opens the celebration of the Lord's passover. The footwashing and the Supper are prefigurations of the death and final triumph of the Servant of God and the nature of the community into which we are baptized. For this reason the scarlet of Holy Week is the preferred color over white. Likewise, on this day it is better not to reintroduce festive elements suppressed during Lent, such as the Gloria and Alleluia, to create a little Easter in advance of the resurrection festival itself. Congregations that wish to keep the mandatum in the foreground of the day may choose to retain the footwashing Gospel for each of the three years. In that event these lessons are recommended: Exodus 12:1-14, Psalm 116:12-19 (LW) or Psalm 116:10-17 (LBW), 1 Corinthians 11:23-26 and John 13:1-15.

The liturgy of Maundy Thursday appropriately begins with the Liturgy of Reconciliation. (For an outline of this service, see Maundy Thursday Coda, pp. 217-18.) On Ash Wednesday the congregation committed itself to a pious observance of the 40 days of Lent, with renewed devotion to the assembling of God's people around Word and Sacrament and the daily dying to the old self and the daily rising of the new self as exemplified in repentance, prayer, self-denial and works of love. The time of preparation is now ended. The time of celebration is beginning.

The Liturgy of Reconciliation marks this transition. God's people turn to Him with thanksgiving for His gracious presence during the 40 days. We confess that we remain debtors to Him even after our Lenten observance. We have not loved Him above all others, nor our neighbor as ourselves. We confess our guilt before God and our neighbor. Together we receive forgiveness and then express the reconciliation with one another made possible by God's forgiveness. Thus united, we presume to celebrate the paschal mystery.

The liturgy continues with the Divine Service, beginning with the Prayer of the Day. The traditional readings for Maundy Thursday (p. 217) present the theme of the liturgy for the day most clearly. They combine the passover meal (the matrix of the Lord's Supper and, along with the whole exodus experience, a fundamental image for the whole Triduum), the institution of the Supper and the footwashing. (The lessons for Series A are closest to these traditional readings. The readings for Series B and C are secondary.) On Maundy Thursday Jesus proclaims to His disciples the meaning of His coming death and resurrection and the fruits of that "baptism" (Mark 10:38). Jesus' ministry from the first has been a footwashing ministry. By means of the footwashing He calls His followers to a life of honoring their neighbor more than themselves.

The footwashing was an embarrassment to Peter. So it remains today. We, too, do not want our feet to be washed. Our pride and desire for autonomy are threatened by it. Nor is it any easier for clergy today to accept the role of footwasher. Yet the action of footwashing has remained a powerful sign of Christ in the church. In some circumstances the custom has remained vital through the years; in others it has been successfully reintroduced. Efforts have been made to discover a contemporary equivalent, but this has proven difficult. Where for pastoral reasons it is deemed best to delay reintroduction of the custom, some other action of loving care for others is called for. An offering of food for the poor is an effective and meaningful act. The food may be brought to the altar as the bread, wine and money offerings are brought forward. This would certainly be an occasion where the people themselves, rather than their representatives, the ushers, should bring their gifts to the altar.

When the footwashing is a part of the liturgy, it follows the Gospel. The presiding minister is the minister of the footwashing, not someone from the congregation. Twelve representative persons are chosen in advance from the congregation. A chair, basin, pitcher of water and towels will have to be provided. During the footwashing, Ubi caritas et amor or a hymn derived from it is sung (see Maundy Thursday Coda, pp. 218-19). If the footwashing is not conducted, the same music may be used as the Offertory when the congregation is making some special sacrifice, such as food for the needy.

In earlier times it was the custom to clean and wash the church thoroughly in preparation for the paschal celebration. This practice is the origin of the third special feature of the Maundy Thursday liturgy, the Stripping of the Altar. Following the Post-Communion Prayer, the hymn "Of the Glorious Body Telling" (LBW 120) is sung as the communion vessels and linens are carried from the chancel to the sacristy or some other place. Then as Psalm 22 or Psalm 88 is sung or said, all the ornaments of the altar and chancel are removed. When the candles are extinguished prior to their removal, the lights of the church are dimmed. The psalms, together with their traditional antiphons, express the abandonment suffered by Christ that night. (LW Psalm 22:18 or LBW Psalm 22:17bc is the antiphon for Psalm 22. John 16:32 is the antiphon for Psalm 88.) Psalm 88 should be used if Psalm 22 will be used on Good Friday.

LW: Agenda suggests Psalm 51 as an alternative. On this night, as the darkness rises up against Christ, the church is emptied of its beauty and darkened. The congregation goes quietly into the night, to return on Good Friday to witness the Lord's death.

Some congregations conduct a Sedar following this liturgy. The Sedar can be a very helpful event in aiding Christians to better understand the original setting of the Holy Communion. Combining the Sedar and the Communion, to "Christianize" the Sedar, is problematic. The Passover was God's gift to Israel; the church did not attempt for long to maintain both the Passover and the Communion. In any event, such a unified service is not the proper liturgy for Maundy Thursday. Other congregations conduct an Agape meal on this night. They should remember that the favored potluck dinner at which only the members of the congregation eat and drink is not the same as the Agape which is conducted for needier people. On Maundy Thursday especially, it is good to remember Christ's admonition that we should invite to our dinners those who cannot repay us. An Agape for the elderly, shut-ins and residents of local nursing homes would be in keeping with the spirit of the day.

Good Friday

Good Friday is unique in many ways; for one, it is the only day of the year on which the principal liturgy is preferably celebrated in the afternoon, at the hour of Christ's death. The Good Friday Liturgy of the Cross consists of the Liturgy of the Word and a Meditation on Christ on the Cross.* (For an outline of this service, see Good Friday Coda, p. 225.) This liturgy is not a funeral service but rather a celebration of the King who triumphs over death and reigns from the cross.

The liturgy is celebrated in its simplest and most ancient form. It is marked by the reading of the Passion according to St. John, in the same manner and with the same dignity as the reading of the Passions according to Matthew, Mark and Luke on the Sunday of the Passion (Palm Sunday). On Good Friday, the longer reading from John is preferred. The Bidding Prayer, the form of prayer from the ancient liturgy of the church in Rome, is used. On the day when Christ died for the salvation of the world, we fittingly pray systematically for all people everywhere.

The visual focal point of the Meditation on Christ on the Cross is the cross itself. Either before the service begins or at the time when the Meditation begins (the preferred practice), the presiding minister (not an acolyte) brings a large, roughly finished wooden cross before the altar in procession. If a processional cross is used, it should be less ornate and rich in design than the one ordinarily used. The cross may be veiled in purple or unbleached opaque fabric, as during Lent; if so, it is partially unveiled each time "Behold, the life-giving cross" is chanted or said. At the third and final time the cross is completely unveiled.

The Meditation contains appropriate psalms, hymns and prayers. Silence for personal recollection and prayer is important. A traditional liturgical form, the Reproaches, has long been associated with this devotion. In recent years some have suggested that this text lends itself to anti-Jewish attitudes. The text represents Christ reproaching His people for their unbelieving conduct which has caused His death. Liturgical use of the Reproaches is intended to lead contemporary Christians to hear the words addressed to their own unbelief. Not correctly understood, however, the text may lend itself to an improper application to the Jewish people of Christ's day alone. If the traditional text is to be sung or said, care should be taken to explain that it is used to evoke sorrow and contrition in our hearts. Efforts have been made to clarify the texts themselves. The alleged anti-Jewish cast of the text is softened when only the first (and older) portion of the text is used, as is done in LW: Agenda (pp. 52-56, 60-64). From Ashes to Fire presents a rewriting of the Reproaches to make the point clearer that Christ is speaking to us today. Christians must be sensitive to this problem. Beyond a doubt, the Reproaches are more effective when sung than said. Settings of great beauty exist for the Reproaches, both for the choir alone and for choir, cantor and people (see Good Friday Coda, p. 228).

The church should appear as it did after the Stripping of the Altar on Maundy Thursday. The candles and other ornaments of the altar and chancel are gone. Candles honoring the cross used in the Meditation may stand on either side of the cross. Paraments should preferably not be used, but if they are, Holy Week scarlet is preferred to black. Organ and instrumental music should be used with great restraint; it may be limited to accompanying the singing. The service is conducted at reading desks; the altar is not used at this service. After the service the cross is left in the chancel. The people should be invited to remain in prayer as long as they desire. No hint should be given on this day that the ministers are watching the clock during the service.

In general, the church has shown a strong disinclination to celebrate the Holy Communion on Good Friday. The churches of the East have distributed the Sacrament to the faithful on this day, using bread and wine consecrated prior to Good Friday. Contemporary Roman Catholic practice permits the same. The question is under discussion within the Anglican community. Lutherans have in some instances found it spiritually enriching to celebrate the Holy Communion on this day; it has appeared an appropriate occasion for the enjoyment of the fruits of the Lord's death. This privilege should not rudely be denied, under the guise of liturgical reform, to those who have found spiritual enrichment in it. No conclusive arguments have been advanced to forbid the practice. LW: Agenda provides directions for a service of Holy Communion on this day (Good Friday II, pp. 58-72). However, Holy Communion should certainly be celebrated on Maundy Thursday. If a choice is to be made between the two days, Maundy Thursday should be chosen. If a congregation does not already celebrate the Sacrament on Good Friday, it is better not to introduce the practice. The Sacrament in any event will be celebrated not only on Maundy Thursday but also at the Vigil and on Easter morning.

In some places the Tre Ore service, based on the Seven Last Words of Christ, has been observed during the hours from 12:00 to 3:00 p.m. Interest in this service is lessening for several reasons, not least of which is that many people are no longer released from work for those three hours. An office such as the one offered for Good Friday noon in LW: Agenda (pp. 45-47) is an alternative that more readily fits the contemporary lunch hour.

When the Liturgy of the Cross is celebrated in the afternoon at the preferred time, a question remains concerning an appropriate service for the nighttime, when the larger portion of the congregation is likely to gather. The Liturgy of the Cross could be repeated in the evening. What many will look for is a time of prayer and reflection on the cross as the means of our salvation. The Office of Tenebrae (tenebrae, Latin for "shadows," "darkness") can serve well for this.

Tenebrae is the monastic office for the night and early morning (classic Matins and Lauds) for Maundy Thursday, Good Friday and Holy Saturday. For this office, a triangular candelabra with 15 unbleached candles was placed in the chancel. As each of the psalms and canticles was sung, one candle was extinguished until only one lighted candle remained, representative of Christ. At the end of the service this candle was removed from the candlestand, taken to a place where it could not be seen, and then returned to signify the death and restoration to life of the Lord.

In medieval times these offices came to be "anticipated," that is, celebrated the night before the morning for which they were appointed. Such anticipation of a liturgy is not regarded as correct today. On the other hand, it is rather unlikely that a summons to prayer at 2:00 a.m. will result in a large congregation! Furthermore, the traditional service is quite lengthy. Matins is celebrated with three Nocturns, each of which has three psalms, three lessons and three responsories. Lauds has four psalms, two canticles and yet another psalm. Distinctive materials were appointed for each of the three offices of Tenebrae. A distinguished repertoire of music has grown up based on these offices, particularly some striking settings of the readings from the Book of Lamentations. Today the three offices are rarely celebrated on successive days. The reform of Holy Week excludes anticipation of Maundy Thursday on the previous night. Furthermore, congregations expect a Good Friday night service to emphasize the crucifixion rather than the entombment. Yet this rich body of psalmody, Scripture and responsories cries for use. A careful selection from these materials can provide a quiet, reflective service of prayer and praise for Good Friday night. The outline for an abbreviated order of Tenebrae for Good Friday, based on Evening Prayer rather than Matins and Lauds, appears in the Good Friday Coda, p. 227.*

For this service a triangular candelabra holding seven lighted unbleached candles is placed in the chancel. Otherwise, the church remains as it was at the end of the Maundy Thursday liturgy, with the altar and chancel ornaments removed and the lights dimmed. The service is conducted from the ministers' chairs and a reading desk, with great calm. As the psalms and canticles are read, one by one the candles are extinguished except for the final candle at the peak of the candlestand. At the end of the service this candle is removed to a place where it cannot be seen. After a period of time devoted to silent prayer and meditation, a loud noise signifying the breaking open of the tomb is heard. The candle is returned to the stand. During this time the church should be quite dark. The usual safety lights, of course, remain lighted; some light should remain on in the narthex for safety's sake.

* For a carefully edited service of Tenebrae with all three Nocturns of Matins and psalms, lessons and responsories drawn from the full set of three offices of Tenebrae, see The Book of Occasional Services (New York: Church Hymnal Corporation, 1979), pp. 72-90. Those seeking all of the materials traditionally associated with the three offices of Tenebrae may see The Hours of the Divine Office in English and Latin, Vol. 2 (Collegeville: Liturgical Press, 1964), pp. 1099-1173, or other editions of the Roman Breviary antedating the reforms of the Second Vatican Council.

Another devotion appropriate for Good Friday night (or another night during Lent or the early part of Holy Week) is the Way of the Cross. This service is based on the events of Good Friday in Christ's life. A great number of versions of this service are available. It may be readily edited to fit the needs and resources of any congregation.

Saturday in Holy Week

In the church's celebration of the Three Holy Days, the day hours of Holy Saturday are devoted to the entombment of the Lord. "With the holy women, the Church sits by the tomb and meditates on the Lord. . . ." The suggested Gospels (see below) record Joseph of Arimathea's pious gesture of honoring Christ's body by claiming it and placing it in his own new tomb. In the Old Testament reading, Job lifts a lament over our mortality in which the Lord joined us by His death and entombment. Death, however, is the end of our bondage to sin. Christ, who will judge both the living and the dead, is destined to rise from His tomb. He enables those who have died with Him in Baptism to live in the Spirit.

On Holy Saturday the church remains unadorned as it has been since Maundy Thursday. No music is performed before the service. The ministers enter and withdraw in silence. The Liturgy of the Word from the Divine Service (Holy Communion) or Morning Prayer (Matins) may serve as the order of worship.

Here is another suggested order for this morning:

Collect for Holy Saturday

O God, Creator of heaven and earth: Grant that, as the crucified body of your dear Son was laid in the tomb and rested on this holy Sabbath, so may we await with him the coming of the third day, and rise with him to newness of life; who now lives and reigns with you and the Holy Spirit, one God, for ever and ever. *

Psalm 130 or Psalm 31:1-5

New Testament Reading: 1 Peter 4:1-8

Gospel: Matthew 27:57-66 or John 19:38-42

Sermon

Hymn, such as "In the Very Midst of Life" (LW 265) or "In Adam We Have All Been One" (LW 292, LBW 372)

Collects

Lord's Prayer

Benediction omitted

In addition to these possibilities for Holy Saturday, Lutheran Worship includes Easter Eve in its calendar, with its own set of propers for the day. In this case, Evening Prayer/Vespers should be celebrated before the Vigil as part of the day hours of Holy Saturday. For a discussion of Easter Eve, see p. 234.

HOLY WEEK RESOURCES

Omit Gloria Patri

In addition to the usual Lenten practice, on Passion (Palm) Sunday and through the week up to the Vigil, Gloria Patri is omitted from canticles and psalms at both the Holy Communion and Daily Prayer.

* The Book of Common Prayer (New York: Seabury Press, 1979), p. 283.

Daily Prayer

At Daily Prayer prior to the Vigil, Gloria Patri and Alleluia are omitted. For the Three Holy Days, psalms may be selected from "Psalms for Daily Prayer" (LW: Altar Book, p. 127; LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, p. 96); readings may be drawn from "Daily Lectionary" (LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, pp. 98, 102) or "Readings for Daily Prayer" (LW: Altar Book, p. 134). For propers for Daily Prayer, see LW, p. 290, and LBW, p. 176.

At Morning Prayer the Invitatory and Venite are omitted. Benedictus is the proper canticle. The Paschal Blessing is omitted because of the Service of Baptism at the Vigil and the resurrection emphasis of the Paschal Blessing.

At Matins the Invitatory for the Passion may be used (LW: Altar Book, p. 42). The Responsory for Lent is used. Benedictus is the proper canticle.

At Evening Prayer the Service of Light is omitted to give greater emphasis to the Service of Light at the upcoming Vigil. Evening Prayer thus begins with Psalm 141. In the Litany the response "Alleluia" is replaced with "To you, O Lord."

At Vespers the Responsory for Lent is sung. Magnificat is the canticle of choice unless Vespers is observed at the close of the day. Prayer at the Close of the Day is not modified because of the season of the year.

Churches with more than one service on the Three Holy Days may find opportunity to observe the services of Daily Prayer. The worship schedule for these days should be reviewed each year to make certain that persons with varying work schedules and those who find attendance at evening services difficult are given opportunity to worship. Daily Prayer provides services to meet this need. However, Daily Prayer may not replace the chief service of each day of the Triduum. The Holy Communion, not Evening Prayer or Vespers, is the chief service on the night of Maundy Thursday. The Liturgy of the Cross is the chief service on Good Friday, whatever hour it is celebrated. The Great Vigil, not Evening Prayer or Vespers, is the chief service on the night of Holy Saturday. The Holy Communion, not Morning Prayer or Matins, is the appropriate service for Easter Sunday morning.

SUNDAY OF THE PASSION

Palm Sunday

THEME

"Jesus Christ, God's own Son, receives a parade of accolades...a mere prelude to His brutal passion and death."

Lent has invited us to share in the death and resurrection of Christ and has prepared us for our celebration of the Three Holy Days. The invitation this year has come in images suggested to us by Adam and Abraham, in the contrasts between darkness and light and between death and life, and in the image of Lazarus who, beyond hope, was summoned from the grave and restored to earthly life.

On this day Christ is revealed to us as the expected Son of David, God's Hosanna sent to deliver the people (Matt. 21:9). He was not, however, the Messiah of common expectation; He was the Suffering Servant of God who did not draw back, who spoke the revealed word of God that sustains us in our weariness and who offered His back to those who would beat Him (Is. 50:4-6). So mysterious is God's way! The Servant found security not in self-assertion but by taking refuge in God, confident that God could deliver Him (LBW, Ps. 31:1, 3, 14-15). Our worship this week is not meant to be something observed or something to enthrall us. The very same mind that led Christ and made Him obedient to death, even death on a cross, is to be our mind as well (Phil. 2:5, 8). The coming days of sorrow are but the door to exaltation. Our worship always, even during Holy Week, reflects that exaltation. Even though sorrows over the events leading to the cross race through our hearts, it is still good to praise the Lord. Our hearts are gladdened by the great deeds of this week performed by God (LW, Ps. 92:1, 4-5). In awe and humility, this week we shall join the whole creation in the confession that Jesus Christ is Lord (Phil. 2:11).

CODA

For a full discussion of the Palm Sunday liturgy, see pp. 189-90. Silence during distribution in Holy Week is especially appropriate. After the reading of the Passion, the music used should refer to the Passion rather than the entrance into Jerusalem.

MONDAY IN HOLY WEEK

THEME "Jesus' feet are scented with the perfume of Mary. We shall be cleansed thoroughly with the life-blood of the Lamb."

Strong in God's Spirit, the Servant does not falter on the road appointed for Him. He has set out to open the eyes of the blind and free the captives from prison. Not even a bruised reed, not even the smoldering faith of the weakest of those who seek life, will be despised. His love spans the whole creation. Even those who live most distantly from Jerusalem are enclosed by His love. We are summoned to ready ourselves to feast on the abundance of His house and drink from the rivers of His delights, reminding us of the sacramental celebration of the new life at the Great Vigil and all through the Fifty Days to come. He goes to prepare all things. He is the great mediator and the anointed sacrifice in whose blood our consciences are cleansed forevermore.

TUESDAY IN HOLY WEEK

THEME "Christ's bleeding distress upon the cross becomes the banner proclamation of His Church."

Again the Servant of the Lord is the focus of our thoughts. Again He is proclaimed as the Restorer of Israel and the Light of the nations. The Gospel of Lent 5 in Year C (Luke 20:9-19) recalls that Jesus Himself had predicted His death and the harvest produced by that death. That harvest will be made evident in the reconciliation of the people on Maundy Thursday, in baptisms at the Vigil, and in the eucharistic celebrations to come. The foolishness of God triumphs over the wisdom of the world. The cords of death will coil around Him as the waters of Baptism swirl about those who go down into death with Him. God will hear our cries for pardon and life. He rescues us from our powerful enemy even as He raised up His Servant.

WEDNESDAY IN HOLY WEEK

THEME "Christ demonstrates His incomparable love for us even in the midst of betrayal and faithlessness."

The betrayer plays his necessary role in the drama of the Servant's passion. His profit was 30 pieces of silver. Our profit is the new and greater Passover by which the blood of the last Lamb is sprinkled on the lintel of the world. This week He will offer His back to those who would beat Him. He will not shrink away from the mocking and the spittle, because the Sovereign Lord who will vindicate Him is near. When we think ourselves most abandoned, God is near if we only have the faith to see. This week He will save the humble who seek Baptism in the name of Jesus. He will renew the lamp of faith and life burning for His faithful ones. Even the darkness of the tomb is filled with the light of His presence. When we are least powerful, still possessed by sin and weakness in faith, God justifies us through Christ's death. If when we were still God's enemies He reconciled us to Himself by His Son's death, how much more, having been reconciled, shall we be saved through His Son's resurrection. As the darkness gains in strength and readies to snuff Him out, we are exhorted to faithfulness to the Light.

THEME

"The sacred meal of Christ's body and blood is set before the church that she might be eternally nourished."

Having loved His own who were in the world, the Servant of God showed them the full extent of His love. The liturgies of the Three Holy Days unfold the full extent of that love for us. The Corinthian Christians remembered that on the night before His death Jesus had given the disciples His Supper. Some of the Corinthians, though, were prepared to feast at the expense of others. "For as you eat, each of you goes ahead without waiting for anybody else. One remains hungry, another gets drunk" (1 Cor. 11:21). How could they (or we) be indifferent to their brothers and sisters? In preparation for the meal Jesus had knelt before His disciples, washing their feet, doing the work of a slave. "Do you understand what I have done for you? . . . No servant is greater than his master. . . . Now that you know these things, you will be blessed if you do them. . . . A new command I give you: Love one another" (John 13:12, 16-17, 34). The hearts of God's people are cleansed by the body and blood given on the cross that is shared for all time in the breaking of bread and the sharing of the cup.

As Israel began its year with a feast of remembrance, the Passover, so now we eat and drink in remembrance of deeds that instituted the new covenant. Lamb's blood once was shed and painted on the doorframes of Israel's homes; the blood of the Lamb of God has been forever painted on the doorframe of the church. All who take shelter in the house of the Lord's own people are protected from the wrath that comes to the abdurant and hard of heart. The catechumens press on today to the font so they may sit down with God's people at last. Tonight we are entering the feast of three days that is for us "the first month of [the] year" (Ex. 12:2). Our feast is the feast that means the end of darkness and death. In this feast we make the watery passage through the sea that separates us from life in the covenant among God's people, the people fully loved by the New Moses and the people who are known by their love. "How can I repay the Lord for all his goodness to me? I will lift up the cup of salvation. . . . I will fulfill my vows to the Lord in the presence of all his people" in remembrance of the wonders of these Three Holy Days (LW, Ps. 116:12-14; LBW, Ps. 116:10-12).

MAUNDY THURSDAY

(Sharing of the Sign of Peace, if not at Liturgy of Reconciliation)

Offering/Offertory

On this day presentation of the gifts of bread, wine and money by the people is especially appropriate.

Offertory Prayer (LBW only)

Preface and Sanctus

Prayer of Thanksgiving/Words of Institution/Lord's Prayer

(Sharing of the Sign of Peace, if not earlier)

Communion

Post-Communion Canticle (optional)

Post-Communion Prayer

Hymn: "Of the Glorious Body Telling" (LBW 120)

During the hymn the communion vessels and linens may be removed to the sacristy or another place.

Stripping of the Altar

Psalm 22 or 88, omitting the Gloria Patri

As the psalm is sung or said, the candles are extinguished and the lights dimmed; the ornaments on the altar and in the chancel are removed and carried to the sacristy or another place.

The ministers leave in silence.

The Creed, a festive element, is omitted today. Lutheran Book of Worship directs that the Blessing be omitted at this service and at all services until the Vigil so the unitive nature of the celebration of the Three Holy Days is demonstrated; all of the services together constitute one celebration of the Lord's passover. Lutheran Worship: Agenda directs that the Divine Service should conclude with the Benediction and that the Stripping of the Altar should follow the Benediction.

Music for the Footwashing or Offertory

Hymns based on the traditional Ubi caritas et amor are:

God Is Love, and Where True Love Is (Cantate Domino 917, GIA)

Where Charity and Love Prevail (LBW 126)

Where True Love and Charity Are Found (Cantate Domino 918, GIA)

Other suitable hymns include:

Love Consecrates the Humblest Act (LBW 122)

My Song Is Love Unknown (LW 91, LBW 94)

Psalmody for the Stripping of the Altar

Presentation of these psalms calls for utmost simplicity, as found in the settings below. The attention of the congregation should be focused on the action, so they need not be involved in the singing of the psalm. Perhaps most effective of all is a single voice speaking the psalm from the rear of the church. The Gloria Patri is traditionally omitted.

Psalm 22 Traditional antiphon: They divide My garments among them and cast lots for My clothing.

A simple psalm tone is given in LW: Agenda, p. 39.

My God, My God * Peloquin, A. * Cantor, SATB refrain with opt. cong. * GIA G-1658
My God, My God, O Lord, My God (Ten Psalms from the "Becker Psalter") * Schuetz, H. * SATB * CPH
 97-6303 * ME
My God, Why Dost Thou Now Forsake Me? * Callahan, C. * SATB * CPH 98-2975 * EM

Psalm 88 Traditional antiphon: You will leave Me all alone. Yet I am not alone, for My Father is with Me.

Psalm 51 (LW alt.)

This psalm should not be used if it is being done on Good Friday. A simple psalm tone is provided in LW: Agenda, p. 42.

A good resource for all three psalms is:

The Grail/Gelineau Psalter * Gelineau, J. * unis. or cantor * GIA G-1703

John 15:12 is very similar to John 13:34:

Jesu, Jesu, Fill Us With Your Love - 141 AGPS

GOOD FRIDAY

THEME "The very Word of God, made flesh for us, is stricken, bruised, and pierced. The church gazes upon the torn and bleeding flesh of the Christ who dies."

Those who are waiting to be baptized at the Vigil know that Christ was crucified for them, and their hope is in that crucified Lord. Today the church proclaims the Passion according to St. John. In John's Gospel the crucifixion is no defeat. By it the Father glorifies Himself and His Son. "You would have no power over me," Jesus says to Pilate, "if it were not given to you from above" (John 19:11). Jesus makes Himself the High Priest who has entered the heavenly sanctuary, as the earthly high priest once entered the temple's holiest place to be an instrument of the reconciliation between God and man. Jesus, having shared our life, is able to sympathize with our weakness. Yet He is without sin. In His suffering, death and victory we receive mercy and find grace to help us in all our needs. Today we behold God's Son—stricken by God, smitten and afflicted for our transgressions. Isaiah's prophetic vision of the Servant moves us as no other text in the Hebrew Scriptures can. We know that it is our guilt that has done this to Him. But what was done, was done by His will. God never lets His family out of His sight, not those who have long been baptized, not those who are to be baptized tomorrow night and so become members of the church, this family which God ever graciously beholds.

Hosea 6:1-6 "Come, let us return to the Lord."

The Hosea text commends itself as a rich text, but Isaiah 52—53 has nourished the faith and piety of Christians on this day for many years. It is hard to imagine Good Friday without Isaiah's mighty text.

CODA

LITURGY OF THE CROSS

(For a full discussion of this liturgy, see pp. 194-95.)

GOOD FRIDAY

Liturgy of the Word

The ministers enter in silence, kneel before the altar, and go to their places.

Collect of the Day, omitting Salutation and "Let us pray."

Old Testament Lesson: Isaiah 52:13—53:12 or Hosea 6:1-6

Psalm 22:1-24 (LW); Psalm 22:1-23 (LBW)

New Testament Lesson: Hebrews 4:14-16; 5:7-9

Verse

Passion of Our Lord according to John *

The usual Gospel acclamations are omitted. The Passion is announced in this way by the narrator: "The Passion of our Lord Jesus Christ according to St. John." The congregation sits following the announcement until all rise for the final portion (John 19:17). A time of silence may be observed at the words telling of Jesus' death (John 19:30).

Sermon

Hymn of the Day

Bidding Prayer (LW, pp. 276-78; LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, pp. 139-42)

Traditionally the people stand for the bidding and silence which precede each prayer. They kneel for the prayer itself.

Meditation on Christ on the Cross

Procession

The Presiding Minister (not an acolyte) carries the cross in procession through the church and places it in front of the altar (LW: Agenda, pp. 51-52; LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, p. 142). Once as the procession begins, once midway to the altar and once before the altar the cross is raised and "Behold, the life-giving cross" is sung or said. If the cross is veiled, it may be progressively unveiled at each station; at the third station it is completely unveiled.

Meditation

Once at the altar, the ministers remain before the cross. All kneel or stand for a time of silent meditation, and for the Reproaches (LW: Agenda, pp. 52-56). Other devotions should follow, such as Psalm 67, and hymns such as "Jesus, I Will Ponder Now" (LW 109, LBW 115), "Lamb of God, Pure and Sinless" (LW 208, LBW 111), and "O Dearest Jesus, What Law Have You Broken" (LW 119, LBW 123). Silence should be observed between the acts of devotion. This part of the service should not be hurried. If the people have been kneeling, they may remain kneeling. If they have been standing, they may sit for this portion of the Meditation.

Hymn (all stand)

"Sing, My Tongue" (LW 117, LBW 118) or "The Royal Banners Forward Go" (LW 103, 104; LBW 124, 125) is sung.

"We adore you, O Christ" (all kneel) (LW: Agenda, p. 56, #14; LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, P. 143, #14)

The ministers leave in silence. The people are invited to remain in prayer.

The Passion of Our Lord According to John* (Philadelphia: Fortress Press), #5-153, presents the passion in narrative form in an inexpensive format. A copy should be placed in the hand of each worshiper.

THE OFFICE OF TENEBRAE

(See pp. 196-97 for a discussion of this service, and pp. 228-33 for music resources.)

The ministers enter in silence. The service is conducted from the ministers' chairs and a reading desk. The chancel and altar are bare of decoration. A triangular candelabra with seven candles is placed in the chancel.

Psalm (all sit)

After each psalm one candle is extinguished.

Psalm 2

Psalm 22:1-21

Psalm 27

Canticle: Querite Dominum (Seek the Lord)

After the canticle one candle is extinguished.

Office Hymn (all stand)

"The Royal Banners Forward Go" (LW 103, 104; LBW 124, 125), or another hymn of the triumph of Christ on the cross, is sung.

Readings (all sit)

Each of the lessons is introduced with "A reading from the Lamentations of Jeremiah the Prophet." Each is concluded with "Jerusalem, Jerusalem, return to the Lord your God." The introduction, lesson and concluding verse may be sung or said.

Lamentations 1:1-5

Responsory (see p. 231)

Lamentations 1:6-9

Responsory

Lamentations 1:10-14

Responsory

Sermon (may be omitted)

Magnificat (all stand)

After the canticle one candle is extinguished.

Verse

"Christ became obedient for us unto death, even death on a cross. Therefore God has exalted him to the highest place and given him the name that is above every name" (Phil. 2:8-10). The verse may be sung or spoken.

Lord's Prayer

Psalm 51 (all sit)

After the psalm one candle is extinguished.

The remaining lighted candle is carried out of sight.

Collect for Good Friday

Silence, then a loud noise, representing the opening of the tomb, and then the candle is returned to the stand.

The ministers leave in silence. The people are invited to remain in prayer.

On this day the use of the organ and other instruments should be restricted to the accompanying of hymn singing. If possible the congregation should sing the hymns completely unaccompanied, the organ silent.

Psalms

¶ The psalms may be sung or recited. Antiphons precede and follow each psalm; they may be chanted to a simple psalm tone. No Gloria Patri is added.

Psalms 2	Antiphon:	The kings of the earth rise up in revolt,* and the princes plot together against the Lord and against his Anointed.
Psalms 22:1-21	Antiphon:	They divide my garments among them;* they cast lots for my clothing.
Psalms 27	Antiphon:	False witnesses have risen up against me,* and also those who speak malice.

Canticle: Querite Dominum (Seek the Lord—Isaiah 55)

See LBW 15 (sung to LW or LBW psalm tone).

Seek the Lord * Hill, J. * unis., cong. * Hinshaw HMC-262

Lamentations

Although the choral settings by Thomas Tallis are well-known and were probably originally designed for Tenebrae, they are more ambitious in scope than most church choirs will want to tackle during the hectic preparations for Holy Week and Easter. Most other settings are designed for concert presentations.

Responsories

It is appropriate that a responsory be sung following each reading from Lamentations. A wealth of fine choral music has been derived from the Tenebrae services. See below for Latin choral works usually associated with this service.

Magnificat

For choral settings, see p. 44. Any setting used should be very simple and restrained, in keeping with the spirit of the day.

Verse: Christus factus est (Christ became obedient unto death)

For choral settings, see Palm Sunday, pp. 201-2.

Psalm 51

Said or chanted softly; no antiphon or Gloria Patri

There are several Latin choral texts usually associated with the services of Good Friday. Settings of these abound, and some most likely can be found in your church choral library. An outstanding choral collection featuring settings of many of these texts is The Renaissance Singer, E. C. Schirmer. A partial listing:

SATURDAY IN HOLY WEEK

Easter Eve (LW)

THEME "Death has no permanent vindication for those invited to Christ in baptism."

During the hours following the last liturgy on Good Friday and before the Great Vigil of Easter, the church in spirit joins Mary Magdalene and the "other Mary" in mourning at the tomb in Joseph of Arimathea's garden. Joseph had claimed the body of Jesus, and after the loving ministrations of the women, it was laid to rest in the new tomb. The oppressive hand of Jesus' enemies still makes itself felt by the presence of the Roman soldiers sent to prevent any attempt by the disciples to steal Jesus' body for their purposes.

The fiery furnace, intended to demonstrate the inability of the God of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego to protect His servants, became the sign of God's power over death and life, as did the tomb which it was supposed would prove the absurdity of Jesus' claim to be the servant of the Lord. Death is rendered impotent in the furnace by the presence of one "like a son of the gods." The presence of the Son of God in the tomb transforms that place of stony death into the womb of new life.

Jesus Christ was put to death in the body, but was made alive by the Spirit. That same Spirit works mightily to make the watery tomb of the baptismal font the source of new life for those who are dead in their sins by means of the resurrection of Jesus Christ which no human or spiritual power can thwart.

CODA

Evening Prayer and Vespers of Easter Eve should be celebrated in their simplest form and in a restrained manner, observing the practices of Lent and Holy Week. The Service of Light is omitted at Evening Prayer. The appropriate collect for Evening Prayer or Vespers on Holy Saturday is "Abide with us, Lord" (LW, p. 46); the collect "O God, who made this holy night" is a traditional collect for the Great Vigil of Easter. Only one lesson, or at most two lessons, should be read; the Gospel of the entombment is the preferred reading.

Two other choral works which center on the theme of the entombment are:

Ecce quomodo moritur justus/In pace (Lo, Now, So Doth the Righteous One Perish/In Peaceful Rest) *

Also suitable would be the closing chorus from one of the St. John Passions (Bach, Byrd, Schuetz, Victoria, etc.).

EASTER

The Spirit of the Season

It was a strange and dreadful strife
When life and death contended;
The victory remained with life,
The reign of death was ended.
Holy Scripture plainly says
That death is swallowed up by death,
Its sting is lost forever.
Alleluia!

So let us keep the festival
To which the Lord invites us;
Christ is himself the joy of all,
The sun that warms and lights us.
Now his grace to us imparts
Eternal sunshine to our hearts;
The night of sin is ended.
Alleluia!

(LW 123, LBW 134, TLH 195, CW 161)

Alleluia again rings throughout the church. Alleluia comes naturally and easily to our tongues, for the Lord who went down into death has conquered. Our hearts and tongues strain to give praise to God who brings salvation to His people by this "strange and dreadful strife When life and death contended." The whole church year depends on this, and all time is shaped by it. Easter is the chief feast of our year, though in our culture and even in our churches Christmas may seem to overshadow it. Even the world can find something in Christmas, but it is much more baffled by the Day of the Resurrection of Our Lord. The birth of a child has a universal appeal; the particularity of the coming to life again of Jesus Christ is another thing.

Easter time, however, is not a festival about the idea of resurrection, but about the resurrection of the God-man Jesus Christ and the consequences of that resurrection, particularly for those who have shared in His passover from death to life. They have been plunged into the waters of Baptism, renewed by the living Word of God, and sustained during their pilgrimage by the bread of His body and the wine of the new covenant.

During Lent, those preparing for incorporation into the body of Christ at the Vigil heard the catechesis of the church and were exhorted to follow that discipline which is a sign of a broken heart. Those already a part of Christ's fellowship accompanied them to the font to rediscover the treasure they had previously received. Easter time is the time for mystagogia, the post-baptismal catechesis on the Christian mysteries. Now the church brings to the newly baptized its great treasures: participation in the Holy Communion and in the life of the communion of saints. This is the time for introduction to the life of the fellowship, the work of the Spirit, and, in fact, all the liturgical and spiritual expressions of the four characteristics of life in the church: devotion "to the apostles' teaching and to the fellowship, to the breaking of bread and to prayer" (Acts 2:42). Easter, however, is not just for the newly baptized. In the weekly assembly on the Lord's Day we are all invited to experience anew the life of the Spirit and to be reinvigorated for our spiritual journey.

INTRODUCTION TO EASTER

The intention of the renewed liturgical calendar is that we see Lent, the Triduum, and Easter time as a single unit: Lent as a time of preparation, the Triduum as a time of participation in the Pasch of Christ, and Easter as a pentecost ("fifty") of days celebrating the new life. "Pentecost" refers first of all to the Great Fifty Days that extend the celebration of Christ's resurrection. The celebration begins at the Vigil and culminates on the Day of Pentecost. This is a "week of weeks" (seven weeks). This continuous time of celebration is one great Sunday.

To emphasize this, the reformed calendar speaks of Sundays of Easter rather than Sundays after Easter. In this scheme the liturgy of Easter Sunday is the liturgy of the First Sunday of Easter, and the Day of Pentecost is the Eighth Sunday of Easter. The season embraces Ascension Day as the fortieth day of Easter. To preserve the integrity of the Fifty Days of Easter we no longer speak of an Ascension season, although the final ten days of Easter do share some propers that distinguish them from the days before the Ascension. The Day of Pentecost marks the outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon the disciples. In this divine act Christ bestows on His church the spiritual gifts that marked His ministry, for the church remains in the world as the sign of Christ's presence. His mind permeates and directs His body on earth.

Cheryl Dieter and Brian Helge have written:

What the church so joyously celebrates in the most holy night of the Lord's Pasch, the lectionary of the Great Fifty Days seeks to explicate. In fact, no season of the church's observance shows greater coherence in pericope selections than Easter. The meaning of the eight Sunday masses of the Easter season is not embedded in any internal logic of these masses, but in the liturgical structure of the Vigil that begins the sequence.^{*}

If Lent is to come to its appointed conclusion, the celebration of the Easter Vigil is critical. If Easter is to be celebrated coherently and in all its richness, the Vigil is indispensable.

Easter, the time of fulfillment, finds the readings from the Hebrew Scriptures replaced by readings from the Acts of the Apostles. Acts presents to us the days when the resurrection of Jesus was fresh in the hearts of the apostles. All the possibilities of that event were being explored. The Spirit that breathed on the apostles was unfolding God's intentions for His people even as they received His gifts. Challenges were met, problems were addressed, the wonder of life in Christ was being discovered. The life and growth of the apostolic church is opened up for us so that we may immerse ourselves in the same life and grow with the church.

Likewise, the second readings have their own distinctive character in these Fifty Days. In Year A, 1 Peter is read, with all its baptismal emphases. In Year B, 1 John provides the readings, with its spirit of the immediacy of Christ's presence and its concern that the love of Christ prevail. In Year C, the Revelation to John is the focus, with its witness to the triumph of the Lamb; it presents the consummation of the Lord's passover and our own. In these books we learn how the disciples of the Resurrected One are to live in the light of the resurrection, but we learn even more of the defeat of sin, death and the Antagonist of God and all creation, and of the greatness of the triumph of God.

For much of the season, the readings from the annual Gospels are replaced by readings from the Gospel according to John. In this Gospel the newly baptized and all of the faithful are made privy to the innermost thoughts, prayers and teachings of the Lord, who guides us through history to the final consummation.

The Shape of the Season

The Paschal season opens with the Great Vigil, the first Eucharist of Easter. The liturgy of Easter Day is the first of the eight Sundays of the season. The tradition of the observance of each of the weekdays of Easter Week with a liturgy of their own left its mark in The Lutheran Hymnal, which provided propers for Easter Monday and Easter Tuesday, and in the Service Book and Hymnal, which offered propers for Easter Monday. Lutheran Worship and Lutheran Book of Worship have added propers for the evening of Easter Day but offer none for the remaining six days of the week. The propers for Easter Evening enable churches to close their observance of the Triduum. Those congregations that wish to celebrate one or more of the weekdays of Easter Week may use the following lessons provided in The Book of Common Prayer.

	Psalm	Lessons
Easter Monday	Psalm 16:8-11 or 118:19-24	Acts 2:14, 22b-32 Matthew 28:9-15
Easter Tuesday	Psalm 33:18-22 or 118:19-24	Acts 2:36-41 John 20:11-18
Easter Wednesday	Psalm 105:1-8 or 118:19-24	Acts 3:1-10 Luke 24:13-35
Easter Thursday	Psalm 8 or 114 or 118:19-24	Acts 3:11-26 Luke 24:36b-48
Easter Friday	Psalm 116:1-9 (LW) or 116:1-8 (LBW) or 118:19-24	Acts 4:1-12 John 21:1-14
Easter Saturday	Psalm 118:14-18 or 118:19-24	Acts 4:13-21 Mark 16:9-15, 20

The Second Sunday of Easter has been called "White Sunday" because on this day the newly baptized Christians gathered in the church wearing their white baptismal garments for the last time. Easter 4 preserves the Good Shepherd theme that once was dominant on Misericordias Domini in the older calendar. Those who have been in the habit of emphasizing church music on Cantate will find some of the same themes present on Easter 6. In the older calendar, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday before Ascension Day were observed as Rogation Days, days of prayer for peace and the fruitfulness of the earth. Greater flexibility in these matters characterizes the newer service books. Congregations are now encouraged to observe such services of prayer on the days that seem most appropriate in the local community. Ascension Day is one of the major festivals of the year. The Great Fifty Days close with the Vigil of Pentecost and the Day of Pentecost itself. The Vigil of Pentecost offers opportunity for those baptisms that could not be completed at Easter. The Day of Pentecost is a final burst of Easter celebration, yet it also opens the way to the "green meadow" into which the Shepherd leads His flock.

Liturgical Practice During the Season

During the Fifty Days the baptismal font of the church is highlighted. A banner may be placed by it to draw the eye to the font. Ideally the font should always be filled with water so people may visit the waters from which life springs, but during the Fifty Days this is especially important. Reference should be made to the font in sermons and addresses to children. Sponsors and parents should be given opportunity during the Fifty Days to bring children to the font.

Yet another symbol of the season is the presence of the lighted paschal candle. During the Vigil the candle is placed on a stand by the liturgical north end of the altar. The candle should be lighted at all of the services during this season. Because the candle denotes the presence of the living Christ in His church, the acolytes should light the candle well before any worshipers enter the nave; it should not be extinguished until all have left the room. (In former days, when the cost of beeswax did not rival that of gold and the fire breathed by insurance companies and fire departments was less threatening, the candle burned continuously during the Easter season.) If the candle was not lighted at the Vigil (because the Vigil is not yet celebrated in the congregation), it may be lighted prior to the Easter Sunday liturgy before the people assemble, or the lighting of the candle may be a part of the entrance rite on Easter Sunday. A shortened form of the Easter Proclamation may be sung as the candle is lighted. A hymn that contains the main themes of the Exsultet may also be used.^{*} A certain awkwardness will always remain in all attempts to build a rite around the lighting of the paschal candle on Easter morning. The full rite for the Service of Light for the Vigil would be out of place; on the other hand, it may offer opportunities to teach the congregation about the Vigil. This procedure should always be regarded as merely a temporary measure until the congregation is prepared to celebrate the Vigil.

The paschal candle should remain in use all through the Fifty Days. Before the renewal of the calendar, the candle was extinguished after the reading of the Gospel on the Ascension as a sign that Jesus was no longer present in the flesh among His people. With the restoration of the 50 full days of celebration of Easter it is much more fitting to retain the use of the candle throughout the entire period. After Pentecost the candle is taken to the baptismal font. It is lighted each time a baptism is to be celebrated. It may also be carried in procession with the casket in the liturgy of the burial of the dead to claim for the deceased the promise given in Baptism.

On the principle that on festivals the liturgy should be celebrated as richly as possible, congregations that do not regularly announce the Gospel in procession may use the season to introduce the Gospel Procession. The presiding minister (or preacher) carries the Holy Scriptures into the midst of the congregation to announce and proclaim the Gospel of the Day. He may be accompanied by two torchbearers, one standing on either side of him, honoring the Scriptures that contain the Lord's Gospel. The congregation turns to face the procession as it comes into their midst, turning forward again as the procession returns to the chancel. For such a Gospel Procession, the book carried should be of some size and substance; a paperback lectionary does not speak of the dignity of the Gospel.

^{*}Such as "Come, You Faithful, Raise the Strain" (LW 141, LBW 132, TLH 204, CW 142) or "Christ Jesus Lay in Death's Strong Bands" (LW 123, LBW 134, TLH 195, CW 161).

At one time when Christians rather universally knelt in their churches to pray, the people were instructed to remain standing during the prayers in Easter time to emphasize the dignity conferred on them by Christ's victory. In those congregations where the people still kneel to pray, this custom may be considered for introduction.

The celebration of Holy Communion is yet another mark of the paschal celebration. If a congregation has not yet reached the goal of weekly celebrations of the Sacrament, the appointed schedule of celebrations should be amplified so the bread of the new passover may be broken for Christian people on Easter, Ascension Day and the Day of Pentecost. The presence of visitors at services on festive days offers no grounds for denying the paschal feast to the faithful.

The Vigil of Pentecost and the day itself have been selected in many congregations as a day on which to celebrate Holy Baptism, Confirmation (Affirmation of Faith), and the reception of new members. This is in keeping with the history and spirit of Pentecost. The other days of the Great Fifty Days are also appropriate for these rites of initiation and welcome, certainly more appropriate than Palm Sunday (Sunday of the Passion).

The color for the Easter season is white, which reflects the heavenly glory of Christ and summons us to joy. At the Vigil and on Easter Day itself, hangings and vestments of gold may be used. If the Rogation Days are observed, the color of the season should be used, rather than the penitential purple used in times past. Red is the color for Pentecost, evoking the tongues of fire that came upon the apostles.

The Great Vigil of Easter

This is the night! "This is the night when you brought our fathers, the children of Israel, out of bondage in Egypt and led them through the Red Sea on dry ground. This is the night when all who believe in Christ are delivered from bondage to sin and are restored to life and immortality. This is the night when Christ, the Life, arose from the dead. The seal of the grave is broken and the morning of the new creation breaks forth out of night. . . . How holy is this night. . . ." (Exsultet, or Easter Proclamation, from LW: Agenda). This is the holy night in which God reached out His strong arm to save. This is the night when God's people, enlightened by the true Light, set free from slavery by the Conqueror and raised from death by the Life of the world, gather with unrestrained joy to join heaven in proclaiming the triumph of God. This is the feast of feasts.

A vigil is a service of Scripture, psalmody and prayer for the purpose of waiting and watching for the Lord's deliverance. Such services reflect the report in Acts 20 of the Christians who vigiled through the night. This watching through the night is an expression of the ancient Christian conviction that when Christ, the Daybreak, returns, it will be at the rising of the sun. The vigil also encourages the Christian to practice patient waiting upon the will of God, revealed only in His own good time.

The Paschal Vigil consists of four parts: the Service of Light, a specialized development of the same Lucernarium ordinarily a part of Evening Prayer; the Service of Readings which is the Vigil proper; the Service of Baptism; and the Service of Holy Communion. Ideally, the Easter Vigil lasts through the night with the baptisms taking place at dawn. In most instances today this does not happen. The idea of spending the night in prayer is just not a part of the average American Christian's armory. Many congregations celebrate the Vigil sometime after sundown on Saturday—in some cases early after sundown on the premise that a larger congregation will be attracted, in others near midnight so more of a sense of vigiling through the night is captured. Some congregations with well-entrenched sunrise services begin the service while it is yet dark, so the baptisms can take place near dawn.

INTRODUCTION TO EASTER

The liturgy for this night is described by students of the liturgy as the greatest and most significant of the year. Yet for many Christians the Vigil is not yet even a rumor. As the tide of conversions waned in Europe and infant baptisms became the rule, understanding of the Vigil faded. The anxiety of the church about the eternal fate of unbaptized children during a time of high infant mortality led to the abandonment of the Vigil as the principal time for Baptism. In time, virtually all baptisms took place at times other than the Vigil. In the end, this epitome of all services designed for celebration at night came to be celebrated in the morning hours of Holy Saturday. No wonder that at the time of the Reformation there was little interest in the Vigil. It soon fell into disuse.

Not until the middle of this century was its true spirit and role reestablished. The Vigil is once again correctly seen as the key to the entire cycle of Lent and Easter, and indeed of the whole church year. Furthermore, because we are once again living in a time when a large portion of the population is unevangelized, the Vigil fills a greater need than it has in the past. The gradual restoration of the adult catechumenate is the result of the restoration of the Vigil and also contributes to the vitality of the Vigil itself.

In the Vigil the church celebrates its certainty that God has acted and still acts mightily to save. He called Israel, His child, out of the darkness of slavery in Egypt and summoned out of the tomb His Son, our Lord. He calls us out of the watery tomb of the font to be His beloved children and to share in newness of life. At the Vigil we are led by a pillar of fire and light through the darkness into the light of Christ. We hear the prophetic word that defines our status in relation to God, one another and the world. New sons- and daughters-of-God-to-be enter the font and emerge anointed with the Spirit. All are summoned to the feast set for us by the Lamb who was slain yet reigns. An almost rapturous spirit fills this service, "the most sensual and 'physical' of all of the church's rites." It is a long service, but it takes time for us adequately to recall our history and to utter the name given us by God.

The service begins with the congregation gathered out-of-doors when and where this is possible. Everyone is given a candle. The necessary instructions are given briefly. A fire is struck, and the flames light up the night. From this new fire the great paschal candle is lighted. The acclamation, "The light of Christ," rings out. The paschal candle lights the way for the people through the night to the entrance of the church. The new Israel marches to the promised land. Once again "The light of Christ" is sung and the people respond, "Thanks be to God!" The people's candles are lighted from the paschal candle. All enter the darkened church, the candlelight reflecting on the gold and white hangings. When all have entered and the paschal candle is before the altar, "The light of Christ" is sung again and the candle placed on its stand. The assisting minister who has carried the candle intones the Exsultet, the Easter Proclamation, and invites the congregation to join in celebrating the feast of victory. The candles in the chancel are lit and the nave lights are raised as the people extinguish their candles and sit for the Service of Readings.

The time of waiting now begins. The mystery of God's plan of salvation is unfolded for the candidates for Baptism and for all assembled, as a series of lessons from the Hebrew Scriptures are read. Several of the lessons are followed by a psalm or canticle, enabling the worshipers to respond to the Word of God. Each of the lessons is followed by a prayer that pointedly applies the lesson to the candidates and to all the baptized. This is the time of vigil, of waiting and prayer. Finally, "All you works of the Lord" (Benedicite, omnia opera) summons the whole creation to join in the praise of God. The people's candles are relighted. The candidates for Baptism, those who are to be confirmed or received into congregational membership by transfer, and those seeking to return to the fellowship of God's people after a time of withdrawal and absence are led to the font by the ministers. At last! Three times they renounce Satan and three times they confess the true God. Then the candidates are plunged into the water. As each is baptized, the congregation shouts a joyous "Amen!" They receive the sign of the cross and are anointed with the sign of the Spirit. Then they are vested in the white garment of righteousness, and light is bestowed on them. When the baptisms, confirmations, receptions and restorations are completed, the people's candles are extinguished; the candidates return to their places.

Then all of the lights of the church are raised to their brightest, as "Glory to God in the highest," accompanied by fanfares and joyous music, is sung. The Easter Alleluias are sung in especially joyful manner. Quickly the table is set and the newly baptized of sufficient age join the faithful for the first time at the banquet. A final blessing is bestowed. "Christ is risen! He is risen indeed!" thunders through the church. All leave and return to their homes for rest until the Divine Service on Easter morning.

Careful preparation is needed for a service such as this. Lists of the necessary materials and their placement at each stage of the service are essential. Everything must be put in its place. The service folder must contain all that the people need to worship without confusion. Preparations and rehearsal should be completed early enough, well before the people assemble for the Vigil, so the ministers themselves can approach the service in a spirit of devotion. The sight of ministers rushing about carrying out last minute chores cannot inspire the congregation with much confidence.

The appropriate colors for the Vigil and for Easter Day itself are gold and white. The altar should be honored with torches standing about it. The reading desk from which the vigil lessons are read should also be honored with candles. If nothing else is sung, the Easter Proclamation must be; its text cries out to be sung in exultant fashion (for various settings, see p. 251). It should be sung by the individual who carried the paschal candle, someone other than the presiding minister. Traditionally, it is the office of a deacon or assisting minister to sing the Exsultet.

Any temptation to shorten the service by cutting the number of lessons in the Service of Readings should be resisted. The traditional number of lessons was 12; four should be the absolute minimum, and seven is a reasonable compromise. Exodus 14 is always read. The Vigil should not be chopped up and pulled about in the hope that a shorter service will more readily win approval. The Vigil succeeds best when it is celebrated in a manner true to its spirit. This is not a service for those who check their watches to make sure the service ends "on time." Such individuals are not yet ready for the Vigil's treasures. The Vigil itself is the best argument for the Vigil.

Not every reading needs to be followed by a psalm or canticle. The Service of Readings is not a Service of Lessons and Carols for Easter night. The congregation may sit for the entire Service of Readings, or sit for the readings, stand for the psalms, and kneel for the prayers.

Among the lessons that have found a place in the Service of Readings are the following, together with appropriate psalms and canticles:

Genesis 1:1—2:2 The story of creation
with Psalm 33:1-11, or Psalm 36:5-10

Genesis 7:1-5, 11-18; 8:6-18; 9:8-13 Noah and the flood
with Psalm 46

Genesis 22:1-18 Abraham's sacrifice of Isaac
with Psalm 33:12-22, or Psalm 16

The LBW Easter Vigil is available in convenient handout form for the congregation as Vigil of Easter (Minneapolis: Augsburg, and Philadelphia: Board of Publication, Lutheran Church in America, 1979), #5-329.

Easter Day

The celebration is resumed on Easter Sunday morning. On this day the people should not be denied the Sacrament of the One who gave His body and blood for us and who, now risen as Guarantor of the promise of life, continues to feed His people. After the Great Vigil, the Divine Service (Holy Communion) on Easter morning may be experienced as somewhat anti-climactic by the people, especially those who have led the Vigil. This is not altogether inappropriate. The liturgy for Easter morning is the second service of Easter and, in effect, one of the Sundays of the pentecost of 50 days of celebration. At the same time, in the experience of those who have not attended the Vigil, it will remain "Easter" in every sense.

On Easter Day the Sequence Hymn for Easter should be sung after the Verse (see p. 256). If Baptism and the Renewal of Baptismal Promises were not celebrated at the Vigil, they may be celebrated at this liturgy (see p. 250 for a suggested order). Because a good number of the persons present on Easter Sunday may not have been present at the Vigil, the Renewal of Baptismal Promises may be repeated for their benefit. If the Vigil is not celebrated, Easter morning is an appropriate day for the baptisms, confirmations, receptions and restorations.

Easter Evening

Easter Evening provides a quiet close to the celebration of the Three Holy Days as the congregation remembers Jesus' journey with the disciples on the way to Emmaus. He unfolded the Scriptures to them and revealed His death and resurrection to be their fulfillment. The congregation has experienced precisely this during the Triduum. Evening Prayer on this night is a gentle, quietly jubilant farewell to the festival and a final spiritual visit to the font for the congregation, especially those who were baptized at the Vigil.

EASTER RESOURCES

Return of Alleluia and Gloria Patri

Gloria Patri is restored to the liturgy for Easter, but the greatest of the signs of our joy is the restoration of Alleluia during the Fifty Days. It is sung with exaltation and frequently added to other liturgical texts. Certainly during the Easter season effort should be made so that the proper Verses for each Sunday can be sung by the choir or a cantor. Musical settings should be sought out that give expression to the exultant nature of the season. Especially effective are settings that permit the congregation to join in the singing of Alleluia in a fashion such as this:

Cantor or choir: Alleluia! Alleluia! Alleluia!

People: Alleluia! Alleluia! Alleluia!

Cantor or choir: Proper Verse for the day

People: Alleluia! Alleluia! Alleluia!

Hymn of Praise

Gloria in excelsis remains the proper Hymn of Praise for the Vigil. "This is the feast" (Worthy Is Christ) is the Hymn of Praise during the Fifty Days. The text, drawn from the Revelation to John, is highly appropriate for this time.

Daily Prayer

During the Fifty Days of Easter the same festive spirit present in the Divine Service is evidenced in Daily Prayer. Alleluia and Gloria Patri are restored to their rightful places. Matins is provided with a special Invitatory for the Venite (LW: Altar Book, p. 42) and with a Responsory following the readings (LW, pp. 213-14); Te Deum is the preferred canticle (see settings listed below). Vespers is also provided with a Responsory (LW, pp. 227-28); Magnificat is the preferred canticle.

Morning Prayer is provided with a seasonal Invitatory, sung to the same music as the common text (LW, p. 290; LBW, p. 176). Evening Prayer is given seasonal Versicles for the Service of Light, and psalm antiphons and antiphons for the Gospel canticles (LW, pp. 290-91; LBW, pp. 176-77).

Especially appropriate for the season is the use of the Paschal Blessing at Morning Prayer.* This rite should be conducted at the font; the congregation may be invited to gather around it where this is possible. Te Deum may be used as the Gospel Canticle at Morning Prayer if the Paschal Blessing is not used. The Paschal Blessing may also be used as a separate office during Easter time to commemorate our participation in Christ's resurrection through Baptism.

At Evening Prayer during the Fifty Days, the people may be given candles as they enter, as at the Vigil of Easter, to be lighted during the Phos hilaron ("Joyous light of glory"). The candles may be extinguished after the Thanksgiving for the Light or, if a sermon is to be preached, after the Benedicamus. If a sermon is not preached, the candles may be extinguished after the Benediction.

The seasonal materials for Easter are used at Matins (Morning Prayer) and Vespers (Evening Prayer) from Easter Sunday through the daylight hours of the day before Pentecost. (Evening Prayer before the Vigil of Easter is a part of Holy Week and not a part of the resurrection celebration.) However, the following exceptions should be noted. The seasonal materials for Morning Prayer and Evening Prayer are used on Pentecost and the week following. LW: Altar Book, p. 42, directs us to an Invitatory for the Ascension, from Ascension Day through the day before Pentecost, and an Invitatory for Pentecost and the week following.

A selection of psalms for the season is listed in LW: Altar Book, p. 127, and LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, p. 96. Appropriate readings for the season can be found in LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, pp. 98-99 and 102-3, and in The Propers for the Lesser Feasts and Fasts Together with the Fixed Holy Days, 3rd Edition (New York: The Church Hymnal Corporation, 1980), pp. 68-73.

For suggested office hymns, see Easter Evening, The Ascension of Our Lord, and Pentecost Eve/Vigil of Pentecost.

Following the proper psalm at Matins (Morning Prayer) and Vespers (Evening Prayer), a canticle may be sung. The following may be used in this season:

Christ Jesus, Being in the Form of God (LBW 20)
 I Will Sing to the Lord (Cantemus Domino) (LBW 19)
 Sing Praise to the Lord (LBW 10)
 Worthy Is Christ (LW, pp. 161-63, 182-83; LBW, pp. 60-61, 81-82, 102)

*See Philip H. Pfatteicher and Carlos R. Messerli, Manual on the Liturgy: Lutheran Book of Worship (Minneapolis: Augsburg, 1979), pp. 294-95.

Canticles

During the Fifty Days of Easter, Te Deum is the preferred canticle for Matins/Morning Prayer. Settings for congregation are found in those services in LW, LBW, TLH and WS. See also LW 8, LBW 3, WS 745. Hymn paraphrases of the Te Deum may be sung on occasion:

"Holy God, We Praise Your Name" (LW 171, LBW 535, TLH 250, CW 278)

"Thee We Adore, Eternal Lord!" (LBW 547)

THE RESURRECTION OF OUR LORD

THEME

The Great Vigil of Easter The First Service of Easter

"Through water and the word, righteousness and forgiveness are bestowed on God's people."

"Don't you know that all of us who were baptized into Christ Jesus were baptized into His death? We were therefore buried with him through baptism into death in order that, just as Christ was raised from the dead through the glory of the Father, we too may live a new life" (Rom. 6:3-4). The catechumens have put their hope in this Word of God. Tonight the new life they seek will be theirs. Christ, the Passover Lamb, has been sacrificed. They seek to keep His feast with Him, now and for eternity. Tonight the candidates for Baptism will pass through the one death that matters in an ultimate sense. At the Vigil they receive their final instruction in the Service of Readings as the church patiently and without haste tells the story of God's redeeming work, beginning with the creation of our race, His promise to the patriarchs, the glorious liberation of the Hebrews so they might be His people and serve Him, His patient nurture through the prophets, and all His coaxing promises of a renewed and fruitful people.

Tonight the candidates and all who are assembled will witness the overthrow of darkness, chaos, unbelief, slavery and death, and the victory of the Light, God's order, faith, freedom, and life. The candidates will enter the everlasting waters. Upon rising from them, they will be embraced by those who have passed over from death to life before them and be brought to eat and drink at the banquet, the foretaste of the Lamb's Supper which has no ending.

THE GREAT VIGIL

See pp. 241-44 for a full discussion of the Vigil and various sources for the conduct of the liturgy. The suggested order given here is based in large part on the Vigil as found in LW: Agenda, pp. 73-90, and LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, pp. 143-53.

The Service of Light

The service should begin out-of-doors wherever possible. If this is difficult because of weather or other conditions, the congregation should meet at some place other than the nave of the church. Hallways may have to be darkened for the procession. The Kindling of the New Fire will then have to be the lighting of an oil lamp or candle rather than a larger fire.

The Service of Readings

pp. 81-84, #15-17

pp. 147-52, #15-16

Four, seven, or more readings. Exodus 14 is always read. See pp. 243-44 for a list of Old Testament readings associated with the Service of Readings. A canticle may be sung after several of the readings. "I Will Sing to the Lord" (Cantemus Domino—LBW 19) should be sung after Exodus 14. Each reading (and canticle or psalm) is followed by a prayer. The Service of Readings is concluded with "All You Works of the Lord" (Benedicite, omnia opera—LW 9, LBW 18), during which the people's candles are relighted and the ministers and baptismal party proceed to the font. If Baptism is not to be celebrated, the Renewal of Baptismal Promises should nevertheless be conducted at the font.

After the Service of Holy Baptism, the people extinguish their candles and all go to their places. A Litany on the Resurrection may be sung during the movement of ministers and newly baptized, and as things are made ready for the Service of Holy Communion."

THE RESURRECTION OF OUR LORD

Easter Day

THEME

"We no longer need to be captured by the anxiety over death: in Christ Jesus the day of victory will come."

Last night at the Vigil, after months of preparation, the Spirit through Holy Baptism gave new living members to the church. In the morning all reassemble. The gates of the Lord have been opened for His people. We are bound to praise God for the glorious resurrection of our Lord. He is the true Passover Lamb who gave Himself to take away our own sin, who by His death has destroyed death and by His rising has brought us to eternal life. The experience of Baptism may be more immediate for those just baptized, but we are all united by Baptism in a community of faith. As Luther has pointed out, the entire life of the church is the acting out of Baptism so that day by day new persons may arise to live before God in righteousness and purity forever, and so we may be raised from the death of sin by the life-giving Spirit.

Because we have been raised with Christ, our hearts are to be turned from the desires, anxieties and deeds of our earthly nature. Christ's resurrection has opened the way to glory for us. We still carry with us many of the encumbrances of the old life, but "[our] life is now hidden with Christ in God" (Col. 3:1-4). Despite all contrary appearances, we are the children of God already now. In the day of Jesus Christ we shall be cleansed and revealed as rightful possessors of the things above. All this is possible because the stone rejected by the builders has become the capstone. The Lord's right arm has triumphed over the enemy. "This is the day the Lord has made; let us rejoice and be glad in it" (Ps. 118:24). Our hearts are fixed on the things above, for the anointed Jesus, filled with the Holy Spirit, was raised from the dead on the third day. The prophets testified about Him; now our hymns and praises "testify about Him that everyone who believes in Him receives forgiveness of sins through His name" (Acts 10:43).

CODA

For a discussion of the Easter Day liturgy, see p. 245.

"This is the feast" (Worthy Is Christ) is the appropriate Hymn of Praise for Easter.

On Easter Day the Sequence Hymn for Easter, "Christians, to the Paschal Victim" (LBW 137), should be sung after the Verse. LW 10 and WS 741 offer the Victimae Paschali Celebration in which "Christians, to the Paschal Victim" is combined effectively with "Christ Is Arisen." A more free translation of the Victimae Paschali is found as "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today; Alleluia" (LW 137, LBW 128, TLH 191, CW 150). Choral settings include:

THE RESURRECTION OF OUR LORD

Easter Evening

THEME "Death has lost its sting."

"Stay with us, for it is nearly evening," we ask the Lord. Even after three days of passion and prayer, fasting and feasting, we do not want to let loose of this time of rebirth and joy. For three days our slowness of heart has profited from the Lord's patient unfolding of all that the Scriptures say concerning Him. He has opened our eyes. He has revealed Himself to us in the breaking of bread. Now we are sent into the world to witness to His resurrection and the new life He has brought. To serve Him we must be rid of the old yeast that permeates us. Christ, the Paschal Lamb, has been sacrificed. The new Passover festival has no ending. All the days of our life are to be spent in the festal garments of His righteousness. This night we will once more sleep in our beds at home; one day we shall be laid to rest on the couch of our tomb. Christ remains with us even then. We and all His people who shall sleep in the dust of the earth will be awakened to everlasting life.

Psalmody

Psalm 141: "Let my prayer rise before you"

The use of incense with Psalm 141 is especially appropriate on major festivals such as Easter. See LW: Altar Book, p. 14, #4; LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, p. 16, #4; and Philip H. Pfatteicher and Carlos R. Messerli, Manual on the Liturgy: Lutheran Book of Worship (Minneapolis: Augsburg, 1979), pp. 279-81.

Psalm 114, 146, or 150

Hymn

Reading

Only one reading is necessary at Evening Prayer. Preference should be given to the Gospel.

Procession to the Font

The ministers and people, led by the paschal candle, process to the font. The Magnificat is sung during the procession. At the font the people may be sprinkled with water from the font or all may be invited to dip their fingers into the water and make the sign of the cross on the forehead.

Litany

For an appropriate text for the litany on this day, see William G. Storey, Frank C. Quinn and David F. Wright, Morning Praise and Evensong (Notre Dame: Fides Publishers, 1973), p. 151. This litany may be sung to the music for the litany in Evening Prayer. The final bidding should be conformed to the comparable text in Evening Prayer in LW and LBW.

Lord's Prayer

Blessing

Sharing the Sign of Peace

Following are three additional office hymns for Easter time (LM—88 88). All are in public domain (source unknown). A suggested tune is Herr Jesu Christ, meus (LW 262, LBW 286, TLH 7).

Morning Prayer (from Easter Day through the week of Easter 3)

- 1 Mom's glitt'ring ray adorns the sky,
Heav'n thunders forth its victor cry,
The glad earth shouts its triumph high,
And groaning hell makes wild reply:

EASTER EVENING

- 2 While Christ, the King of glorious might,
 Treads down death's strength in death's despite,
 And, trampling hell by victor's right,
 Brings forth His sleeping saints to light.
- 3 We pray You, King with glory crowned,
 Let this our paschal joy resound,
 For we, who once by death were bound,
 Through You have life and freedom found.
- 4 To You, O Christ, our risen Lord,
 Due praise Your people now accord;
 And to the Father tribute bring,
 As by the Spirit here we sing.

Morning Prayer (from Easter 4 until Ascension Day)

- 1 Entombed behind the stone of late,
 Securely sealed, where soldiers wait,
 Now shining in triumphant state,
 Christ rises victor from death's gate.
- 2 Hell's chains are loosed and demons fled;
 Captivity is captive led;
 The angel, crowned with light, has said,
 "The Lord is risen from the dead."
- 3 We pray You, King with glory crowned,
 Let this our paschal joy resound,
 For we, who once by death were bound,
 Through You have life and freedom found.
- 4 To You, O Christ, our risen Lord,
 Due praise Your people now accord;
 And to the Father tribute bring,
 As by the Spirit here we sing.

Evening Prayer (from Easter Day through the week of Easter 3)

- 1 On paschal eve God's arm was bared;
 The devastating angel spared;
 While Egypt mourned, our hosts went free
 From Pharaoh's ruthless tyranny.
- 2 Now Christ, our paschal Lamb, is slain,
 The Lamb of God that knows no stain,
 The true oblation offered here,
 Our own unleavened bread sincere.

3 O Christ, from whom hell's monarch flies,
O full and perfect Sacrifice,
Your captive people are set free
To share Your endless victory.

4 To You, O Christ, our risen Lord,
Due praise Your people now accord;
And to the Father tribute bring,
As by the Spirit here we sing.

THEME "The Church is the brick of Christ, set apart as a resurrection witness to the world."

"Thank the Lord and sing His praise; tell everyone what He has done. Let all who seek the Lord rejoice and proudly bear His name. He recalls His promises and leads His people forth in joy with shouts of thanksgiving. Alleluia. Alleluia" (Post-Communion Canticle, paraphrase of Ps. 105). Remembering the wonderful acts of God and making them known to the nations was Israel's task. Those to whom God has given a "new birth into a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead" (1 Peter 1:3) joyously gather for the weekly celebration to remember God's victory. They return to the places in which they live and work so they in turn may proclaim the Good News to the nations. Peter began this witness on Pentecost by recalling the "set purpose and foreknowledge" of God which initiated and completed Christ's ministry, death and resurrection (Acts 2:22-24, 32).

Though we have not seen Jesus with our eyes, yet we love Him; we believe in Him and are so "filled with an inexpressible and glorious joy" (1 Peter 1:8) that we join the ranks of the apostles to witness. We stand in the ancient tradition of those upon whom the Spirit has been breathed by the preaching of the Word and by sharing in the Supper, those whose sins have been forgiven. Now we fervently desire that forgiveness for those others who have not seen and do not yet believe. John wrote, "These [signs] are written that we may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that by believing you may have life in His name" (John 20:31). We, too, are signs created by God and set up in the world so that by our witness others may find life in Christ's name.

THEME

"The assembly of Christ is enveloped in the gifts of baptism, forgiveness, and the Spirit."

During the Easter season the newly baptized are introduced to the life of the community of believers. That community is marked by devotion to the teaching of the apostles, the shared life, the breaking of bread and the daily prayer of the community (Acts 2:42). The very mode of their entrance into the community dispelled any notion that the community of faith was primarily built upon ideology or moral uplift or emotional experience. Repentance, Baptism, forgiveness, the gift of the Spirit, all speak of a radical conversion to a new way of seeing things and a new way of living. Such things are not without cost. Whatever the cost, however, the disciple finds rest and security with the saints during the Fifty Days of celebration following the spiritual exercises of Lent (Ps. 16:1, 3). Our security enables us to set out on the path of life revealed to us in the death and resurrection of Christ (Ps. 16:11). This path is one that He has walked before, leading Him to death so He could lead us to life. We were redeemed, Peter wrote, not with perishable things such as silver and gold but with the precious blood of Christ, the Paschal Lamb without blemish or defect (1 Peter 1:18-19). Because of His death our path is filled with faith and hope, for Jesus accompanies us and reveals Himself in the breaking of bread as we gather for rest and renewal. In the Holy Supper we see again the wonder of His self-giving and the measure of His love. In our assemblies the Scriptures are opened to us. Our hearts burn within us and our eyes are opened. Faith is renewed, and we are summoned to live lives that reflect God's love to those whom we encounter on the way, enabling them also to see Jesus and believe.

THEME

"The shepherd keeps a vigilant watch over His precious flock."

The sheep of God's flock hear the true Shepherd's voice and follow Him and Him alone. The Shepherd has led the sheep to baptismal waters quieted by His presence. In His flock they receive the unction of the Spirit. They gather to be fed and to drink deeply from the cup poured out for them (Ps. 23:2, 5). False shepherds are unable to enter by the gate because they cannot accept the words of Jesus. In their anger they seek to despoil the Shepherd's sheep and slay them. Stephen was but the first to experience in life and death the malice that false shepherds bear toward the Good Shepherd.

The sheep—both those newly baptized at the Vigil and those who welcomed them into the flock—seek protection in the Shepherd's rod and staff. He is the Overseer (episkopos, bishop) who cares for the flock through His ministers of Word and prayer (Acts 6:3). To remain securely a member of Christ's flock the sheep must remain in fellowship with those who expound the teaching of the apostles. Even then danger may approach them. The sheep will receive insult and worse. The flock is not spared the fate of the Shepherd, but He heals their injuries. "He Himself bore our sins in His body on the tree, so that we might die to sins and live for righteousness" (1 Peter 2:24). In Lent we acknowledged that we had gone astray; during the Great Fifty Days we celebrate the mercy of the Shepherd by whose wounds we have been healed (1 Peter 2:24-25). Now our manner of life must commend us before God. To suffer patiently for our wrongdoings gives us no reason to boast. Our calling is to suffer patiently even when, having done no wrong, we endure mistreatment for doing good for the sake of the Shepherd. Then our prayer is the prayer of Stephen, "Lord, do not hold this sin against them" (Acts 7:60). For such, the heavens open, and the Son of Man, standing at the right hand of God, welcomes them to His reward.

THEME

"Christ clearly presents Himself as the gateway to God the Father."

Chosen race, royal priesthood, holy nation, God's own people—the grand names spoken over Israel by God have now been spoken over those united to the church of God in Baptism (1 Peter 2:9). They and we are members of a priestly community. We are characterized by spiritual sacrifices offered up to God and by the proclamation of the wonderful deeds of God who has called us out of deadly darkness into the light of life (1 Peter 2:5, 9). The priesthood of the saints of God has its origin in the priesthood of the Lord who offered Himself and who has now gone to prepare a place in the Father's house for His disciples (John 14:2-3). He reveals Himself in the common worship of the church. He is the source of the spiritual sacrifices we offer through lives lived faithfully for Him. In our assemblies He recalls to us the great and saving deeds that constituted the church, and sends us forth to make those deeds known to others. The Truth, the Way and the Life is with us. He enables us to die with Him and to hope in His resurrection. He invites us to put aside earthly securities and put our trust in God. "Do not put your trust in princes, in mortal men, who cannot save" (LW, Ps. 146:3). The blessing of God rests on those who put their trust in Him. In that conviction Paul set out to fill the world with the Word of the Lord, so that the lovingkindness of the Lord might fill the whole earth (LBW, Ps. 33:5). Many reject that Word but "the Lord brings the will of the nations to naught; He thwarts the designs of the people" (LBW, Ps. 33:10). The living Stone, rejected by people but chosen and precious to God, shielded Paul from the bitter wrath of his opponents. By the preaching of His priest, we have been built into the spiritual house made of living stones. We are sheltered. We are made free to reveal the Father to the world.

THEME

"Whoever has My commands and obeys them, he is the one who loves Me."

Among the more enduring images of Holy Baptism is the great Flood.* The newly-baptized will have learned to see in the Flood both the judging activity and the gracious mercy of God. The saints are lifted up above the destruction caused by the raging waters. We "were saved through water, and this water symbolizes baptism that now saves [us] also" (1 Peter 3:20-21). The Lord has made His salvation known to us (LW, Ps. 98:2). Each of us has experienced the awesome deeds of the God who loved the Son and raised Him from the grave (LBW, Ps. 66:5). He opens up the whole earth to us so we may be witnesses, always prepared to give an answer to everyone who asks us to give the reason for our hope (1 Peter 3:15). Paul was chief among those ready to give the reason for his hope. In Athens he eagerly proclaimed the identity of the unknown God that some of them worshiped. The God to which nature testifies is none other than the Father of the whole human race. In the coming of Jesus He summoned all of His offspring to repent and find salvation in Christ (Acts 17:22-31). The witness of the Christian frequently will be met with angry or scornful rejection. In imitation of the Lord, the disciple will continue to do good, even if it leads to suffering, as a witness to the goodness of God (1 Peter 3:16-17). In every circumstance in life, the Christian lives with the certainty that Christ is present. "If you love Me, you will obey what I command. And I will ask the Father, and He will give you another Counselor to be with you forever" (John 14:15-16). On this day the church praises God, for the Lord "has done marvelous things; His right hand and His holy arm have worked salvation for Him" (LW, Ps. 98:1). On the Lord's Day the people whom God has delivered celebrate this salvation. "Come and listen, all you who fear God, and I will tell you what He has done for me." "Come now and see the works of God, how wonderful He is in His doing toward all people" (LBW, Ps. 66:14, 4).

CODA

The Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday between the Sixth Sunday of Easter and Ascension Day have long been observed as days of prayer for the productivity of human labor, the fruitfulness of the earth and the peace needed if we are to cultivate the arts, crafts and sciences on which life depends. The spirit of the renewed calendar encourages us to select for such Rogation days whatever days are most appropriate in each locale. Usually those days closest to the time of planting are chosen.

The traditional observance of a Rogation Day begins with the praying of the Litany in procession out-of-doors. The procession may lead to the places where human labor is taking place, or may take place in the church yard. At various "stations" lessons, psalms and prayers are spoken. The procession is followed by the celebration of Holy Communion in the church. If such an observance takes place on a Sunday, it should not replace the Sunday morning liturgy but be conducted at another hour.

Resources for the Rogation Days may be found in The Book of Occasional Services (New York: The Church Hymnal Corporation, 1979), pp. 101-3. LBW: Ministers Desk Edition provides prayers, psalms and readings under the heading "Stewardship of Creation," pp. 187-88.

THE ASCENSION OF OUR LORD

THEME

"Stay in the city until you have been clothed with power from on high."

Power is what we humans seek. We risk our souls to gain power over God's creation and our neighbors. Power is what Jesus promises. But the power that the Spirit brings is ancient, yet new—but totally different from that power we know best. Jesus' power is in humility, service and acceptance of the cross. Such power only the Spirit can give. For this we wait expectantly as we gather together around the Word and the Sacraments.

By His ascension Jesus has honored and exalted our human nature. But greater honor awaits us. "After His resurrection [He] appeared openly to all His disciples and in their sight was taken up to heaven that He might make us partakers of His divine nature" (Proper Preface for Ascension). The apostle's prayer for the Christians as recorded in Ephesians is the Lord's will for us also: that the eyes of our hearts may be enlightened so we may hold fast the hope to which He has called us. The Lord whose leaving we honor today will return in like manner, but now He is in the heavenly realms, ruling all things for our benefit. In these days of our waiting, we direct our hearts and minds to the ascended Lord. He directs the church, His body, in its waiting so we may reveal His reign to all people. Repentance and the forgiveness of sins must be preached in His name to all nations.

CODA

Following are two additional office hymns for Ascension (LM—88 88). Both are in public domain (source unknown). A suggested tune is Herr Jesu Christ, meins (LW 262, LBW 286, TLH 7).

Morning Prayer (from Ascension Day until Pentecost)

- 1 Jesus, Redemption from above,
For whom we long with reverent love,
You in due season were made man
To consummate creation's plan.
- 2 What love of Yours was that which led
To take our woes upon Your head,
And pangs and cruel death to bear,
To ransom us from death's despair!
- 3 To You hell's gate gave ready way
When You called forth its captive prey;
And now, th'eternal vict'ry won,
You sit beside the Father's throne.
- 4 Let love and mercy lead You still
To raise us, conqu'ring all our ill,
Into Your presence, there to gaze
In rapture throughout endless days.

ASCENSION

- 5 All praise from ev'ry heart and tongue
To You, ascended Lord, be sung;
Whom with the Father evermore
And with the Spirit we adore.

Evening Prayer (from the eve of Ascension Day until the eve of Pentecost)

- 1 Eternal Monarch, loving King,
Salvation through Your blood we sing;
By You the death of death was wrought
And conqu'ring grace to man was brought.
- 2 Ascended to the throne of might
And seated at the Father's right,
All power, Jesus, is Your own
That here Your manhood had not known.
- 3 To You the whole creation now
Must in its threefold order bow:
The things on earth, and things on high,
And things that underneath it lie.
- 4 With awe the angels contemplate
The wondrous change in human state;
Though flesh has sinned, flesh purged the stains,
And in that flesh our God now reigns.
- 5 All praise from ev'ry heart and tongue
To You, ascended Lord, be sung;
Whom with the Father evermore
And with the Spirit we adore.

Settings of Psalm 47 are especially appropriate for Ascension. See Easter 7, pp. 293-94. Settings of the Te Deum are also fitting; see p. 248..

THEME

"Father, the time has come to glorify Your Son that Your Son may glorify You."

The conversion of the heart and the dazzling events of Easter night lifted up and exhilarated the newly baptized. God is great, and all is right in their new world. In time, however, the Christian becomes aware that all is not right everywhere in everything. The world still presses up against us and we must struggle to keep from being pulled back into it. The saints themselves, we discover, are not perfect. The devil is prowling around, looking for someone to devour (1 Peter 5:8). What better prey than the Christian not yet matured? Christians need not call him; the devil will himself call soon enough. Jesus may seem far away at such times, ascended and exalted in heaven, absent in our time of trial. The story of the Ascension is not a story of abandonment but of empowerment. "Why do you stand here looking into the sky? This same Jesus . . . will come back in the same way you have seen him go into heaven" (Acts 1:11-12). He had promised them power when the Holy Spirit came upon them, so "they all joined together constantly in prayer, along with the women and Mary the mother of Jesus, and with his brothers" (Acts 1:14). So they expressed their need for the Counselor. In faith and prayer are found the good and pleasant unity of the children of God (LW, Ps. 133:1). Knowledge of Christ's victory and hunger for the Holy Spirit must be renewed constantly in prayer. Ours is a present God of power, not an absent, idle God. "The Lord Most High is to be feared; he is the great king over all the earth. . . . God has gone up with a shout, the Lord with the sound of the ram's horn" (LBW, Ps. 47:2, 5). He gives strength, resolution, and steadfastness to His own. The church remains faithful in united prayer as Christ Himself remains constant in prayer for His disciples. He is always praying for us, "Holy Father, protect them by the power of your name—the name you gave me—so they may be one as we are one" (John 17:11).

PENTECOST

Pentecost Eve (LW)
The Vigil of Pentecost (LBW)

THEME "Those who believe in the Christ are to receive the Holy Spirit."

In time, the Jewish observance of Pentecost came to include a commemoration of the giving of the Law at Sinai as a constituting act of God. At Sinai the covenant was offered and then sealed by the blood of sacrificed animals. God claimed Israel as His own, for He had carried them on eagle's wings and brought them to Himself. Israel was now His treasured possession, a kingdom of priests and a holy nation. In response to God's mercy, Israel proclaimed, "We will do everything the Lord has said" (Exodus 19:8). We honor God's redeeming action in His work on behalf of Israel. Yet at Easter time we remember especially the covenant ratified by the blood of the Shepherd of the flock. The fruit of that renewed covenant was made evident at Pentecost when the Spirit, first poured out on Christ, was poured out also upon the witnesses to His resurrection. They began to speak so they could be understood by people who spoke other languages. They made known to the nations the salvation prepared by Christ.

The day of the Spirit is not yet ended, because the creation is still in travail; the birth of the new world is incomplete. Even those who believe must still yearn for the passing of what is old in them and for the fullness of the new life. The Spirit, who alone knows and reveals God's will, supplies us with the right desires and intercedes for us. Our words can never express the depth of our need, the fullness of our hope. The Spirit does for us what is needed, what we alone could never do.

CODA

For many Christians Christmas Eve is more precious than the morning of Christ's birth, and the Easter Vigil is slowly regaining an important part in Christian worship and faith. The Vigil of Pentecost has yet to regain its honor. Congregations wishing to celebrate the Vigil may do so in a simple fashion with Evening Prayer (Vespers), or may undertake the Vigil liturgy itself. The Pentecost Vigil reflects that of Easter but is briefer and simpler. It serves as a time for Baptism, Confirmation, and admission to the congregation through instruction, restoration, or transfer.

The service may begin with the Service of Light from Evening Prayer. Then a brief vigil consisting of several readings from the Old Testament, together with psalms and prayers, is celebrated. Holy Baptism, the Renewal of Baptismal Vows, restorations and receptions into membership follow. The Holy Communion begins with the Prayer of the Day.

These lessons, with psalms and canticles, are suggested for the Vigil:

Genesis 11:1-9 The tower of Babel
with Psalm 33:12-22

Exodus 19:1-9a, 16-20b; 20:18-20 The giving of the covenant with "Blessed are You, O Lord" (Benedictus es, Domine—Song of the Three Young Men, 29-34)

Ezekiel 37:1-14 The reviving of the dry bones with Psalm 30 or 130

Joel 2:28-32 God will pour His Spirit on all people with "Surely, it is God" (Ecce, Deus—Is. 12:2-6)

Romans 8:14-17, 22-27 The Spirit pleads for us with Psalm 104:24-34 (LW); 104:25-35 (LBW)

John 7:37-39a "If anyone is thirsty, let him come to Me and drink."

PENTECOST

The Day of Pentecost

THEME "The Spirit of truth will guide you."

Today the Fifty Days are fulfilled. The Spirit of God is poured out upon the church. The gift of God once limited to a chosen few is now given to all. Young and old, men and women, will prophesy so the wonders of God can be proclaimed and a new age begin (Joel 2:28-29). Today the parched land is refreshed. The long wait is ended; the word of unfailing love comes afresh every morning (LW, Ps. 143:6, 8). The intimacy of the Father and the Son is ours. Bound together in Christ, we are received into most intimate fellowship with the Father. We gather today, triumphant and exultant, to praise God. The Spirit has renewed the face of the earth; the Breath of God creates a new people. They are filled with every good thing, whatever is needed to manifest God's goodness in the world (LBW, Ps. 104:29, 31). The Spirit is given to us so the world may be delivered from the judgment to come. By the Spirit's testimony through us the world will be called to judgment. Repentance and faith are the response God seeks (LW, John 16:8-11). To that end the Spirit is breathed into the disciples. Through them, others are led into the water of Baptism for the forgiveness of their sins. The Passover of Christ in which we shared is the goal of God for all. God does not desire the death of the sinner but the sinner's restoration. Peace is restored between humankind and their God (LBW, John 20:21-23).

Acts 2:1-21 (The day of Pentecost)

Psalm 104:24-34 (LW); 104:25-35 (LBW)

1 Corinthians 12:3b-13 (By one Spirit we are all baptized into one body)

John 20:19-23 (Receive the Holy Spirit)

OR John 7:37-39 (If anyone thirst, let him come to Me and drink)

Especially if the Pentecost Vigil was not celebrated, Acts 2:1-21 should be considered as the first reading on Pentecost Day.

CODA

On the Day of Pentecost, a procession to the baptismal font may conclude the liturgy. The procession should be led by the paschal candle, carried by the presiding minister. The other ministers, the persons baptized during the Easter season, and, where possible, the entire congregation follow the candle, and all gather around the font. The candle is placed on a candlestand by the font. It remains there until the Easter Vigil of the coming year. It is desirable that water be kept in the font at all times; if that is not always possible, care must be taken to have water in the font for special liturgies such as this. During the procession the following may be sung: "Come, Holy Ghost, God and Lord" (LW 154, LBW 163) or "Come, Holy Ghost, Our Souls Inspire" (LW 157, 158; LBW 472, 473). "O Day Full of Grace" (LW 163, LBW 161) and "Holy Spirit, Ever Dwelling" (LW 164, LBW 523) may also be considered. The Paschal Blessing of Morning Prayer may be used for this procession; in that case, Te Deum can serve as the processional hymn. The liturgy may be concluded by a Collect and the Benediction.

The Golden Sequence, "Veni, Sancte Spiritus," is the traditional sequence for Pentecost, to be sung after the Verse. It is available as a hymn in The Hymnal: 1940 109, as "Come, Thou Holy Spirit, Come," and in TLH 227 as "Come, Holy Ghost, in Love." These hymns may be photocopied and put in the hands of the congregation. (Worship leaders are bound by conscience, and by law, to ask copyright holders in advance for permission to reproduce copyrighted texts and music.) Unfortunately neither LW nor LBW includes this hymn. Instead, the editors have designated "Veni, Creator Spiritus" (LW 157, 158; LBW 284, 472, 473; TLH 233), an office hymn for Pentecost, as the sequence. Choral settings include:

Pentecost Evening (LW)

THEME "I am with you always, to the end of the age."

God will make for Himself a new people, gathered from out of the nations. He will sprinkle them with clean water, and give them a new heart and a new spirit. Jesus directed His disciples to make Him known to the ends of the earth so the new age can open. They were to teach everyone all He had revealed to them about His Father, and to baptize the repentant. In this way the Spirit creates a new people for the new heaven and new earth to come. Until that day, Jesus will go with His people, teaching, forgiving, guiding and guarding them with His Spirit.

THE TIME OF THE CHURCH I

THE SPIRIT OF THE SEASON

When our forebears left the forests of the eastern states and ventured upon the prairies, they were shocked at times and dismayed. The trackless expanses of grassland seemed to them like the sea, uncharted, markerless, intimidating. Those who lead God's people in worship sometimes have the same feeling about the seemingly endless expanse of the Time of the Church with its Sundays after Pentecost, unmarked in any way but by numbers.

We can see this expanse of liturgical time in a more fruitful way. Maria Augusta Trapp wrote about this season while we all lived under the old Roman one-year lectionary, but what she had to say still applies: "This second half of the Church Year is referred to in Austria as 'the Green Meadow,' because of the green color of the vestments on the Sundays after Pentecost, whereas, until then, they had been violet, red, or white."

The "Green Meadow" can appear tranquil after the bustle of the Christmas and Easter cycles. Life, however, abounds in the meadow. Plants are brought from seed to flower to seed. The fields are filled with the music of bees gathering nourishment for the hive and of birds singing the songs that mark the cycle of life. The meadow is a place of countless dramas of life and death. The fawn must escape the predator and reach maturity before the testing time of winter comes.

So the "Green Meadow" of the church year is a time of life when we seek out the Spirit whose life fills us through Word and Sacrament. Seed is sown, plants flower, and the harvest is sought. Those newly born at the font are nourished with the milk of God's Word while the mature in Christ feed on the strong meat of Christ. This is a time when danger is acknowledged; the old enemy still seeks his prey. This is a time when the Landlord's desire for a harvest must be honored. This is a time of preparation for the winter of sorrow and death.

In this season, however, the church proceeds in a different manner than during the first half of the year. In Advent, Christmas, Lent and Easter our worship is focused on specific events in the life of the Lord much more than is the case in the Time of the Church. All three lessons and the other proper are coordinated to make the particular emphasis of any given Sunday very specific.

In the Time of the Church, as in the "green" weeks of Epiphany, a different scheme prevails. The Gospels of the three years, Matthew, Mark, and Luke, are read in semicontinuous fashion, restoring the ancient practice of the church. The structure of each year, therefore, is determined in part by the intention of each of the three Gospel writers. The Old Testament reading is determined not by a seasonal emphasis but by its appropriateness to some aspect of the Gospel of the day. The second reading, from the New Testament books, is continuous like the reading from the Gospel. If we include the readings of the "green" Sundays of Epiphany, each year's schema for the New Testament readings looks like this:

¹Maria Augusta Trapp, Around the Year with the Trapp Family (New York: Pantheon Books, 1955), pp. 149-50.

THE TIME OF THE CHURCH

Year A

1 Corinthians 1-4

1 Thessalonians
Hebrews 2-10

Year B

2 Corinthians

Year C

Galatians

We ought not, therefore, look for a golden thread that runs through the three lessons of the day. Nor will we find some predetermined "theme" for each of the Sundays. In this season, as is almost always the case, the message of the Gospel controls the liturgy of the day. We shall certainly find that the reading from the Hebrew Scriptures is coordinated with the Gospel, and many times the reading from the New Testament letters will echo or reflect themes in the Gospel or Old Testament reading. We ought not, however, neglect the opportunity given us in this season to emphasize the middle reading. A series of sermons that leads the congregation through one of the letters may be given without minimizing the Gospel for the day. Such a series will offer an opportunity for a fresh and different approach to the music of the day.

The Shape of the Season

A great gift to all Christian churches is the reformed lectionary prepared by the Roman Catholic Church as part of the reforms of the Second Vatican Council. This lectionary has found general acceptance by the non-Roman Catholic churches of North America; several of them, including the Lutheran churches, have prepared modest revisions of it. The adaptation prepared by the Inter-Lutheran Commission on Worship is found in both Lutheran Worship and Lutheran Book of Worship.

With the reform of the lectionary came a reform of the calendar as well. In the Roman calendar the Sundays after Pentecost (as non-Roman Catholic Christians in North America would call them) are referred to as Dominica per annum, or "Sundays in Ordinary Time" or "Sundays of the Year," as the Latin phrase has been translated. The first of these Sundays is invariably titled "The Festival of the Holy Trinity," and the last of these Sundays is referred to in Lutheran Worship as "The Sunday of the Fulfillment" and in Lutheran Book of Worship as "The Festival of Christ the King" (the more widely used title). For these two festivals the liturgical color is white. They form a frame for the season in much the same way as "The Festival of the Baptism of Our Lord" and "The Festival of the Transfiguration of Our Lord" frame the green Sundays of Epiphany time. The color for the season itself is green.

Because of the moveable date of Easter, the length of the Time of the Church varies. That means that in most years one or more of the sets of propers must be dropped. In the scheme of the Roman lectionary and calendar, and also in most of the derivative lectionaries, the surplus propers are removed from the beginning of the set, the second, third and following Sundays after Pentecost (as we would name them). This assures that the series of eschatological propers at the close of the season are always used. The Lutheran and Presbyterian solution to the problem has been to omit the second-last, third-last and preceding sets of propers as necessary. However, to make sure that at least some eschatological material would be used each year, the Inter-Lutheran Commission on Worship lectionary inserted an extra set of propers toward the end of the season. The scholars who adapted the ILCW lectionary for Lutheran Worship further modified it to require the observance of the third-last and second-last Sundays each year, as well as the last Sunday. Users of LW, therefore, omit the fourth-last, fifth-last and preceding propers as needed. The LW arrangement does provide for a more regular use of most of the original eschatological propers than does the LBW arrangement. Nevertheless, their decision not to follow the system used by other church bodies means that Lutherans are generally not in step with most denominations of North America with respect to the lectionary through the Time of the Church.*

Whichever system is used to adjust the propers provided for the season to the actual number of Sundays in any given year, the progression of thought is from the celebration of God's self-revelation as Father, Son, and Holy Spirit to the fulfillment of God's loving purpose for us in the kingdom over which Christ reigns and shall reign.

Liturgical Practice in the Time of the Church

It is characteristic of the "Green Meadow" that changes in the celebration of the Divine Service are very infrequent. This is particularly true of the first half of the Time of the Church covered in this volume, beginning with Holy Trinity and continuing through the eighteenth Sunday after Pentecost. This steadiness is as necessary for Christian nurture as the distinctive and varied liturgical forms used during the Christmas and Easter cycles. The "Green Meadow" gives the Christian congregation the opportunity to sink its roots deeply and so prepare for the riches of the other half of the church year. A base, a floor, of liturgical practice is necessary to receive maximum benefit from the more festive times.

Both LW and LBW provide the usual propers for the Festival of the Holy Trinity and also a preface for that day and the week following. On the "green" Sundays that follow, LW and LBW direct the use of the proper preface for "Common" Sundays after Pentecost. On days other than Sundays and festivals the preface for Weekdays is to be used. (See LW: Altar Book, pp. 292-93, 296; LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, pp. 216-18.)

LBW includes the full Trinitarian closing for all collects for the festival half of the year and for festivals; for the "green" Sundays only the shorter "through Jesus Christ our Lord" is printed out. Tradition suggests that the full formula be used on each Sunday and festival. Commemorative collects used after the prayer of the day can be concluded with the shorter ending.

LW directs that the Nicene Creed should be used at celebrations of Holy Communion and on major festivals. This continues the tradition that the Nicene Creed is the eucharistic creed. LBW, mindful of the growing number of Lutheran congregations that celebrate the Eucharist weekly, directs that the Nicene Creed should be used at Holy Communion on all festivals and the Sundays of Advent, Christmas, Lent and Easter. The Apostles' Creed may be used on "green" Sundays and on weekdays that have no festival observance. This provides regular opportunity for use of that creed so it does not pass out of liturgical use as congregations change from an infrequent eucharistic schedule to a weekly celebration. On Holy Trinity the Athanasian Creed may be used in place of the Nicene Creed (LW, pp. 134-35; LBW, pp. 54-55). Because of its length, this creed may be spoken responsively verse by verse between one of the ministers and the congregation or between two portions of the assembly.

Occasionally, the worship leader may find it helpful to plan a service that is somewhat shorter than the full Divine Service or Holy Communion. Liturgies, it should be understood, are not intended as straitjackets

*Those who wish to give further study to this matter should read Horace T. Allen, Jr.'s "Introduction" to Common Lectionary: The Lectionary Proposed by the Consultation on Common Texts (New York: Church Hymnal Corporation, 1983), pp. 5-27. The Common Lectionary, which offers a reconciliation of the various adaptations of the three-year lectionary, will undergo testing through the 1988-89 church year in North America. It is currently undergoing study in Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand and the Republic of South Africa, as well.

THE TIME OF THE CHURCH

into which every congregation is to be forced for every celebration. Adaptation of the liturgy to the needs of the congregation is proper, as is adaptation to the requirements of a particular celebration.

The liturgical leader begins the work of adaptation with the awareness that not all Sundays are alike in solemnity and character. On Easter Sunday, for example, the liturgy will be celebrated in its fullest form, possibly even amplified beyond the requirements of the service book. The Second Sunday of Easter, as part of the Great Fifty Days, will be celebrated in an elevated manner, but not with the same richness as Easter Day itself. On the other hand, the liturgy on one of the "green" Sundays may very well be celebrated in a more limited fashion; a liturgy celebrated on a weekday during the Time of the Church, with even more restraint. The manner in which the liturgy is done informs the worshipers of the solemnity of the day.

Such distinctions are made through the appropriate selection of materials to be used and also by decisions about the materials that are not used. One can only sympathize with worship leaders who feel constrained to plan services of a certain length "because our services must last no longer than sixty minutes," or who are forced to deny the spiritual needs of the congregation because of some other arbitrary restraints, such as "we must do what the people like" or "we must remember the radio audience." Adaptation is not a matter of putting the congregation's liturgy into a procrustean bed, chopping off bits here and sticking on bits there. The liturgy has its own rationale and history, and these must be respected.

At the core of the Divine Service are the Liturgy of the Word and the Liturgy of the Meal. Early in the history of the liturgy's development an Entrance Rite, or gathering rite, came to precede the two essential portions. Depending on which communion liturgy is used, the Entrance Rite will include some or all of the following: an entrance hymn, Confession and Absolution, Introit, Kyrie, Hymn of Praise, Collect or Prayer of the Day. Students of the liturgy are divided over the question of the proper placing of the Collect. Some would place it at the end of the Entrance Rite; others, as the first item of the Liturgy of the Word.

Examining the matter from the historical point of view, the entire Entrance Rite, except the Collect of the Day, may be omitted. The Confession and Absolution, which has a special place in Lutheran sensibilities, was the last major item added to the Entrance Rite. What was originally a private devotion for the priest was not converted into a congregational rite until after the Reformation. No theological or liturgical reason requires its use at every celebration. The Confession and Absolution is omitted, for example, on Passion (Palm) Sunday when it is replaced by the Procession with Palms. Although it may serve a godly and commendable purpose, its use does not constitute the only act of preparation for the Sacrament. Other ways of preparing for the Sacrament are open to the Christian. Yet very few congregations would be well served by its regular omission. It meets a deep spiritual need, especially in those congregations in which individual and corporate confession are never or hardly ever practiced. It may be omitted when Holy Baptism or Holy Confirmation are part of the service. In these liturgies the renunciations serve a function similar to that of the Confession. If the Confession is omitted, an appropriate petition should be included in the Prayer of the Church.

The Introit was originally a part of the papal liturgy in Rome (see p. 11). In time, by a process of imitation, the Introit was absorbed into the liturgy of parish churches even where it served no particular utilitarian function. The Entrance Hymn serves a similar function. One or both may be omitted without injury to the integrity of the rite, yet in most celebrations some sort of Entrance Hymn or Psalm would be desired. At whatever point in the liturgy the ministers enter, the entrance need not be made in solemn fashion each Sunday. The ministers and choir can go to their places in a simple fashion without a march down the aisle.

The Kyrie had its origin in a litany-type prayer in which intercessions in bidding form were followed by the response, "Lord, have mercy." A time came when the bids were removed (to shorten the liturgy), leaving only the response. This certainly resulted in an unusual circumstance, responses to non-existent petitions! The Kyrie of Divine Service II in LW and Holy Communion in LBW is a partial return to the original form. As the Hymn of Praise is omitted in Advent and Lent, so the Kyrie in litany form may be omitted in the "green" seasons.

The Hymn of Praise may be omitted at other times besides Advent and Lent, especially on non-festival Sundays and weekdays.

The Collect or Prayer of the Day is never omitted, whether it is interpreted as the ending of the Entrance Rite or the beginning of the Liturgy of the Word. It is a prayer to be spoken by the presiding minister, not by an assisting minister or by the congregation as a whole.

The Liturgy of the Word consists of the Reading from the Old Testament, Psalmody, the Reading from the New Testament writings, the Verse, the Gospel and the Sermon. Lutheran liturgies generally treat the Hymn of the Day, the Creed and the Prayers as part of the Liturgy of the Word.

As a general rule the material from the Old Testament Reading through the Sermon is not omitted. If a reading is omitted, it will generally be the second because of the close tie between the Old Testament Reading, the Psalmody and the Gospel. The order might then be the Old Testament Reading, Psalm, Verse, Gospel. At a weekday service the Old Testament Reading and the Psalm might also be omitted. This should certainly not be done at the chief services on a Sunday or festival. Sermons, of course, can always be shortened; a 20-minute sermon is not necessarily more godly than a 10-minute sermon.

The Creed may be omitted on weekdays. When the Creed appears otherwise, for example, in Holy Baptism or Affirmation of Baptism (Confirmation), it is removed from the Liturgy of the Word. The Hymn of the Day will ordinarily not be omitted. Nor should the Prayers be omitted, although they may take a shorter form.

The Liturgy of the Meal is somewhat harder to outline because of the differences among the rites. In general, however, it begins with the preparations. LBW initiates this portion of the liturgy with the Peace, which LW Divine Service II omits at this point. LW Divine Service I treats the Offering, Offertory and Prayers as a portion of the Liturgy of the Word. However the liturgies structure the service, bread and wine will always have to be brought to the altar, whether before the service begins or during the liturgy from an offertory table or as part of the Offertory procession. The gifts of money may be received in some instances after the Blessing, at the entrance to the church, rather than during the service. Other than a few options during the Offertory section, the central action of the communion is not subject to much variation. The Offertory Psalm and, in LBW, the Offertory Prayer, may be omitted. But the Preface and Sanctus, Thanksgiving, Lord's Prayer, and Words of Institution are all a part of the core essential to the rite. The Post-Communion Canticle and Post-Communion Prayer may on occasion be omitted. The Blessing, of course, is never omitted except possibly on Maundy Thursday and Good Friday if it is being reserved for use at the Easter Vigil.

THE TIME OF THE CHURCH

A possible outline for a weekday celebration in a "green" season might be the following:

Entrance Hymn
Collect of the Day
Old Testament Reading
Psalm
Verse Gospel
Sermon/Hymn of the Day
Prayers
Peace (or below)
Offering
Preface and Sanctus
Thanksgiving/Words of Institution/Lord's Prayer
Peace (or above)
Communion
Post-Communion Prayer
Blessing

A less spartan service outline might include:

Entrance Hymn
Confession and Absolution
Kyrie or Hymn of Praise
Collect of the Day
Old Testament Reading
Psalm
New Testament Reading
Verse
Gospel
Sermon/Hymn of the Day
Prayers
Peace (or below)
Offering
Offertory Psalm
Preface and Sanctus
Thanksgiving/Words of Institution/Lord's Prayer
Peace (or above)
Communion
Post-Communion Canticle or Prayer
Blessing

It is hard to imagine ever using the first of these outlines for the liturgy on a Sunday morning, but under some circumstances it would serve on a weekday. The second outline might be useful on a "green Sunday." Both outlines preserve the integrity of the structure of the liturgy while providing a degree of shading from its fuller celebration.

It is essential that the congregation be accustomed to the full rite as the normal experience, so the contrast can be felt. The people must have a sense of the absence of certain elements so they can see how the shading gives expression to the character of the day or season. The full rite must first be experienced as "normal" so the impact of the shorter form can be felt; otherwise, people will experience the full form as "too long" when it is used following a period of use of an abbreviated form. Use of an abbreviated service on a regular basis is impoverishing. Worship leaders will understand that the liturgy well-done owes no apology. There is no time limit imposed on our services. The liturgy is finished when we have done all that needs to be done, not when the hands on the clock have moved a prescribed distance.

Sanctifying the Hours of the Day

The origins of the Daily Prayer (Office) of the church are obscure. Generally it is agreed that its beginnings are to be found in the congregational prayer of the synagogue and in the personal prayer life of Jews and Christians. Certain hours were favored for prayer: the start of the day, a midpoint in the day's activity, and the close of the day. In time the church provided opportunities for people to gather to offer prayer and praise corporately. These services were popular in nature, that is, they were intended for the laity rather than for those under a clerical or monastic discipline. Today these services are frequently referred to as "cathedral" forms of Morning and Evening Prayer in contrast to those forms of prayer referred to as "monastic." The latter were developed for the growing numbers of men and women under monastic discipline. Obviously, the worship needs of a cloistered community are quite different in form from those of lay people whose life is conducted "in the world." One such difference can be illustrated by the use of the psalms in the respective forms of Daily Prayer. In the "cathedral" form psalms were generally selected for their appropriateness to the hour and the season without strong concern that all of the psalms be used. In the "monastic" form of Daily Prayer all 150 psalms were used in the course of a week, whether or not they were all equally appropriate. (Later post-Reformation psalm tables eased the burden for the laity by arranging for the 150 psalms to be prayed over a 30-day period.)

By the time of the Reformation a general need was felt for reform of the cycle of prayer. The Lutheran reformers saw these services as opportunities for gathering the faithful to hear the Word of God. They combined two morning offices to produce what we call Matins or Morning Prayer, and two evening offices to produce what we call Vespers or Evening Prayer. The services for the other times of day fell away. In any event, the laity had little opportunity to participate in them even prior to the Reformation. Today Lutheran service books generally include Morning and Evening Prayer (Matins and Vespers), Prayer for the Close of the Day (Compline), and, in some instances, an office for midday. LW and LBW also include the Responsive Prayers (derived from the Suffrages traditional to Daily Prayer). The Responsive Prayers may be substituted for the prayers in Morning and Evening Prayer (Matins and Vespers), or may be used as a separate devotion, prefaced by a psalm or hymn and a brief reading from the Bible."

Morning Prayer (Matins) and Evening Prayer (Vespers) deserve more frequent and regular use. The patterns of worship in North American Lutheran churches, however, discourage this. At present some churches use Morning Prayer (Matins) as a substitute for Ante-Communion (the Divine Service or Holy Communion without the Liturgy of the Meal) on Sunday mornings. This use will undoubtedly decline as more and more congregations move toward the weekly celebration of the Eucharist. Evening Prayer

"The "cathedral" approach is reflected in LW: Altar Book in the listing of "Psalms for Daily Prayer" (p. 126) and in LBW: Ministers Desk Edition in "Psalms for Daily Prayer" (p. 96). The "Table of Psalms for Daily Prayer" in LW: Altar Book (p. 127) utilizes the "cathedral" approach in materials for the first half of the church year, borrowed from LBW, but reverts to the "monastic" approach for the "General" listings for the "green" seasons.

"Cf. LW: Altar Book, p. 15, and LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, p. 17.

THE TIME OF THE CHURCH

(Vespers) is limited in many congregations to use in Advent and Lent and for those occasions when a non-eucharistic service is desired in the evening.

New approaches to renewal of the church's tradition of congregational prayer each morning and evening, especially in the evening on the Lord's Day, are of great importance to many these days. The people of God will need to hunger and thirst more fervently for opportunities for corporate prayer than they now seem to if such efforts are to succeed. Perhaps changing styles of life will open some doors in this respect. Continued use of Daily Prayer may also suggest adaptations that will make the services more appealing to those who presently feel no need for regular corporate prayer. In the meantime, worship leaders will need to keep the subject of corporate prayer before the people and encourage growing acquaintance with the services. The great canticles of Daily Prayer, Te Deum, Benedictus, Magnificat, and Nunc dimittis, must not be permitted to leave the worship repertoire of the congregation.

The services of Daily Prayer are just that, services of prayer, rather than eucharistic, homiletical or catechetical opportunities. They mark the hours of the day and the seasons of the year, putting those times into the context of the mystery of Christ's death and resurrection. Morning Prayer brings to our hearts and minds the Lord's resurrection and our own, our daily rebirth to newness of life, the renewal of God's creation, and the need for God's presence as we set about our daily work. Evening Prayer marks the ending of the day's work and the coming of the darkness of night. It holds before us the Light of the world and calls us to thanksgiving, confession, and the releasing of our work, loved ones, and the whole earth into God's safekeeping during the night. Prayer at the Close of the Day sets before us the bed upon which we rest in preparation for the new day's wonders as an image of the couch upon which we shall take our final rest in preparation for the new day of the resurrection. Each service is anchored in the redemptive work of Christ by the three Gospel canticles (Benedictus, Magnificat, and Nunc dimittis) from St. Luke's account of the coming, manifestation and worship of the God who entered our life to deliver us from our death. Psalmody, the Canticle and prayer constitute the hard bones which support these services.

These themes are more clearly seen in the more "cathedral" form of Morning and Evening Prayer in LW and LBW than they are in the more conservative revision of Daily Prayer represented in LW's Matins and Vespers. Both LW and LBW present Morning and Evening Prayer for use on three levels: a full, festive form for use on the Lord's Day, a more limited and leaner form for other public occasions, and a simpler form for domestic and other less public uses (this last form designated by red circles in the left-hand margin).

An outline of the services of Morning Prayer, Evening Prayer, and Prayer at the Close of the Day reveals their common structure. (The structure of Matins and Vespers in LW shows marked degrees of correspondence, as one would expect.)

*For more detailed information about the structure, nature and celebration of Daily Prayer, see Philip H. Pfatteicher and Carlos R. The singing of psalms is an essential part of Daily Prayer. In addition to the Venite (Psalm 95) at Morning Prayer (Matins), at least one more psalm should be sung. This psalm may reflect the spirit of the season during the festival half of the year. During the Time of the Church, this second psalm will usually reflect the morning hour. Psalm 63 serves this purpose admirably. The psalm appointed for the day may also be used, although its purpose in the liturgy is expressed more directly in Holy Communion when it follows the Old Testament reading upon which it comments. At Evening Prayer Psalm 141 is also followed by at least one psalm. (In Vespers the first psalm should be Psalm 141 or another psalm of confession or one appropriate to the hours.)

These psalms should be sung, not spoken; speaking the psalms violates their character as sacred song. Singing the psalms is no longer a difficult thing. The psalm tones given in LW and LBW make singing them quite simple. A beginning can be made by having the choir or a cantor sing the psalm, using the same psalm tone for several weeks. Then the choir and the congregation can alternate the verses. Finally the use of an antiphon can be introduced. Within a period of two years the entire set of tones provided in the service book can be learned. Other settings of the psalms can then be learned for variety.

THE TIME OF THE CHURCH

When a psalm is used in Daily Prayer, the method shown here is the one usually followed. The example given is Psalm 8, appointed for Holy Trinity in Year C.

Cantor (or Choir): (Antiphon) How majestic is Your name in all the earth!

People: (Antiphon repeated) How majestic is Your name in all the earth!

Cantor: O Lord, our Lord, how majestic is Your name in all the earth! *
You have set your glory above the heavens.
From the lips of children and infants You have ordained praise *
because of Your enemies, to silence the foe and the avenger.
When I consider Your heavens, the work of Your fingers, *
the moon and the stars, which You have set in place,
what is man that You are mindful of him, *
the son of man that You care for him?
You made Him a little lower than the heavenly beings * and crowned Him with glory and honor.
You made Him ruler over the works of Your hands; *
You put everything under His feet:
all flocks and herds, *
and the beasts of the field,
the birds of the air, and the fish of the sea, *
all that swim the paths of the seas.
O Lord, our Lord, *
how majestic is Your name in all the earth!

Glory be to the Father and to the Son *
and to the Holy Spirit;
as it was in the beginning, *
is now, and will be forever. Amen

People: (Antiphon) How majestic is Your name in all the earth!

Some musical settings will require a departure from this form; that is not ordinarily disturbing. Within the format the practice of alternation singing, whole verse by whole verse, is quite acceptable. (The same format for singing the psalm is used for the Introit or Entrance Psalm in the Divine Service.) For variety metrical psalms may be sung by the people, or the choir can sing a psalm in another type of setting. For further information regarding the singing of the psalms (see p. 12).

When the fuller settings of Morning and Evening Prayer or Matins and Vespers are used, an Old Testament or New Testament canticle may be used as one of the psalms. Traditionally a canticle from the Old Testament is used in the morning and one from the New Testament in the evening. Congregations beginning with a limited repertoire of canticles may use canticles from either Testament at Morning or Evening Prayer (Matins or Vespers). Occasionally, also, a particular canticle will be especially appropriate at one hour or the other and may be used for that reason. See p. 321 for a list of suggested canticles for the Time of the Church.

The chief hymn of Daily Prayer is the Office Hymn which follows the Psalmody in Matins, Morning Prayer and Evening Prayer and the Readings in Vespers and Compline.* The Office Hymn is never omitted at congregational services of Daily Prayer. The traditional office hymns were written in Latin; characteristically, they conclude with the Gloria patri and Amen. The hymns reflect the hour of the service for which they were intended and the season of the church year. (For further discussion of the Office Hymn, see p. 15.) Not all of the texts of the office hymns are of equal merit, so Lutheran service books generally contain only a limited selection of the traditional texts. To fill in the gaps and to provide a variety of texts to be sung, the listings in Proclaim supplement the traditional texts with other suitable hymns (see "Daily Prayer" under the Resources section for each season). At times other hymns will suggest themselves for use as the Office Hymn. This is acceptable; however, it must be remembered that the Office Hymn serves its own particular function of offering praise in the context of the hour and season. It is not a "sermon hymn," nor is it intended to serve as a response to the readings of the day as is the Hymn of the Day at the Holy Communion.

Ordinarily one reading is sufficient at services of Daily Prayer. At times Matins (Morning Prayer) or Vespers (Evening Prayer) replaces the celebration of the Divine Service (Holy Communion) in Lutheran congregations; then worship leaders may wish to use two lessons. The use of three lessons will usually be quite excessive. The worship leader will not want to inject into Daily Prayer the eucharistic pattern of Old Testament Reading, Psalm, New Testament Reading, Verse, and Gospel. At Daily Prayer the readings are referred to as the Reading or Lesson, or as the First and Second Readings or Lessons, and not as the Epistle or Gospel. The Gospel Acclamations are not sung when a selection from one of the Gospels serves as a reading, nor do the people stand.

The traditional Gospel Canticle for Matins (Morning Prayer) is the Benedictus in its complete form. On Sundays the Te Deum may be sung instead. (Lutherans by custom do not sing the Te Deum during Advent and Lent.) At Vespers (Evening Prayer) the Song of Mary, the Magnificat, is the proper canticle. Nunc dimittis is the proper canticle for Prayer at the Close of the Day; it may also be substituted on occasion at Vespers (Evening Prayer) to assure the retention of that canticle in the people's repertoire.

Compline may be used to close evening meetings, at retreats, and at other times when the congregation is assembled later at night. Although on some occasions worship leaders may use Compline as a substitute for Vespers (Evening Prayer) so it may become familiar to the people, this should not become a regular practice. When Prayer at the Close of the Day is used, it should not be amplified into a full-blown Vespers (Evening Prayer). The two services have quite a different character, and that difference should be respected.

On occasion Responsive Prayer 1 or the Litany may be substituted for the usual prayers at Morning Prayer (Matins), and Responsive Prayer 2 or the Litany for the usual prayers at Evening Prayer (Vespers). Other appropriate litanies may also be substituted at times.

The Service of Light, a dramatic and effective opening for Evening Prayer, reflects the ancient church's tradition of marking the onset of darkness with the lighting of candles. In this case, a utilitarian practice is invested with theological significance by a contrast between the spiritual darkness which has this world in its grip and the coming of the Light of the world to set God's people free from all that threatens them. (This ancient custom is also reflected in the Service of Light at the Easter Vigil, when the paschal candle is lighted and carried in procession.) The effectiveness of the Service of Light depends on the contrast between darkness and light, and it ought not be used at Evening Prayer at an hour when darkness is not imminent. (In the afternoon, for example, Responsive Prayer 2 or the Litany may be used as an opening instead, or Evening Prayer may begin with the Psalmody.)

The Service of Light may begin with a procession. The first Acclamation is sung at the rear of the nave, the second at the midpoint of the nave, and the third at the head of the aisle at the candlestand in which the candle will be placed. The Lucernarium candle should be of significant size. Sometimes the paschal candle is used as the Lucernarium candle; on the whole, it would be better to reserve the paschal candle for use during the Easter season, at baptisms and at funerals. The Lucernarium candle is carried not by an acolyte but by the minister who sings the Acclamations and begins the Hymn of Light. During the Hymn of Light the chancel candles are lighted, and, if the people are given candles, these are also lighted. If the service is relatively brief, the people's candles may be kept lighted throughout the service, or they may be extinguished after the Psalmody or readings or, if there is to be a sermon, just before the offering.

The Paschal Blessing that concludes Morning Prayer is a "visit to the font." It renews the people's remembrance of their death, burial and resurrection with Christ in Baptism. The service is conducted at the font, with the congregation gathered around it. If this is not possible, the people should stand and turn to face the font. If the font is not visible to the people, a table with a bowl of water on it may be set up in the center of the nave, and the lighted paschal candle placed beside it. Other Easter Gospels may be sung as alternatives to the one given in Morning Prayer. The Te Deum is sung as a celebration of the saints created in the font. At the Benediction the people may be sprinkled with water from the font or invited to come forward after the Benediction to dip their fingers in the water and make the sign of the cross upon themselves.

The Time of the Church gives the worship leader the opportunity to explore and grow in understanding of a second cycle of time, the day. It is not only the year with its great cycles of Christmas, Easter and the Time of the Church which shapes our worship. The classic understanding of the significance of the hours of the day and the importance of opportunities for corporate prayer and praise is also of significance. Lutheran churches in North America have made great strides in reappropriating the church year; much remains to be done before they reclaim the hours. The struggle to do that may be more difficult and require even more time than the renewal of the liturgical year.

Yet a third cycle of worship remains to be considered. That is the sanctoral cycle, the annual observance of the work of God in the great saints of the Bible and of the 20 centuries that have followed the death and resurrection of our Lord; this is discussed in Proclaim, Part 4, "The Time of the Church II."

RESOURCES FOR THE TIME OF THE CHURCH

Adaptation of the Liturgy

During the Time of the Church, it would be appropriate to omit all or part of the Entrance Rite, as well as other parts of the service, to provide a shorter form than the full eucharistic service. See pp. 311-15 for a full discussion of this subject, and recommendations for omissions.

Daily Prayer

Lutheran Worship provides four proper Invitatories for the Venite in Matins for the period covered by this volume of Proclaim: Holy Trinity—Pentecost 3, Pentecost 4—8, Pentecost 9—13, and Pentecost 14—Sunday before St. Michael and All Angels (LW: Altar Book, p. 43). Lutheran Worship and Lutheran Book of Worship provide the common Invitatory for the entire period. At Evening Prayer the common Acclamations are used to open the Service of Light.

In addition to the Venite (Psalm 95) at Morning Prayer (Matins) and Psalm 141 at Evening Prayer, at least one more psalm should be sung. (In Vespers the first psalm should be Psalm 141 or another psalm of confession or one appropriate to the hours.) During the Time of the Church, this second psalm will usually reflect the hour. Psalm 63 serves this purpose admirably for Morning Prayer. Additional psalms for the Time of the Church are listed in LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, p. 96. The "General" section is used from the Festival of the Holy Trinity through the Saturday before Advent 1. Groups which meet daily for disciplined prayer may find the "monastic" psalm listing ("General") given in LW: Altar Book, p. 127, of interest.

For office hymns for the Time of the Church, see Holy Trinity, p. 322, and Pentecost 2, p. 331-32.

THE HOLY TRINITY

Pentecost 1

THEME "Go and make disciples, baptizing them in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit."

The Spirit leads the church to adoration of the Father who sent His Son into our fallen world in the person of Jesus Christ and who poured out the Spirit upon the church, leaving a witness to the divine determination to renew the whole of creation. The liturgy today (and we must remember that this is the First Sunday after Pentecost) celebrates the life of God's people as a continuing outpouring of praise to Him.

In the beginning, this God whom we adore created the heavens and the earth and filled them with the plenitude of His fruitfulness (Gen. 1:1—2:3). Humankind was intended to live in harmony with the Creator and His creation, but we have destroyed our unity with them and have rejected God's intention for us. Though we were alienated from God and the creation, He thought it good that the Son should enter the world. This Son was anointed by the same Spirit that had hovered over the primal waters. He was obedient even unto death and so was raised as the firstfruits of a new and redeemed humanity. The risen Lord sent witnesses forth to create a new sanctified community for the Father. We who glorify God this day were made members of that community by Baptism, and our faith and life are guided by the teaching of the apostles. We share in the body and blood of Christ so that, filled with the Spirit of God, we may bear witness to God's love which desires that all be restored to His likeness. All this we take to our hearts this day (Deut. 4:39), for we have seen His great saving works.

We praise the name of the Lord as we "minister . . . in the courts of the house of our God" (LW, Ps. 135: 1-2). Even now "the voice of the Lord is upon the waters" (LBW, Ps. 29:3), bringing forth a new creation, a new generation of those who keep His commandments. We seek to "aim for perfection, . . . be of one mind, live in peace" (2 Cor. 13:11). The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Spirit fill us, so we may greet one another with a holy kiss as we share in the peace of the Lord in our Eucharist.

On this day the Athanasian Creed may replace the Nicene Creed at the Divine Service. It may also be used at the conclusion of the Psalmody at Daily Prayer. Because of its length, it may be said responsively, verse by verse, between a leader and the people or between two groups within the congregation.

It is recommended that on this day both the Kyrie and the Hymn of Praise be sung. Manual on the Liturgy: LBW suggests "Worthy Is Christ" as the Hymn of Praise; "Glory to God in the highest" is also appropriate, with its Trinitarian reference.

A fine parish activity utilizing all the choirs and instrumentalists might be a hymn festival based on the Nicene Creed. The hymns should be presented in varying ways, using alternation between men and women, choir and congregation, voices and solo organ, etc. This need not replace the Divine Service, but could be offered as a special observance of the day in an afternoon or evening presentation. A suggested outline is given here (Reprinted by permission from Hymns . . . How to Sing Them, by Mandus A. Egge and Janet Moede, copyright © Augsburg Publishing House).

Hymn: "For All the Saints" (LW 191, LBW 174, TLH 463)

Benediction

* Indicates the hymn is known by a different title in that book

Following is an additional office hymn for Trinity, suitable for Matins (Morning Prayer). It is in public domain (source unknown). A suggested tune is Herr Jesu Christ, dich zu uns wend (LM—88 88)—LW 201, LBW 253, TLH 3.

- 1 O Trinity in Unity,
You govern all things mightily;
Bow down to hear the songs of praise
Which we, Your wakeful servants, raise.
- 2 The daystar's rays are glitt'ring clear
And tell that day itself is here;
So, holy Light, illumine the heart
And to mankind Your gifts impart.
- 3 All laud to You, O Father, be,
To You, O Son, eternally;
To You, the Spirit, equal praise
From joyful hearts we ever raise.

PENTECOST 2

THEME "Righteousness from God comes through faith in Jesus Christ."

By the blood of Christ a new covenant was given. We celebrate that covenant each Lord's Day in remembrance of the death and resurrection of Christ for us. In the Holy Sacrament we celebrate both the Lord's passover and our own. We remember how Israel, called out of Egypt by God, was fed with manna and refreshed with sweet water as she journeyed to the promised land. On the verge of the promised land, Israel was offered the choice between a blessing and a curse—a blessing if after all this experience of God's lovingkindness Israel chose to obey the commandments of the Lord, or a curse if after all this, Israel chose to turn away from Him (Deut. 11:26-28). Israel was chosen and set apart for God's own purposes (LW, Ps. 4:2-3); she was to turn aside from all false gods. Her life was to be lived in the light of God's face.

Israel failed her calling; too often she sought after false gods. Luther reminds us in the Small Catechism (First Commandment) that we are to fear, love and trust in God above all others. Our calling is the same as Israel's; we too prefer gods that promise us what is more in accord with our own will. We pray that God will be our refuge in those moments when we are tested, and we commend our lives and our well-being to Him who has redeemed us (LBW, Ps. 31:1, 5). Our Lord invites us to build our lives on the Solid Rock. Our hope is in the strong prophetic word of God (Matt. 7:21, *24). The covenant was renewed for us in Christ's blood shed on the cross; by that blood we are justified by faith apart from the works of the Law (Rom. 3:22-25, 28).

The choice set before Israel is implicit in our liturgy every Lord's Day. In the liturgy we are invited to confess our faith, to plead for help in our weakness, and to find strength in the covenant given us by our God.

*On this day the semicontinuous reading of Matthew's gospel, begun during the Epiphany season, is resumed. A series of 16 readings from the Letter to the Romans begins today also. Although usually the Old Testament reading and the Gospel for the day provide the context for each day's liturgy, the Epistle may be chosen in some years as the homiletical text. Very frequently the Epistle will have points of contact with the other two readings. In those instances when the lectionary provides both shorter and longer versions of a lesson, the determination of which will be used in the service should not be based solely on a felt need for brevity. The congregation's likely awareness (or lack of awareness) of the context must be considered. If the shorter reading is selected, the worship leaders and the preacher should keep the contents of the longer selection in mind.

CODA

For a full discussion of adaptations of the liturgy during the Time of the Church, see pp. 311-315. The Kyrie or Hymn of Praise may be omitted; the appropriate Hymn of Praise is "Glory to God in the highest." On occasion the hymn "All Glory Be to God on High" (LW 215, LBW 166, TLH 237) may be substituted as the Hymn of Praise.

Choral/solo music on the general themes of commitment and justification would also be appropriate for this day.

Metrical versions of the LBW psalm include:

In You, Lord, I Have Put My Trust (LW 406, TLH 524)
My Spirit on Thy Care (TLH 435)

Summertime and the music-making is easy . . .

Although most church choirs take the summer off, there is no need for the music ministry of the church to diminish. It needs only take a slightly different approach. College students are home for the summer and can help out as instrumentalists or in ad hoc "choirs." Regular members who are too busy during the year to participate in the program may be willing to contribute in some way during the summer. Some churches have tried family choirs as a Sunday School/Bible Class alternative. Vacation Bible School groups can perform during one or two Sundays. Of course, many regular choir members may want to continue during the summer. Don't forget—anthems and motets for unison voices, SA or SAB make good solos, duets, or small ensemble pieces. Simple psalm settings are abundant. Even dressing up an unfamiliar hymn into a "homemade" anthem will be a welcome addition to summer worship. There are a wealth of possibilities to make each worship day a "refreshment Sunday."

THEME "Christ calls sinners to follow Him."

Matthew's exposure to the Pharisees and the teachers of the law did not prepare him for the mercy of God in Christ. Though rejected by the religious and patriotic leaders of his day, yet by God's grace Matthew was called: "Follow me." Furthermore, Jesus broke bread with him, a sign of God's reconciliation with His people.

We too, who have died with Christ and been raised to new life, must learn that God desires mercy before sacrifice (Hos. 6:6, Matt. 9:13). This prophetic word is not a condemnation either of the forms of worship or of observance of the Law. Rather, Hosea testifies to God's loving purpose for Israel. Our worship and our observance of the Law are a response to God's self-giving. Both must flow out of an understanding that acceptance of our status as His friends and children cannot be an unheeding seizing of His gifts for ourselves. Thanksgiving for the gifts of God moves us to adoration of Him and ministry to the needs of others. His judgments flash like lightning upon our liturgical assemblies when we cover ourselves with a cloak of righteousness and scorn the unrighteous as though God's love could be meant only for us and not for them.

The Spirit-filled desire the knowledge of God and the compassionate judgment of others that is so much a sign of His presence (LW, Ps. 119:66). When we confess our trust in God before others, God searches our hearts because of the covenant sealed with the sacrifice of Jesus (Rom. 4:25). He seeks fulfillment of the vows we have made to the Most High (LBW, Ps. 50:5, 14). Matthew received the call of Jesus as a matter of grace and gratefully responded. The Pharisees heard the same call, but their ears were filled with the roaring of their own righteousness. They thought that was what God required of them. Their sacrifices made Christ's sacrifice of no significance to them. Jesus has taught us that we are all utterly helpless when we stand before God. We live by God's mercy; we show our acceptance of that mercy as we deal in mercy with others.

THEME "God sends out workers into the harvest fields."

Sheep, milling about, harassed by predatory rulers, sheep without security, without shelter, and without care—so Israel appeared in God's eyes. Whether they were enslaved by the Egyptians and forced to sacrifice their children to national security interests or were made to live in an occupied homeland and forced to see the Shepherd of the sheep sacrificed to national security interests, God's people were harassed and helpless (Matt. 9:36). God made His covenant with Israel at Sinai. Having carried His people on eagles' wings to His holy mountain, God made of us "a kingdom of priests and a holy nation" (Ex. 19:4, 6). We have faltered in our gratitude toward God again and again. So He sent His Son to renew the covenant by teaching and healing and, above all, by the shedding of His blood and by His restoration to life. Trusting in His Word, "given and shed for you," we gather around the body and blood that were sacrificed for the renewal of the covenant.

We have hope because "the Lord is good and his love endures forever; his faithfulness continues through all generations" (Ps. 100:5). For our sake, Jesus sent His holy apostles out to call the lost sheep of Israel back to the Father's loving care. He was claiming the harvest for His Father. God's labors on our behalf thus deserve an outpouring of faith and obedience from us. Jesus calls for laborers to work in the fields; we have answered His call. We gather today in thankfulness to sing our praises to God and to be sent to proclaim the Kingdom in the world so that the harvest may be gathered. Freely we have received; freely we must give (Matt. 10:8).

THEME "Whoever acknowledges the Christ will be acknowledged by His Father in heaven."

Rising waters bring both life and death. We are born anew in the waters of Baptism. Through them we find shelter in the Most High; we eagerly seek to rest in the shadow of the Almighty (LW, Ps. 91:1). But water is also an image of danger and death. "Save me, O God, for the waters have risen up to my neck" (LBW, Ps. 69:1). So also we find both security and sorrow in our lives in the midst of the people of God. The speaking of God's Word, the living waters, brings hope, but it also places us in danger.

Jeremiah wrestled with his lot as the preacher of God's Word. Called by God, but fearing that the call was leading only to rejection and danger, he was torn. As much as we, Jeremiah sought the approval of his people and a sense that his work was not in vain (Jer. 20:7-8, 10). But when we cease preaching to others the Word proclaimed in our assemblies, we can have no peace. "His word is in my heart like a fire" (Jer. 20:9).

That Word speaks to the world of humankind's sin and folly and rebellion as exemplified in Adam and Eve. The Word made flesh died that God's grace might triumph over our sin and that "the gift that came by the grace of the one man, Jesus Christ, [would] overflow to the many" (Rom. 5:12-13, 15). Jesus came to make that gift a reality and to proclaim God's grace to many. The members of God's household are not above their Master, so proclaiming the Word is their work also. Whoever disowns Jesus before others, even by silence, will also be disowned by Christ before His Father in heaven. The great reward offered to those who, like Jeremiah, remain faithful in proclamation even in the face of hatred is that they will be acknowledged by Christ before the eternal Father in heaven.

THEME "The one who receives the Son also receives the Father."

Caught up in the swirling currents of daily life, we come away from the world, seeking a quiet cove in which to rest and find provisions for the journey still ahead of us. We seek in our assemblies the true Sabbath that the Lord has promised to His faithful people. Such peace is rightfully ours. But to seek peace at the expense of faith and engagement with the world is to create yet another idol. We are given but one God to seek and to worship, the God of whom the psalmist sings, "Your love, O Lord, forever will I sing; from age to age my mouth will proclaim your faithfulness" (LBW, Ps. 89:1). Our worship of God is untrue unless the words and deeds of our assemblies are reflected in corresponding words and deeds in our daily lives.

The false prophet breaks the unity between liturgy and life. Then there can be no peace. Hananiah sought to please the king rather than the Lord with his words. He proclaimed peace, but without truth there can be no peace. Far too often the true prophet must point to the tragic effects rooted in human rebellion and sin (Jer. 28:8); too often he must speak from out of the suffering of the people. Then he must point them to the deliverance that can come to the faithful only from God (LW, Ps. 119:153-54). Jesus, true prophet, offered no false peace, no peace announced apart from obedience to the Lord God. In the cross the true love of God is seen. Even as the Son Himself accepted death on the cross as the only way of salvation for the people, so all those who would follow Jesus must confront the cross. The cross is the dividing point; we either take up the cross ourselves or we reject it as the source of life. No other allegiance can displace the cross from the place of priority in our lives. At the cross prophets are divided into faithful and unfaithful, true and false. The preacher of the true peace therefore is to be received as one sent from God and honored for the sake of Him whose message is proclaimed (Matt. 10:40-41). The true preacher does not utter private opinions that will win acceptance but speaks God's Word with gentleness, yet without fear or favor, as it is grounded in the Scriptures.

Happy are the people who know the festal shout—the Kyries and Glorias and Thanksgivings—the words by which they rejoice in God's name (LBW, Ps. 89:15-18). Yet the festal shout is heard with pleasure by God only when uttered by those who make their baptism a daily bath, drowning the disobedient self and accepting actively the new life given by God (Rom. 6:1, 6-10).

THEME "In His gentleness of heart, Christ makes His Father known."

Our struggle to let Christ's life live in us is common to each of us. Even the apostle Paul lamented that he found himself doing what he did not want to do and not doing that which he would do (Rom. 7:15, 18-20). He despaired that if it were not for God's grace he would be lost. "What a wretched man I am! Who will rescue me from this body of death? Thanks be to God—through Jesus Christ our Lord!" (Rom. 7:24-25). So it would seem that following Christ is burdensome. But Jesus says that His yoke is light because of God's grace. He invites us, "Come to me, all you who are weary and burdened, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn from me" (Matt. 11:28-29). The yoke of Jesus is impossible to bear unless the Father has revealed the Son to us. The wise and the learned (that is, those who seek to know the Father in a way different from the way the Son knows Him) can never find comfort in the yoke. Only the "little children" (that is, those who wait faithfully for God to act on their behalf) can accept the yoke.

For Jesus comes not in a display of heavenly power nor as the brilliant teacher of a new truth but as one of the "little ones," obedient to His knowledge of the Father. Because of the covenant that God made with His people, Jesus came to free those enslaved to sin, death, and the devil. All our waiting will be rewarded, for He restores "twice as much" to us as we had dared hope for. We wait confidently, for "the Lord is faithful in all his words and merciful in all his deeds. . . . He fulfills the desire of those who fear him" (LBW, Ps. 145:14, 20). God's promises have been thoroughly tested; we have found His righteousness to be everlasting (LW, Ps. 119:140, 142).

THEME "God's word will not return to Him empty, but will accomplish the purpose for what He sent it."

The separation from the natural world of seed time, time of burgeoning growth, and harvest time that many of us experience separates us also from Jesus' mirror of images. His words become a bit more opaque for us as a result, the light of eternity perhaps a bit less luminous. (Because the liturgy, Word, and Sacraments are all based on the same world of experience, we have a similar obstacle to overcome in our worship.) Fortunately, many of us are still able to observe or at least imagine that natural world. We can rejoice with the psalmist and see ourselves too as blessed, for we too have been chosen and brought to dwell in the courts of the Lord where the fruitful Word of God is sown (Ps. 65:4). Here we find God's salvation cast into our hearts so it may bear a rich harvest, through the reading of Scripture, the sermon, the Sacraments which are rich Word-bearing sacred signs, and the words and acts of the liturgy itself.

We experience the purposefulness of God in our gathering. "As the rain and the snow come down from heaven, and do not return to it without watering the earth and making it bud and flourish," so God's Word that goes forth from His mouth cannot return empty to Him. It accomplishes what He desires (Is. 55:10-11). It has power to convert our hearts and to turn us into the rich soil that bears thirty-fold, sixty-fold, and, we may dare to hope, hundred-fold (Matt. 13:23).

St. Paul also draws on images of the creation's fertility. Under the benevolent influence of God, the earth is now groaning as in the pains of childbirth as the harvest of a new humanity and a restored earth comes into being. So also we "who have the firstfruits of the Spirit groan inwardly as we wait eagerly" for our adoption as sons and daughters (Rom. 8:19, 22-23). In these days we learn to live as heirs so we may be given the inheritance of life in the eternal courts of God.

THEME

"Israel's King and Redeemer, the Lord Almighty, the First and the Last"

Last week we heard of the harvest of the Word. We are to be a part of that harvest, gathered into God's barns. The days of maturation are days of stress. The ways of God are not fully disclosed to us, nor could we comprehend them in their entirety. Nor is God the only sower in the world. There is another who seeks a harvest far different from the harvest God seeks, a harvest of opposition to His intention for us (Matt. 13:25). Happily, the Spirit of God helps us in our days of weakness. We scarcely know for what we ought to pray, but reassurance is given us by the Spirit who intercedes for God's wheat surrounded by the choking weeds (Rom. 8:26). We need not fear, for all this is encompassed in God's foreknowledge and good providence. He who is the First and the Last, our King and Redeemer, the Lord Almighty, apart from whom there is no God, tells us, "Do not tremble, do not be afraid." The angels of God themselves will conduct the harvest. The children of God will be preserved and will shine like the sun in God's kingdom, kept from the fate of the children of the Adversary (Matt. 13:40-43).

The psalms speak of the graciousness of God. "Great is your love toward me; you have delivered me from the nethermost pit. . . . You, O Lord, are gracious and full of compassion, slow to anger, and full of kindness and truth" (LBW, Ps. 86:13, 15). Our remembrance of God's past mercies and promises enables us confidently to turn our steps in trust to the words that flow from God's everlasting wisdom (LW, Ps. 119:58-59). In this time when good and evil are still intermingled, we have gathered so God can give us a sign of His favor that we might say before one another, "You, O Lord, have helped me and comforted me" (LBW, Ps. 86:17).

THEME "God works all things for good for those who love Him."

Where else do we find the words of eternal life but in the presence of the Lord who is in the midst of His people? (Verse, John 6:68). So we, like Solomon and the faithful wise of all the ages, seek ownership of this great treasure that in the judgment we may be brought into God's great treasure house. We have this confidence that in all things God works for the good of those who love Him. His call assures us of His love and bestows on us our love for Him. He has justified us and transfigured us in His own glory (Rom. 8:28, 30). Yet we know ourselves to be but little children in our knowledge of God's wisdom (1 Kings 3:7), not yet fully conformed to the likeness of His Son (Rom. 8:29). Thus we journey to be closer to that Word which alone gives us wisdom and insight. It is a pearl of great price, and in seeking it we claim the righteousness of God. When our heart is fixed on the true treasure, then we will be ready to receive all other treasures rightly (1 Kings 3:12-14, cf. Matt. 6:33).

The liturgy celebrated in the gathering together of God's own people proclaims this Word. Scripture that reveals His love in Christ and His grace showered on Israel and on the tribes restored by the preaching of the holy apostles, together with the great hymns of the liturgy, the prayers, and the contemporary proclamation of God's wisdom—all these give us light and understanding. That Word is the radiance of God's face shining upon us so our footsteps may be directed on the path to eternal life (Ps. 119:130, 133, 135). By our possession of this Word of life we shall be known to God as "good fish," among those chosen for keeping (Matt. 13:47-48).

THEME "God sustains His people with the life-giving bread of His Son."

Whether it be done in a simple country church or in the cathedral of a great city, whether the celebration be one of great splendor or of simplicity, the Supper of the Lord defines the church. We are the people who have accepted the Lord's invitation to join Him in banquet. "Come, all you who are thirsty, . . . and you who have no money, come. . . . buy wine and milk. . . . eat what is good, and your soul will delight in the richest of fare. . . . hear me, that your soul may live" (Is. 55:1-3). We come to Him penniless with nothing of value in our hands.

In the temple, those who knew their poverty brought sacrifice. The animal was slaughtered, its blood shed; then priest and humble offerer shared in the meal of sacrificed flesh as a sign of reconciliation and peace between God and covenanted believer. So now the Lord Jesus takes bread and wine, says the words of blessing and shares with us the body and blood offered on the cross for us. This is the meal that satisfies our deepest hunger, the hunger not only of the body but also of the spirit. The 5,000 who were fed by the five loaves of bread and the two fish did not just receive satisfaction of a momentary need of the body but were also invited to the greater Banquet. Salvation appeared before them. Jesus had come as God's emissary to gather together again the 12 tribes of Israel (Matt. 14:20), who had been scattered by the false shepherds of Israel and through the arrogant pride of enemy nations. Now He brought them an invitation to restoration and reconciliation.

God has remembered His people and brings strengthening, life-giving food to all (LW, Ps. 136:23, 25). The entire creation, including us, is dependent on His beneficence (LBW, Ps. 104:28). His Spirit alone can sustain us. Bread without the word of promise is but bread. Bread with the word of promise is Spirit-filled, having the power to renew us and the whole earth (LBW, Ps. 104:31). When we are sustained by the life-giving Spirit, nothing can separate us from God's love. None of the hardships of life, not even the threats to our faith, can crush us. Each Lord's Day the body and blood of Christ recall to us the faithfulness of God, and we are made conquerors through Christ over all our enemies (Rom. 8:35-37).

THEME

"The Lord alone is our strength and shield."

How easily we fall into self-pity! We encounter resistance to God's Word, we are treated poorly because of the Lord, and we are ready to cry out, "Lord, I alone am left, and they seek my life! Deliver me." Elijah is not alone in that cry, and he had far better reason than we to fear (1 Kings 19:10). How much easier it would be if our God would crush His opposition with His might. A theology of glory is all too appealing to us. Let God vindicate us with His glorious might! But God calls us to faith in the midst of His apparent weakness. He invites us to trust at the very moment that we have no proof of His truthfulness (Verse, Heb. 11:1).

So much of our life seems to us to be spent on stormy seas. We see around us threatening waves, with everything shaken by the wild winds caused by our enemies. Then out of the stormy night Christ appears to us. "If you only believe, you can walk upon the billows. Come, believe in me. Walk confidently" (Matt. 14:27). Half-convinced, we walk out upon the waves and in our unbelief we are overcome by doubt. Here, sheltered in the midst of the ark of God, the church, we experience the reaching out of Jesus' hand. Here He lifts us above the waves to save us from our unbelief. Here he assures us of the thousands who have not bent their knees to the Baals of daily life. Here the Lord reveals Himself as the Strength of His people, as the One who hears our cries (LW, Ps. 28:6-8). Here we "listen to what the Lord God is saying, for he is speaking peace to his faithful people." Truly, here His salvation is very near (LBW, Ps. 85:8-9). Then He sends us back out into the world with His benediction to pour out the unction of His Spirit upon all those who are called to serve God. We are the oil that should still the rebellious waters of life.

Each of us hungers for the salvation of those who are near to us and dear to us. We would have all of the obstacles of unbelief and misunderstanding torn down for them. We have found so much joy and consolation through our adoption into God's household that we hope and pray for the day when all would accept the salvation of God (Rom. 9:3-5).

THEME "Behold, God's great mercy."

Jesus' coming brought a sword into the world. Although He came to gather all things together so He might present the world as His offering to God, His Word can still divide father from son, mother from daughter. Not all are ready to accept the gracious invitation to cast aside their own claims and to rest their hope in Jesus' righteousness. Last week we heard Paul anguish over the inability of so many of his fellow Jews to accept with eagerness the invitation of God in Christ. Though the Gospel calls many to God, some of those expected to heed the call cannot. On the other hand, we are often surprised by God's calling of those outside the family, and are even more surprised when they accept the call that has been rejected by others.

No one could have expected the Canaanite woman to even hear the call. Yet, in her anguish over her daughter, she turned to Jesus to break the demonic powers that bound her child. Although rebuffed, her need forced her to persist. She cried the more firmly for Christ's mercy. Kyrie, eleison is our prayer, too, as we set before God our own need and as we intercede on behalf of those in the world who need prayer but often are unable to pray for themselves. Though the salvation of God is close at hand (Is. 56:1), many in the world are disinterested or blind. Christians, however, gather on the Lord's Day to rejoice in the salvation offered freely through the death and resurrection of Christ. We "remember" the Lord's saving work so we may be united and strengthened in our resolve to go into the world, even to its farthest corners, to make disciples, baptizing and teaching the whole counsel of God. Our ministry in the world, like Paul's, is intended to arouse faith so that the peoples may praise God for the salvation He has offered to them (Ps. 67:2-3).

Why have so many of God's ancient people seemingly rejected God's call and promise? Like Paul, we are confused about the reasons, but we place our hope for them in the certainty that God's gifts and call are irrevocable. This comforts us in our own times of doubting and renews our determination to proclaim Christ to all. We do not doubt that God can save even those who seem for awhile indifferent to our witness (Rom. 11:13, 29). Our liturgical assemblies are in themselves an invitation to all nations to seek life in the love of God displayed in Christ, the Savior of the nations.

THEME

"I will take you as My own people and I will be your God"

Long before we dream of seeking God, His face is turned toward us in compassion. No one reveals God to us but God alone. Nor can we grasp the comprehensiveness of our need as well as He does. Slavery comes in many forms, none more treacherous than the slavery unknown to the victim. Israel's slavery was a bondage to forced labor and the loss of future hope. God heard the groaning of the Israelites, the people of the covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob and their families. With an outstretched and powerful arm He broke open their chains so they could again serve their true Lord.

Another kind of slavery is even more life-crushing than Israel's earlier bondage, the bondage to sin and death. For all those in this bondage God has made possible a new exodus. In Baptism we pass through the waters to freedom from sin; in Holy Communion miraculous food sustains us in our pilgrimage to the promised land. The presence of the proclaimed Word guides us. For us the question remains, however: "Who do people say the Son of Man is?" More to the point, "Who do you say I am?" We must learn to say faithfully, "You are the Christ, the Son of the living God" (Matt. 16:13-16), for the presence of Jesus discloses that God's salvation is at work.

Those who acknowledge God as the only source of freedom and life bow down toward His holy temple and praise the name of the living God for love freely given. "Though the Lord is on high, he looks upon the lowly" (Ps. 138:1-2, 6). When we are assembled in His house, God reveals to us the depth of the riches of the divine wisdom and knowledge (Rom. 11:33). By His unfathomable judgment, the keys of the kingdom are given for our salvation. The word of absolution spoken over us by God's servant is God's own word of forgiveness. The drama of salvation that destines us for heaven is realized here on earth as we confess Christ in our assemblies.

THEME "God's word reveals His plan for Jesus' death upon the cross."

Some seem spared the troubles of life; others walk frequently in shadow. Some sorrows are ours because of the trials of life. Other sorrows are ours precisely because we have confessed that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God (Matt. 16:16—Pentecost 14, Series A). In such circumstances we turn to God and pray, "Your love is before my eyes; I have walked faithfully with you" (LBW, Ps. 26:3). "I have suffered much; preserve my life, O Lord, according to your word" (LW, Ps. 119:107). Jesus did not hesitate to speak the truth to His disciples. "If anyone would come after me, he must deny himself and take up his cross and follow me. For whoever wants to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for me will find it" (Matt. 16:24-25).

Jeremiah found it hard to speak God's word of judgment to the people. He grieved for them; the burden of his message was unbearable to him. Precisely because of his confession that Christ is the Son of the living God, Peter also found intolerable Jesus' decision to go to Jerusalem and "suffer many things at the hands of the elders, chief priests and teachers of the law" and "be killed and on the third day be raised to life" (Matt. 16:21). He pressed Jesus to take another road to glory. Jesus had heard that suggestion before—in the wilderness, from Satan! His heart, however, was set on keeping God's Word to the very end (LW, Ps. 119:112). In the end both Jeremiah and Peter were reconciled to that hard Word. Jeremiah found his hope in God's offer of reconciliation between God and a repentant people. "When your words came, I ate them; they were my joy and my heart's delight" (Jer. 15:16). In the end Jesus pressed Peter there by the side of the sea. "Simon son of John, do you truly love me?" Peter, do you finally understand why it had to be the cross? If you do, Peter, feed my sheep. "When you are old, you [too] will stretch out your hands, and someone else will dress you and lead you where you do not want to go" (John 21:15-19).

The only lasting joy for us is "to offer [our] bodies as living sacrifices, holy and pleasing to God." We desire no longer to be conformed to the patterns of this world, but to be transformed by the renewal of our minds. We dare not think of ourselves as greater than the Lord and exempt from faithful suffering. We who are many form one body; each of us lives to serve the other members of the body (Rom. 12:1-5). We are the body of Christ, and the body of Christ takes up the cross so it may lose its life for Christ's sake.

THEME "The authorities that exist have been established by God."

"For God so loved the world that He gave His only Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have eternal life. For God sent the Son into the world, not to condemn the world, but that the world might be saved through Him" (John 3:16-17, RSV). In God's passion for our reconciliation with Him and our neighbor, God offered His own Son for us. That same passion for reconciliation is to mark the fellowship of the Son's disciples. "If your brother sins against you, go and show him his fault, just between the two of you. If he listens to you, you have won your brother over" (Matt. 18:15). This forgiveness is a sign of Christ's work among us and a reflection in us of His own image. So essential is reconciliation in the kingdom that the sins of those who will not repent must be bound. Forgiveness without true repentance cannot be glossed over in our midst, for it cannot be tolerated in heaven. In this matter we must all be agreed, for this is in accord with the Father's will (Matt. 18:18-19). The warning to Israel's watchman is warning to us as well. To remain indifferent to the sin that alienates us from God and one another makes us accountable along with the sinner (Ezek. 33:7-9).

Reconciliation with God requires of us that we henceforth avoid unrepented evil. "Away from me, you evildoers, that I may keep the commands of my God!" (LW, Ps. 119:115). We ask God to incline our hearts to do His will in this matter as in all else. "Make me go in the path of Your commandments, for that is my desire" (LW, Ps. 119:35-36). The same Christians who submit to the will of God in this are also to submit themselves to the governing authorities, for their authority is also from God. Above all, we are to desire the well-being of every other person. "Let no debt remain outstanding, except the continuing debt to love one another," for those who love their neighbors have fulfilled the Law. "Love does no harm to its neighbor" and makes reconciliation unnecessary. "Therefore love is the fulfilling of the law" (Rom. 13:1, 8, 10).

THEME

"If we live, we live to the Lord; if we die, we die to the Lord."

"How good and pleasant it is when brothers live together in unity!" (Ps. 133:1). That unity is an intrinsic part of what it means to be Church. The readiness to forgive and to be forgiven is all-important. How often we hear people say, "I can forgive, but I cannot forget." We do not always know what it is that we say, but the harboring of resentment is not worthy of those who have been forgiven of their sins by the King. "We belong to the Lord. For this very reason, Christ died and returned to life that he might be the Lord of both the dead and the living" (Rom. 14:8-9). The debt owed Joseph was surely great beyond the capacity of his brothers to redeem. They had intended his death. Only at the last moment did they settle for selling him into servitude. Joseph had been raised to great power in accordance with the will of God so that the famine-stricken might be rescued. Upon the death of Jacob, Joseph's brothers feared that Joseph would unleash his anger. They assured him that it was their father's dying wish that Joseph be reconciled to them. Joseph assured them that he had no intention of taking the place of God by passing judgment on their sin. Though they had intended evil, God had turned their evil into good so many lives might be saved (Gen. 50:15-19).

God forgives all our sins; He redeems our lives from the pit and crowns us with love and compassion (Ps. 103:3-4). If God does this, surely we must do the same. Peter was ready to forgive seven times if need be. Jesus rejects the kind of love that keeps count, for God's generosity goes beyond counting. He forgives both those who owe Him much and those who owe little. We are to learn from Him. "Shouldn't you have had mercy on your fellow servant just as I had on you?" (Matt. 18:33). The Son of the living God has surrendered His life for us. Now none of us dare live to himself or herself alone, and none of us dies to himself or herself alone. All of our doings are done so we may serve our merciful Lord (Rom. 14:5-8). In our community of faith, by God's power, we live not for ourselves but for the Lord. Receiving and giving forgiveness are the necessary beginnings of our thanksgiving to God.

THEME "He who began a good work in you will carry it to completion."

How could we have known that God does not judge us by the size of our debt to Him? His forgiveness comes to us unexpectedly. No price has been set for His mercy—but the suffering and death of His beloved Son! His thoughts are most certainly not our thoughts, nor are His ways our ways (Is. 55:8). To us, it is not fair that those who came late to the task should be paid a like amount to that given those who have labored through the heat of the day. Such generosity offends. (And might not such a Lord expect us to display the same generosity?) Why do we who are treated generously begrudge generosity to others? "Don't I have the right to do what I want with my own money?" (Matt. 20:15). How difficult it is for us to see our debt as great as it truly is, how difficult for us to realize that we are all equally dependent on God's grace whether we begin our labors in His vineyard in childhood or in maturity. To God all sin is equally alienating and all loving service equally treasured in Christ.

Our entire life is one of seeking the Lord and returning to Him so that He may pardon us and lead us to understand His ways (Is. 55:6-7). Ours is a lifelong desire to learn from Him. "One thing I ask of the Lord . . . : that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to gaze upon the beauty of the Lord and to seek Him in His temple" (LW, Ps. 27:4; LBW, Ps. 27:5-6). It is the nature of the beauty of the Lord that He forgives and that He receives our fruitful labor as a fragrant offering to Him. "To live is Christ and to die is gain." As we abound more and more in knowledge and depth of insight, we shall increasingly be able to discern what is best so that we "may be pure and blameless until the day of Christ, filled with the fruit of righteousness that comes through Jesus Christ—to the glory and praise of God" (Phil. 1:9-11, 21-24).

THE TIME OF THE CHURCH II

The Spirit of the Season

Four decades ago, Maria Augusta Trapp wrote about the weeks following Pentecost: "This second half of the Church Year is referred to in Austria as 'the Green Meadow,' because of the green color of the vestments on the Sundays after Pentecost, whereas, until then, they had been violet, red, or white." * These weeks present to us the life of the church as through history the church has been guided and guarded by the Holy Spirit. The green fabrics we see in the chancel are witnesses to the way the church is to grow—through the proclamation of the Gospel to those as yet outside the church, in holiness and conformity to the Spirit's testimony to Christ, and in readiness for the coming again of the Lord of the church. **

This perspective remains true for that part of the Time of the Church covered in this volume. (In the intention of the church, the Time of the Church is a whole, even if for convenience Proclaim divides the discussion of this period into two parts.) Yet bit by bit a change takes place during the Time of the Church as the year moves from the beginning to the end of the season. In the temperate zone of the northern hemisphere Christians experience Lent during spring when life returns, Pentecost at the beginning of summer with its promise of growth and beauty, and autumn as a time for the rich harvest given by God. (Christians in the southern hemisphere experience the church year with quite different signs in nature.) Although the church begins its new year on the First Sunday in Advent and the calendar begins a new year on January 1, in Canada and the United States a new year in effect begins with the ending of the summer holidays and the beginning of school sessions. These occur at different times in different communities, yet in every place they have a profound effect on the life and activity of the church. This turning from the activities that characterize the summer to those that characterize the rest of the year, although not a part of the church's calendar, affects the church's life more than any other aspect of the civic community's life. (Thanksgiving Day, in both Canada and the United States, plays a significant part in the church's worship, but other than New Year's Eve, and perhaps one or two national holidays, the civic year plays little constructive part in the worship of the church.)  The beginning of the school year marks an end to summer with its more leisurely ways, its vacation periods, and the lessening of activity in the churches. A time of renewed activity takes place as summer comes to a close. Family patterns change, children in school meet new friends and encounter new teachers and new learning. Congregations begin a new round of educational activities as well as other programs. This time raises expectations and brings hope of new fruit, a new harvest.

The observance of Labor Day in the United States seems to have had little effect on the life of Lutheran churches. Perhaps a suspicion or uneasiness about secular concerns is partly responsible. But if the holiday does not affect us, the theme of the dignity and worth of human labor redeemed by God should be valued. Through the blessing of God, human labor is able to produce the fruits He intends for us to have. The church has its own labors. The final weeks of the Time of the Church forcefully remind us that the Owner of the vineyard will send His Representative to oversee the harvest. All Saints' Day celebrates the harvest the Owner has already gathered. The last Sunday of the year, the Festival of Christ the King (LBW) or the Sunday of the Fulfillment (LW), speaks to us of Christ's glorious return when He will be revealed to the entire world as the Lord at whose name every creature must bow, who will show His faithfulness to all those who have labored in the vineyard, some of whom have mingled their blood with the vintage.

Holy Cross Day (September 14) is a convenient point at which the church may take note of the renewal of activity as summer comes to a close and autumn begins. One should surely not talk about this as "New Year's Day" in the church. The two we have are already quite enough! Yet in North American church life this is the point at which we are getting our "second wind" (the pentecostal pun is intended). Holy Cross Day offers an opportunity for us to dedicate ourselves anew to the Christ who died on the cross, rose, ascended, and sent the Counselor to guide and guard us until the Son returns to claim His rightful place as King in the sight of all the nations.

The Shape of the Season

We do not look for the sharply defined festivals and Sundays of the Christmas and Easter cycles during the Time of the Church. In Advent, Christmas, Lent, the Paschal Triduum and Easter, the liturgy focuses our attention on individual events in the life of the Lord. The readings (including the psalms) are consciously harmonized around these events or around certain Biblical themes that provide us with additional insight about the meaning of the events. In the Time of the Church, however, things go differently. The Gospels are read in semi-continuous fashion—Matthew in Year A, Mark in Year B, and Luke in Year C. (In Year B, John 6 is inserted to supplement Mark, the shortest of the three Gospels.) The readings from the Hebrew Scriptures are tied to the Gospel of the day and the psalms are responsive to the first lesson, but the readings from the New Testament letters are, like the Gospels, read in semi-continuous fashion. Therefore, we should not look for a golden thread that runs through the three readings and the psalm for the day. The difference between the festival seasons and the "green seasons" that follow Epiphany and Pentecost must be respected. This difference opens new ways of approaching service preparation.

Although the lectionaries in LBW and LW are based very closely on the lectionary prepared by the Roman Catholic church following the Second Vatican Council, as are the other denominational three-year lectionaries, the Lutheran treatment of the Time of the Church differs from that of the other churches in one significant way. Because of the changing date of Easter, the number of Sundays following Pentecost will vary from year to year. The general practice is for the excess propers to be removed at the beginning of the season, immediately following Holy Trinity. This insures the use each year of the final sets of propers that are focused on the last things. The Lutheran lectionaries, however, use another device. The Inter-Lutheran lectionary chose instead to eliminate the sets of propers immediately preceding the last Sunday after Pentecost in those years when Easter comes later. This system means that some of the eschatological lessons will be lost. To lessen the effect of this, some additional propers were inserted before the last Sunday after Pentecost so the propers to be omitted were less likely to be the eschatological sets. Each of the two systems has its benefits and problems. The Lutheran approach has the benefit of making it easier for worship leaders to determine which set of propers should be used on a given Sunday. The disadvantages are the disruption of the carefully devised system of propers for the end of the year and the result that in all but a few years Lutheran churches use lessons on a given Sunday other than those used by other Christian congregations around them. The following chart outlines the propers appointed for the final Sundays of the Time of the Church in the Inter-Lutheran lectionary. Only the Gospels are listed for the sake of clarity, but the first and second readings together with the appointed psalms are assumed. The underlined Gospels represent the sets of propers inserted by the Inter-Lutheran lectionary into the ecumenical series.

Lutheran Calendar Designation	Year A	Year B	Year C
Pentecost 22	Matt. 22:15-21	Mark 10:35-45	Luke 18:1-8a
Pentecost 23	Matt. 22:34-46	Mark 10:46-52	Luke 18:9-14
Pentecost 24	Matt. 25:1-13	Mark 12:28-37	Luke 19:1-10
Pentecost 25	Matt. 25:14-30	Mark 12:41-44	Luke 20:27-38
Pentecost 26	Matt. 23:1-12 [*]	Mark 13:1-13	Luke 21: 5-19
Pentecost 27	Matt. 24:1-14	Mark 13:24-31	Luke 19:11-27
Last Sunday after Pentecost	Matt. 25:31-46	John 18:33-37	Luke 23:35-43

The dislocations and additions listed above help account for some of the awkwardness experienced by Lutheran worship leaders when they make use of materials based on one of the other three-year lectionaries. Thus great care has to be taken when such materials are drawn upon to make certain that the propers under discussion are the same ones being used on that day in LBW and LW.²

Lutheran Worship adopted the Inter-Lutheran lectionary and, at the same time, the "Lutheran solution" to the varying lengths of the Time of the Church. However, hearkening back to an earlier Lutheran tradition, LW designated the final three sets of pericopes for invariable use (Third-Last, Second-Last, and Last Sundays of the Church Year). Hence, LBW, as needed, omits the propers for Pentecost 27, Pentecost 26, Pentecost 25, and so on, in that order. LW, as needed, omits the propers for Pentecost 25, Pentecost 24, Pentecost 23, and so on, in that order. Furthermore, LW makes provision for an alternate set of readings for the last three Sundays after Pentecost. These sets have a different character from that of the Inter-Lutheran readings. However, they are also designed to present Biblical teaching concerning the final things. One other change has been made in LW. The title for the final Sunday in LBW (following the general practice) is the Festival of Christ the King, with the subtitle of the Last Sunday after Pentecost. LW refers to the same day as the Last Sunday in the Church Year with the subtitle, Sunday of the Fulfillment. The difference implied by the titles is evident in the difference between the Inter-Lutheran propers for the day and the corresponding LW alternate propers. The two sets of propers are treated separately, therefore, in this part of Proclaim. Future liturgical revision, one can fervently hope, will bring a resolution of these matters.

Unlike the first part of the Time of the Church, the part covered in this volume includes several minor festivals that are frequently observed by Lutheran congregations with liturgical celebrations. Holy Cross Day has been mentioned as one minor festival that may well serve congregations in marking the beginning of a new period of activity. The Festival of the Reformation has long been observed by congregations, and All Saints' Day is growing in popularity. Thanksgiving Day in both Canada and the United States, although on different days, is received with appreciation. Other than New Year's Eve, this is the only day in the civil calendar that has sustained itself in the church's calendar.

² Those who wish to give further study to this matter should read Horace T. Allen, Jr.'s "Introduction" to Common Lectionary: The Lectionary Proposed by the Consultation on Common Texts (New York: Church Hymnal Corporation, 1983), pp. 5-27. The Common Lectionary, which offers a reconciliation of the various adaptations of the three-year lectionary, will undergo testing through the 1988-89 church year in North America. It is currently undergoing study in Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand and the Republic of South Africa, as well. The Consultation invites evaluations and suggestions for improvement from congregations and individuals who have studied the proposed lectionary on a trial basis.

THE TIME OF THE CHURCH II

As All Saints' Day is more frequently observed, a subunit of the Time of the Church is emerging in our practice, a period bracketed by All Saints' Day and the last Sunday after Pentecost. In between fit one or more Sundays with eschatological themes. This subunit was not intended by the framers of the lectionary and calendar, but the permission to transfer observance of All Saints' Day to the Sunday following has brought it into being.

North American Lutherans find it difficult to gather for worship at their churches on any other day but Sunday. Some of the causes for this are societal; others involve certain misunderstandings and an inability to grasp the communal nature of Christianity. Whatever the causes, the effect has been that most minor festivals simply go unobserved. In fact, they are unknown to many Lutherans. Rubrical permission is given to transfer Reformation Day to the Sunday before and All Saints' Day to the Sunday following. These celebrations are deemed so important that it is better that they be observed on a Sunday than not observed at all. All in all, this is probably true, but observance of these two festivals on Sundays seriously disrupts the development intended by the lectionary. Worship planners should be conscious of this problem. As they plan for the congregation's worship for the Sundays before October 31 and following November 1, they should keep in mind the omitted propers. Notes in the bulletin and references in the sermon will be helpful. In the selection of hymns and other music, notice can also be taken of the emphases of the omitted propers.

Unnecessary interruption of the sequence of Sunday propers should be avoided whenever possible. This is an important principle for a proper observance of the church year. We may be tempted on the basis of a casual examination to conclude that omission of the propers for one of the seemingly endless number of Sundays after Epiphany and Pentecost is not harmful, and may in fact enliven the worship of the congregation. However, God brings about His works in His own good time. The Old Testament makes it plain that faithful waiting on the time of the Lord is a characteristic of the believer. A faithful observance of the Time of the Church (as well as of the other seasons) should help produce just that spirit of faithful waiting on God. That is one of the purposes of the steady progression of readings during the "green" seasons.

For this reason, LW directs that all minor festivals falling on a Sunday be transferred to the next "open" date, that is, the next date for which no propers have been appointed. LBW directs the same procedure during Advent, Lent and Easter. It permits observance of St. Stephen, Holy Innocents, and St. John's Days during the Christmas season because of long-standing tradition. LBW permits but does not direct the observance of minor festivals on Sundays during the "green" seasons, with the awareness that otherwise most congregations will never experience some of the minor festivals of our Lord or any of the days of the saints. In both books the reluctance to permit interruption of the cycle of Sundays is evident.

This orderly progression of the Sundays, each of which is a unique celebration of the resurrection, is subject to attack not only by the celebration of minor festivals but also by the introduction of all manner of special interest days. Many of these special emphases are worthy of attention. After all, in the liturgy we present the totality of our lives for God's healing, redeeming, and guidance. These emphases are ideally addressed on those Sundays on which the propers present a natural and logical setting.

Such special themes and concerns should be developed within the themes set forth by the season and the propers for a given Sunday. The special emphasis must remain subordinate to the liturgical emphases of the day and may not become dominant. As an example, if an emphasis on prayer for world peace is desired on the Twentieth Sunday after Pentecost, the title of the day should remain the Twentieth Sunday after Pentecost. "A Day of Prayer for Peace" could be given as a secondary title. A collect for world peace may follow the collect for the day. The appointed lessons and psalm for the day would remain. One of the hymns (other than the Hymn of the Day) could be selected for its appropriateness to the special emphasis. The Prayer of the Church would appropriately include petitions for peace. In no case, though, can prayers for a special emphasis displace the petitions for the whole church, the nations, those in need, the parish, and the thanksgiving for the faithful departed. The Prayer of the Church, of course, does provide opportunity for special concerns. Services focused entirely on world peace or any other special need are appropriately celebrated at times other than that of the regular Sunday liturgy.

Liturgical Practice in the Time of the Church

Changes in the celebration of the Holy Communion (Divine Service) occur infrequently during the Time of the Church. Somewhat more variation occurs in the part of the season covered by this volume than in the earlier part because of the minor festivals that are frequently celebrated on Sundays, for example, Reformation Day and All Saints' Day. The uniformity of this season is necessary for the development of the liturgical piety of the congregation. Without this steadiness, much of the significance of the changes in liturgical practice that occur in the festival portions of the church year is wasted. Christian nurture depends on the "ordinariness" of our liturgies.

Both LW and LBW direct use of the proper preface for "Common" Sundays after Pentecost. The preface for the Passion is to be used on Holy Cross Day; the preface for weekdays or "Common" Sundays on Michaelmas; the same, for Reformation Day. A special preface is provided for All Saints' Day. The preface for weekdays is best for a Day of Thanksgiving. (See LW: Altar Book, pp. 288, 293, 295-96; LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, pp. 212, 217-18, 220).

LBW includes the full Trinitarian closing for all collects for the festival half of the year and for festivals; for the "green" Sundays only the shorter "through Jesus Christ our Lord" is printed out. Tradition suggests that the full formula be used on each Sunday and festival. Commemorative collects used after the prayer of the day can be concluded with the shorter ending.

LW directs that the Nicene Creed should be used at celebrations of Holy Communion and on major festivals. This continues the tradition that the Nicene Creed is the eucharistic creed. LBW, mindful of the growing number of Lutheran congregations that celebrate the Eucharist weekly, directs that the Nicene Creed should be used at Holy Communion on all festivals and the Sundays of Advent, Christmas, Lent, and Easter. ("Holy Communion" implies any use of the liturgy, even if the service is concluded without the celebration of the Sacrament.) The Apostles' Creed may be used on "green" Sundays and on weekdays that have no festival observance. This provides regular opportunity for use of that creed so it does not pass out of liturgical use as congregations change from an infrequent eucharistic schedule to a weekly celebration.

Both LBW: Ministers Desk Edition (pp. 13-39) and LW: Altar Book (pp. 11-37) contain "Notes on the Liturgy." The Time of the Church provides good opportunity for an annual reading of these notes. This will prevent loss of the many details of the conduct of the service that the worship leader must keep in mind, and will give insight into the purpose and spirit of the liturgy, thus helping worship planners make the many decisions needed from time to time about matters not covered by the notes. Also useful is the regular rereading of liturgical manuals, such as Lutheran Worship History and Practice (St. Louis: Concordia Publishing House, 1994); Philip H. Pfatteicher and Carlos R. Messerli's Manual on the Liturgy: Lutheran Book of Worship (Minneapolis: Augsburg Fortress 1, 1979) or Dennis G. Michno's A Priest's Handbook: The Ceremonies of the Church (Wilton, CT: Morehouse-Barlow Company, 1983). Also helpful for worship planners is Marion J. Hatchett's A Manual for Clergy and Church Musicians (New York: Church Hymnal Corporation, 1980.) Although both Michno's and Hatchett's books are based on the liturgy of The Book of Common Prayer, they are useful also for Lutheran worship leaders and planners.

Worship leaders in Lutheran churches have inherited one problem that is frequently difficult to remedy. Unhappily, in spite of the directions given in service books, in many parishes it has become customary for the clergy and other worship leaders to speak their parts of the liturgy, leaving the congregation to sing responses. This "speak/sing" approach has not always been characteristic of Lutheran worship. The best efforts of the editors of LW and LBW seem to have had but little effect to date on Lutheran practice in North America. The difficulty is undoubtedly rooted in the misunderstanding and resistance of both clergy and congregations. Many clergy are acutely uncomfortable with the idea of chanting; many congregational members find the idea strange and, in some cases, even offensive.

The use of chant in religious celebrations, of course, is as old as the origins of the faith of Israel. Religious chant is assumed throughout the Holy Scriptures, from the earliest times in Israel to the time of the Revelation to John. Chant is a form of elevated speech that defines the words sung and their accompanying actions as having the highest significance. The absence of chant in liturgical celebration is itself unfortunate; the "speak/sing" pattern is liturgically and aesthetically tragic. The subject needs to be discussed as the worship leaders of a congregation make their long-range plans. The congregation should be provided with guidance as the process moves along. Clergy must be given the opportunity to feel their way in this matter and deserve and need reasonable training and practice. At first it may be necessary for worship leaders to limit the use of chant to festival services. As time goes by, chant can then be used more and more frequently. Until the day when the liturgy is sung properly, these principles are useful to remember:

If the leader's part of any portion of the liturgy is spoken, the people's response should be spoken.

If the leader's part of any portion of the liturgy is sung, the people's response should be sung.

On the whole it is better if most of the shorter pieces of chant are unaccompanied, such as "The Lord be with you," "And also with you," "Let us pray," the chanted prayer, and then the people's "Amen." This avoids the necessity for intonations and makes for a much more natural way of doing the liturgy. If accompaniment is deemed necessary, care must be taken so the accompaniment for the people's responses is not permitted to create a musical imbalance.

Sometimes the pastor or other worship leaders seem not to have the musical gifts needed to make the chanting pleasing to the ear. It is useful to remember that our worship is not made acceptable in God's eyes (or ears!) by the perfection of its execution but by the faith that supports the leaders and the people as a whole. Pastors are not ordained on the basis of their musicality. Cantors can appropriately assist the pastor in chanting the liturgy even if the pastor is perfectly capable of chanting the minister's part of the liturgy. Clear indication of this is given, for example, in LBW's Holy Communion and LW's Divine Service II. One or more assisting ministers may lead the Kyrie and the opening antiphon for "Glory to God in the highest." According to the rubrics, however, the presidential portions of the liturgy, such as the Salutation and Collect for the Day, the Preface and Proper Preface, the Words of Institution and the Benediction, are sung by the ordained celebrant. Every part of the leader's portion of Morning Prayer and Evening Prayer can be sung by an assisting minister except for the form of the Blessing reserved for the presiding minister. Use of an assisting minister for some or all of these illustrates the priesthood of the people, provides variety, and offers relief to the presiding minister.

Although much progress has been made, many Lutheran congregations continue to speak rather than sing the psalms. Little or no excuse remains for this practice in view of the simple psalm tones provided in both LW, LBW, and CW. Several other methods for congregational singing of the psalms are also available (see p. 12). Psalms are sacred song and should be sung in most circumstances by the people assisted by a choir or cantor. Many magnificent choral settings of the psalms are available; these also have a place in the worship of the people of God. Psalms may be sung as an entrance hymn at Holy Communion and after the first lesson in that liturgy. Psalms are appointed in LBW for the offertory.

Psalms may also be sung as post-communion canticles. Psalms are a central part of Morning Prayer (Matins), Evening Prayer (Vespers), and Prayer at the Close of the Day (Compline).

When a psalm is used as the Entrance Hymn (Introit), the following method is used. (The settings provided by some composers may require modifications of this method.) The example given is the psalm appointed in LW: Altar Book for All Saints' Day.

 they have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.

(Psalm) In you, O Lord, I have taken refuge; * let me never be put to shame; deliver me in your righteousness.
Since you are my rock and my fortress, *
 for the sake of your name lead and guide me.
Into your hands I commit my spirit; *
 redeem me, O Lord, the God of truth.

(Gloria Patri) Glory be to the Father and to the Son *
 and to the Holy Spirit;
as it was in the beginning, *
 is now, and will be forever. Amen

(Antiphon) These are they who have come out of the great tribulation; * they have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.
 (Antiphon, Rev. 7:14; Ps. 31:1, 3, 5)

When a psalm follows the Old Testament reading (or the reading from the Acts of the Apostles in Easter time), the method below is used. Note that the Gloria Patri is not sung and that the antiphon is repeated (usually by the people) following a group of verses sung by the cantor or choir. The example given here is the psalm appointed to follow the first reading on All Saints' Day, Psalm 34:1-10. The text, with antiphon, is from LBW.

Choir or Cantor: (Antiphon) Proclaim with me the greatness of the Lord.

People: (Antiphon repeated) Proclaim with me the greatness of the Lord.

Choir or Cantor: I will bless the Lord at all times; *
 his praise shall ever be in my mouth.
I will glory in the Lord; *
 let the humble hear and rejoice.

People: (Antiphon) Proclaim with me the greatness of the Lord.

Choir or Cantor: Proclaim with me the greatness of the Lord; *
 let us exalt his name together.
I sought the Lord, and he answered me * and delivered me out of all my terror.

People: (Antiphon) Proclaim with me the greatness of the Lord.

THE TIME OF THE CHURCH II

The psalm continues in this fashion to its end. The antiphon is always sung after the final verse. When an unusually long psalm is appointed, it can sometimes be carefully shortened. However, the very verses that connect the psalm to the reading should not be omitted! LW Divine Services I and II provide seasonal Gradual Psalms for use after the first reading; these are traditionally sung by a choir or cantor. However, the option is given that the proper psalm appointed to follow the first reading may be sung instead. All in all, this is preferable. Between the psalm after the reading and the Entrance Psalm, the former is more important. If only one psalm can be sung, it is better to sing the psalm after the lesson and substitute a hymn at the entrance.

Congregations must be encouraged to become as widely acquainted with the psalms as possible. They are a school of prayer for the Christian, and provide the words and images that pervade Christian worship. Worship leaders should also become well acquainted with the psalms. Each Christian should, in any event, have daily appointed times for prayer. Regular use of the psalms as a part of one's prayer life is good for one's faith as well as for one's work in leading and planning worship. A good devotional commentary on the psalms will be helpful. For many centuries Christians have prayed the psalms using the words either as words spoken by Christ in His own dialog in prayer with His Father or as the church's prayer to God and witness to those worshiping in the congregation. Appreciation for the psalmist's original purpose for the psalm is equally important. The psalms ought not to be used exclusively as if they have no meaning apart from our own liturgical use of them.

Five minor festivals that fall during the second part of the Time of the Church deserve special comment. The number of Lutheran churches named in honor of the Holy Cross suggests the importance of this day to Lutherans. Holy Cross Day is not another Good Friday. The name given this day in some other Christian calendars, the Day of the Triumph of the Cross, indicates that this is "a festival of Christ's passion and cross, giving opportunity for a joyous commemoration of his redeeming death with a festal emphasis not appropriate during Holy Week." The date of this festival (September 14) as well as its theme permits it to serve as an introduction to a time of renewed activity in the congregation following the summer period that typically finds congregations less active than in the spring or autumn. If Holy Cross Day does not fall on a Sunday in a given year, it can be noted in the bulletin and in the sermon. The collect for Holy Cross Day can be spoken or sung after the collect for the day. A hymn of the cross, such as "Lift High the Cross," "The Royal Banners Forward Go," or "Sing, My Tongue, the Glorious Battle," may be sung as an entrance or dismissal hymn. The observance gives an opportunity to present and interpret to the congregation the Christian custom of making the sign of the cross, a practice encouraged by Martin Luther in the Small Catechism and in both LW and LBW. Christians find the source of their salvation in the cross, and in Baptism they are committed to taking up their own cross and following Jesus. Holy Cross Day orients the renewed autumn activity of the congregation away from organizational business toward the spiritual dying and rising to which we are called. In some instances congregations may find it helpful to transfer Holy Cross Day to the Sunday before September 14 until the themes of the day are firmly fixed in the congregation's consciousness and life. After some years this should no longer be necessary.

During the Middle Ages, St. Michael and All Angels (September 29) was one of three holy days that divided the season after Pentecost. Michaelmas still marks the fall term of universities and courts of law in Great Britain. Like Holy Cross Day, St. Michael's Day falls on a Sunday only occasionally. Every year, however, reference can be made to the day in the bulletin and sermon. Hymns concerning the angels are more easily found in LW, The Lutheran Hymnal and Service Book and Hymnal than in LBW; it is worthwhile to look at those books for supplemental resources. Besides providing opportunity to praise God for the wonder of His ministering spirits, St. Michael's Day recalls the church's teaching concerning the guardian angels. St. Michael's Day (or the Sunday before when Michaelmas does not fall on a Sunday) can be used for prayer on behalf of the youngest members of the congregation, those on the nursery roll or in Sunday school. Letters of invitation can be sent a few weeks in advance to parents and sponsors to present their child(ren) to receive God's blessing. Suggestions for such a rite can be found in the Coda for St. Michael and All Angels, p. 457.

Although for the younger Christians of America October 31 is clearly Halloween with its very own "liturgies," more mature Lutherans remember it as Reformation Day. More often than not, the Reformation is celebrated on the Sunday before. (If the congregation celebrates the Reformation on Sunday, the day is titled Reformation Day, for the festival, in effect, has been transferred to that day. Reformation Sunday is not in the church's calendar.) From time to time congregations and special groups attempt to celebrate the Reformation in the manner of one of Luther's liturgies, either the Formula missae or the Deutsche Messe. These liturgies are difficult to celebrate in a faithful manner because the necessary resources are seldom available and the preparations can become quite complex. Most Lutheran liturgies of our time provide a more well-rounded form of the liturgy than Luther's. Participation in services that reconstruct ways of worship of another time and place easily become a form of spectatorism. All in all, congregations will more profitably use the Chorale Service provided by both LBW and LW.^{*} Although based on the Deutsche Messe, the Chorale Service smooths away some of its idiosyncrasies and thus serves a contemporary congregation more readily. The Chorale Service, in fact, may be more representative of post-Reformation German Lutheran worship than the Deutsche Messe itself. Though current service books encourage the practice of singing hymns while standing, in some instances singing of hymns while sitting continues. On Reformation Day, at least, it should be noted that "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" should be sung while standing. All Saints' Day is growing in importance. Many congregations avail themselves of the rubrical permission to observe this festival on the Sunday after November 1. (When this is done the title of the day is All Saints' Day, for the festival has been transferred to Sunday.) From the very earliest days Christians have honored those who have witnessed to Christ in their death. Special days, generally the day of the martyr's "birthday in heaven," were given over to thanking God for the Spirit's testimony in his or her life. All Saints' Day recognized all those martyrs whose names were not known to the church and who received no special recognition. On All Souls' Day (November 2) the church recognized the faithful departed who, although not martyrs, had departed this life in the hope of salvation. (LW provides for the Commemoration of the Faithful Departed on November 2; LBW makes no provision for this day.)

On All Saints' Day churches that have their own cemetery can celebrate the day with a procession from the church to the cemetery. During the procession a hymn or the Te Deum may be sung. At one or more "stations" on the way, or at the cemetery, a lesson from Scripture can be read, followed by a psalm and a collect. At the cemetery flowers may be placed on the graves and prayers of remembrance and thanksgiving spoken. After a hymn of praise (which may be the Te Deum if it was not previously sung), the Lord's Prayer is said. After the blessing the procession returns to the church. The old signs of mourning and respect for the dead have fallen away among Lutherans in many places. The observance of All Saints' Day offers an opportunity for discussion of such signs of respect.

Congregations may for several weeks before All Saints' Day invite members to notify the pastor of the names of the faithful departed whom they would like to be remembered by name on All Saints' Day. On that day, too, the names of all those whose deaths were marked by the rites of the church and the ministry of that congregation may be read. (See the Coda for All Saints' Day, pp. 468-69, for a suggested form for such a rite.) Although the use of All Saints' Day as a day of remembrance is not in accord with a more traditional understanding of All Saints' Day, it meets a need that is not likely to be met on any other day of the church year, except in the relatively infrequent case of a congregation with a strong and vital tradition of observing the Commemoration of the Faithful Departed on November 2. It is highly appropriate for Christians to offer thanksgiving for the mercy and grace God has shown the blessed dead during their lifetimes, to dignify the love and faith evidenced in their lives, and to keep their memory alive.

Thanksgiving is appropriately observed by a celebration of the church's "Thanksgiving," the Holy Eucharist. Te Deum may be sung either as the entrance hymn or following the post-communion prayer prior to the blessing. The "Litany of Thanksgiving" in The Book of Common Prayer (New York: Seabury Press, 1979), pp. 836-37, can be used for the Prayer of the Church, if a special text is desired. In some churches it has become customary for a harvest array to be displayed. The fruits of the earth and the products of the labors of the people are used in the array. The practice is commendable, but care should be taken that the display does not become excessive. The font, reading desks, and altar are the primary symbols of the chancel. They should not be overwhelmed by decorations, nor should they be used as display tables. Each has its own proper function and should be reserved for that function.

Although green is the color for the Sundays after Pentecost except the last Sunday, the emphasis on the harvest God will seek on the last day, together with the changes taking place in nature during the months of September, October, and November, has encouraged some congregations to experiment with natural harvest colors such as yellow, orange, and brown as alternate colors for these final weeks of the church year.

The Celebration of God's Work in the Saints

To offer its praise to God in fitting manner, the church organizes time in a number of ways. The earth's circuit around the sun provides the first of these cycles, the year. The church year provides for a regular and faithful remembrance of the redemptive work of God, recalling His redemptive work with His ancient people Israel; the promise given of the coming of His Anointed One; the birth, teachings and work, suffering, death, resurrection and victory of our Lord; the outpouring of the Spirit; and the manifestation of the Spirit in the church.

The natural rhythm of the day—day and night, labor and rest—reveals the presence of God in our lives. This pattern is reflected in the Daily Prayer of the church. Morning Prayer enables us to offer praise to God for His work of creation, the resurrection of our Lord, and the restoration of new life to the creation with each day. Evening Prayer is reflective and offers us the opportunity to confess our sin to God and receive His forgiveness, to commit the labors of the day into His hands, and to rejoice in the rest that falls upon nature with the coming dark. Although the darkness has come, the Light of Christ continues to shed its gracious illumination even as we take our own rest from the labors of the day. Prayer at the Close of the Day permits us to go to our beds trustingly, confident that God's care will shield us from all harm to body and soul. Our daily return to our bed is a preparation for our final sleep and our awakening to everlasting life in the new earth that is coming.

Yet another cycle of time has left but little trace—that is, the pattern of the week. Little remains of this cycle but our weekly observance of Sunday as the day of the Lord's resurrection. On Sunday the almighty God began His work of creation. On Sunday the new creation came into being. First day and eighth day, Sunday is a weekly celebration of the gift of life made present for us in Word and Sacrament. But little memory remains of the ancient significance of the other days of the week. The ancient fast days of Wednesday and Friday have left faint traces. Lutherans still use Wednesday in many instances as the preferred day for weekday services. Friday is kept holy in our hearts because of the death of Christ, but Saturday is scarcely a day of rest in the Biblical sense.

The sanctoral cycle, the regular celebration of God's work in the saints, is the remaining cycle. The saints are those who have been declared holy by the grace of God, freed from the burden of their sins and called to grow into the fullness of Christ's own holiness. By saints, then, we mean all the faithful people of God. Understandably the church especially honors those who have proven to be of heroic stature among the people. The church has given these the title of "Saint."

The sanctoral cycle began with the church's celebration of the witness of those who shed their blood for the sake of Christ and His righteousness. They were honored for the faithfulness they displayed; they were understood to be especially precious in the sight of the Lamb whose blood also had been shed. Special reverence was given to the place where their bones were buried and to the day of their "birthday in heaven." Churches were built over the places of their burial and named in their honor. Some of the days dedicated to the memory of the martyrs antedate even so great a festival as Christmas. As the flood of martyrs receded the church began to honor others: confessors (those who gave faithful witness but were not put to the sword), theologians, bishops and pastors, monastics, missionaries, mystics, founders of great movements within the church, holy men and women of every time and place and mission.

Since the days of a divided church in the West began, Lutherans have rightly been reluctant to designate as saints those who have served God mightily during the days since the Reformation, although they have been as deserving of the honor as the earlier saints. At the time of the Reformation many of the holy days of the sanctoral calendar were removed and no longer observed by Lutherans. The sanctoral calendar had been overextended. This caused the disruption of the life of the civil community. Abuses were troublesome. For Lutherans the year of the saints became limited to the "Biblical" saints plus a few other observances.

Today much thought is being given to the church's celebration of the life and witness of its saints. Many of the older calendars are being reformed. Many feel that the older sanctoral calendars put too much emphasis on men, clerics and monastics, and those who lived in the Mediterranean world, to the detriment of women, persons who lived in the midst of ordinary life, and those from North Europe, Africa, Asia, and the Americas. The Reformation churches are seeking a more representative calendar, one that emphasizes to a greater degree the witness of the Holy Spirit in centuries other than the first. Both LW and LBW have taken steps in that direction.

Lutheran Worship has added to the days of the apostles, evangelists and Mary, days of celebration for the lives of Martin Luther (February 18), C. F. W. Walther (May 7), and St. Laurence (August 10), and also the Presentation of the Augsburg Confession (June 25), Holy Cross Day (September 14), and the Commemoration of the Faithful Departed (November 2).

Lutheran Book of Worship has followed a somewhat different road. In addition to the Minor Festivals commemorating the "Biblical" saints, LBW lists a series of Commemorations. These days are lower in rank than the Minor Festivals. The persons included on the list are deliberately not designated as saints. Rather they are described as men and women who in some way gave evidence during their lives of the working out of the gifts of the Spirit. A deliberate effort was made to identify Christians from each of the Christian centuries and from each of the continents. Propers are provided for these categories: saints, martyrs, missionaries, renewers of the church, renewers of society, pastors and bishops, theologians, artists, and scientists. Local communities are encouraged to identify those individuals who represented in their lives the concerns and needs of that local congregation or school. The LBW list of Commemorations, therefore, is not closed and makes no claims about any of those named other than that in some way their lives represented the activity of God in the church for the sake of the world.

In a "Christian" world the people of each congregation would gather to offer praise at least on each of the Minor Festivals and some of the Commemorations. Such a "Christian" world we shall certainly not see in our own lifetimes. The rhythms of daily life are no longer determined by the life, death, and resurrection of the Lord. Today new drumbeats summon us to the celebrations of other gods.

What we can hope for is that a growing number of households, individuals, and small groups will observe the Minor Festivals and perhaps some less weighty days as part of their pattern of prayer.^{*} Minor Festivals can be noted in the weekly church bulletin with some historical background given and helps for prayer and the reading of appropriate Scripture passages at home. Minor Festivals (and Commemorations) that fall on Sundays can be noted by use of the proper collect following the Prayer of the Day. Schools, seminaries, and other institutions that conduct services of Daily Prayer through the week can observe a representative number of the Commemorations.

The celebration of the sanctoral cycle will demonstrate to us the proper use of the gifts of the Spirit and make us aware of the astonishingly diverse ways in which the Spirit has led Christians to testify to their faith in a way appropriate for their place, their time, and their need. Celebration of God's holy men and women should incite us to imitation and give inspiration to the young.

The Celebration of God's Care of a Congregation

Congregations will celebrate the significant dates in their own history. The founding of a congregation will usually be celebrated on the anniversary of the first service conducted by the congregation. The anniversary of any event in the life of the congregation is determined not by the civil calendar but by the church year. If the first service was conducted on Trinity Sunday in 1900, the anniversary is observed on Trinity Sunday whatever the date on the civil calendar may be. The dedication of a church building deserves liturgical observance as well.^{} These anniversaries are usually noted in the Sunday or holy day service by an appropriate announcement and the use of the collect for an anniversary following the collect for the day. Ordinarily the complete set of propers for an anniversary will be used only at services other than the regular Sunday morning or festival service. If a congregation's anniversary falls on a major festival, the congregation may want to transfer the celebration to another day, but the same day should be used each year. The congregation may very well wish to observe major anniversary dates such as the 25th, 50th, and so forth with special services. At these services, conducted at a time other than the normal time for services, the full set of anniversary propers may be used. Congregations may also observe in like manner the anniversary of the ordination of the pastor and of the pastor's installation as pastor of that congregation.^{} The Divine Service (Holy Communion) is the appropriate service for such an occasion.

In addition to significant anniversaries, the congregation should also take note of its Festival of Title. The congregation determines its feast of title from the name it bears. St. Andrew Lutheran Church will observe its feast of title on the day of the saint whose name it carries, St. Andrew (November 30). Faith Lutheran Church, named in honor of the church's faith in the Holy Trinity, will have the Festival of the Holy Trinity as its feast of title; Atonement Lutheran Church, the Sunday of the Passion; and so on. Again, the feast of title does not displace the propers of the Sunday or holy day. Remembrance of the day is made by mention during the service, use of an appropriate collect following the prayer of the day and in the Prayer of the Church. The liturgy may be celebrated in a more festive form than usual.

RESOURCES FOR THE TIME OF THE CHURCH

Introduction of New Liturgical Materials

The relative quiet of the summer months permits worship planners and leaders to review the liturgical practice of the congregation. Such review may suggest areas that need improvement. Review may also indicate that the congregation is ready for growth in the skills required for worship or in a deepening of spirituality, or expansion of the liturgical and hymnological repertoire. A program of new hymns of the season for the time from Holy Cross Day through the Day of Pentecost may suggest itself. A decision may be made to introduce the Easter Vigil or another of the services from the Easter Triduum. The use of communion assistants or some other form of assisting ministers may be decided upon. A member may indicate a desire to donate a processional cross; preparation for its introduction in the services becomes necessary.

Four errors to be avoided when introducing change in the congregation's pattern of worship:

1. Do not explain the change in terms of the superiority of the new way and the inferiority of the previous way of doing things. The older way has sustained the faith of the congregation; that must be acknowledged. It is far better to describe the purposes for the change. Change is inevitable. Worship planners have the responsibility for seeing that the change is orderly, purposeful, and in keeping with the goals of the congregation. "We are asking you to help us utilize another of the gifts God has given some of our fellow members. We are asking them to assist the pastor in the singing of the liturgy. We shall call them 'cantors,' a title with a rich history in the Lutheran church. Sometimes they will sing some of the music assigned to assisting ministers. Other times they will help us in singing psalms and canticles. We are doing this to help us improve our doing of the liturgy. More importantly, however, we want to express our conviction that the gifts God gives us should be exercised in our worship of Him."
2. Do not assume that everyone will understand the reasons for the change. Change makes some of us more resistant than others. Some find it harder to catch on to the meaning of things. Some have been taught that there is a right way and a wrong way to do everything. Check out in advance what the potential misunderstandings may be. Assume the need for rehearsals and practice for some kinds of change. Assume the desirability of explanation before the change is made and, from time to time, even after the change is made.
3. Do not act apologetic or defensive when recommending change. The ministry of the worship planner is to plan for worship that more fully expresses the faith of the people. A joyful and expectant attitude wins approval and cooperation more easily than timidity and anxiety.
4. Do not spring things on the congregation. Once a congregation has become accustomed to the introduction of new hymns, it may not be necessary to do more than let them become acquainted with the melody, and be introduced to its text and history. The first time a concerted effort is made to teach new hymns, however, the congregation should be told of the joys of discovering new hymns and the benefits to be derived. Show how new hymns can be learned in the easiest ways. Certainly major changes in the liturgy should always be announced and prepared for before the changes are made. The congregation deserves the utmost in courtesy and thoughtfulness when it is asked to accept the suggestions of the worship planners.

THE TIME OF THE CHURCH II

Four positive steps to be taken when new worship practices are introduced:

1. Learn as much as you possibly can before introducing a change. If possible, experience the new way of doing things yourself before asking others to experience it. Make the new practice a part of your thinking. See it as a part of your whole understanding of worship rather than simply as a new device.
2. Discuss the proposed change with all those who have a right to know about it. Share your enthusiasm but listen for uncertainties and misunderstandings. Identify problems that need working out. Pastors, worship committees, church councils, assisting ministers, choirs, all those who will be directly affected by the change should be sought out and won if at all possible. Taking shortcuts to avoid possible disapproval generally results in trouble later on.
3. Do a good job of educating. Call on current knowledge and preferences to win an open-minded reception of the new practice or material. Ask the pastor to speak approvingly of the change and to help win the congregation's approval. Make use of the weekly bulletin and the newsletter. Present the matter to the children and youth. If possible, involve them in the process. State in simple terms why the change is proposed, what the change will mean practically, and what the desired goal is.
4. Utilize all available resources when the change is introduced. When a new piece of liturgical music is to be introduced, for example, have the choir sing it at several services before the congregation is asked to join them. Have the organist base the preservice music on the piece. Present the music to groups such as the church council, the parish school, and Bible classes. If a few already know how to sing the piece, others will be encouraged to sing. Consider brief rehearsals for the congregation before the services. If a new order of service is being introduced, prepare a service folder that contains everything the congregation will need to know. Descriptive rubrics should detail what everyone will be doing. Include enough textual materials so the amount of turning from the service folder to the service book is minimized. (Observe all copyrights. Write for permission to reprint well in advance of the service.)

Time given to education, rehearsal, and the gaining of support is always time well spent.

Daily Prayer

During the Time of the Church the Common Invitatory is sung before and after the Venite (Psalm 95) at Morning Prayer (LW, p. 237; LBW, p. 132; CW p. 46). Occasionally, for the sake of variety, another setting of the Venite may be used. LBW offers a setting as Canticle 4; choral settings are also available. Jubilate (Psalm 100) may serve as an alternate to Psalm 95; the Invitatory may also be sung with Jubilate. Three metrical versions of Psalm 100 are found in LW and LBW: "All People That on Earth Do Dwell" (LW 435, LBW 245, TLH 14, CW 233), "Before Jehovah's Awesome Throne" (LW 454, LBW 531, TLH 13.), and "Oh, Sing Jubilee to the Lord" (LW 205, LBW 256).

Although the psalm appointed to follow the Old Testament reading is frequently used as the second psalm (the psalm following the Venite) at Morning Prayer, a morning psalm is often more appropriate. A list of morning psalms is given in LW: Altar Book, p. 126. The classic morning psalm is Psalm 63. Michael Joncas' setting of this psalm provides for a cantor to assist the congregation.

The Gospel canticle at Morning Prayer is Benedictus. LBW offers an alternate setting as Canticle 2; choral settings of this and other canticles may be used. Metrical versions of this canticle do not appear in

* John Allyn Melloh and William G. Storey, ed., Praise God in Song (Chicago: GIA Publications, 1979), pp. 58-60.

LBW and LW. Te Deum is properly a part of the Paschal Blessing in Morning Prayer. When the Paschal Blessing is not used, Te Deum may occasionally be substituted for the Benedictus. Te Deum should not be permitted to fall out of the congregation's repertoire. Both LW and LBW offer alternate chant versions of the Te Deum: LW, Canticle 8; LBW, Canticle 3. Two metrical versions are available: "Holy God, We Praise Your Name" (LBW 535, LW 171, TLH 250, CW 278) and "Thee We Adore, Eternal Lord!" (LBW 547).

Useful collections of collects for use in Morning Prayer are to be found in Prayers for Every Occasion, Frank Colquhoun, ed. (Wilton, CT: Morehouse-Barlow, 1974) (traditional language); Contemporary Parish Prayers, Frank Colquhoun, ed. (London, Sydney, Auckland and Toronto: Hodder and Stoughton, 1975) (contemporary language); and Prayers, Thanksgivings and Litanies (New York: Church Hymnal Corporation, 1973) (traditional and contemporary). Usually three to five prayers are spoken, including the prayer of the day and the final prayer.

The Paschal Blessing is appropriately used at Morning Prayer on Sundays, especially during the Easter season. Even if it is not used during the "green" seasons, St. Michael's Day and All Saints' Day are highly appropriate occasions for its use during the latter portion of the Time of the Church.

The Common Acclamations are used at Evening Prayer during the Time of the Church. Occasionally "Oh, Gladsome Light" (LBW 279, LW 486), a metrical version of the Phos hilaron, may substitute for "Joyous light of glory." Alternate texts for the Thanksgiving appear in LBW, p. 177, and in LW, p. 291. Musical settings of Thanksgivings I and II appear in Morning Praise and Evensong, William G. Storey, Frank C. Quinn and David F. Wright, ed. (Notre Dame, IN: Fides Publishers, 1973), pp. 2 and 26, respectively. LBW offers an alternate chant setting (Canticle 5) for Domine clamavi, "Let my prayer rise before you as incense" (Psalm 141). The psalm appointed to follow the Old Testament reading at Holy Communion may be used as the second psalm (that is, the psalm following Psalm 141) at Evening Prayer. However, an evening psalm is often more appropriate. A list of evening psalms is given in LW: Altar Book, p. 126.

Magnificat is the appropriate canticle for Evening Prayer throughout the year. This canticle may also be sung in a choral setting by the choir or by the congregation in an alternate chant setting such as LBW Canticle 6. "My Soul Now Magnifies the Lord," a metrical version, may be used (LBW 180, LW 211). Nunc dimittis is the proper Gospel canticle for Compline, not Evening Prayer. This canticle, however, should not be permitted to leave the repertoire of the congregation. Therefore, it may occasionally be substituted for the Magnificat. LW Canticle 11 provides an alternate chant version. "In Peace and Joy I Now Depart" (LW 185) and "I Leave, as You Have Promised, Lord" (LBW 349) provide metrical versions of the canticle.

Alternate texts for the litany in Evening Prayer abound. A useful collection of litanies appears in Praise God in Song, John Allyn Melloh and William G. Storey, ed. (Chicago: GIA Publications, 1979). The texts require some editing to conform to the model in LW and LBW. Psalms for both Morning and Evening Prayer during the Time of the Church are listed in the "General" section in LBW: Ministers Desk Edition, p. 96 ("cathedral" pattern), and LW: Altar Book, p. 127 ("monastic" pattern) (for further discussion, see p. 315).

The resources given above for Morning Prayer also serve LW Matins. LW directs the use of the Common Ascription of Praise following the opening verses. Proper Invitatories for the Venite are given for Pentecost 14 through the Sunday before St. Michael's Day (September 29), for St. Michael's Day and the Sunday following through Pentecost 21, and for Pentecost 22 through the Last Sunday in the Church Year (LW: Altar Book, p. 43). The Common Responsory follows the readings. Traditionally the entire Benedictus is used throughout the year, including the Time of the Church.

For office hymns for the Time of the Church, see Holy Trinity, p. 322, and Pentecost 2, p. 331-32.

Canticles

During the Time of the Church these canticles may be considered for use:

- "I will sing to the Lord" (Cantemus Domino—Ex. 15:1-6, 11-13, 17, 18)
- "Praise be to You, O Lord, God of our father Israel" (1 Chron. 29:10-13)
- "In the last days" (Is. 2:2-5)
- "Truly You are a God who hides Himself" (Is. 45:15-25)
- "Arise, shine, for your light has come" (Surge, illuminare—Is. 60:1-3, 11a, 14c, 18, 19)
- "Hear the word of the Lord, O nations" (Jer. 31:10-14)
- "Blessed are You, O Lord" (Benedictus es, Domine—Song of the Three Young Men, 29-34)
- "All you works of the Lord" (Benedicite, omnia opera—Song of the Three Young Men, 35-65)
- "Blessed are the poor in spirit" (Beati pauperes—Beatitudes, Matt. 5:3-12)
- "Praise be to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ" (Eph. 1:3-7)
- "He is the image of the invisible God" (Col. 1:15-20)
- "Hallelujah! Salvation and glory and power belong to our God" (Rev. 19:1, 2, 5-7)

Singing the Creed

The Time of the Church with its relatively undifferentiated Sundays offers an excellent opportunity to acquaint congregations with sung versions of the Creed. The Creed can properly be sung at any service of Holy Communion. LW sets the Nicene Creed to music (LW 4). Martin Luther's version of the same creed, "We All Believe in One True God, Maker" appears in LW 213, in LBW 374, and in CW 271. "We All Believe in One True God, Father" is in LW 212, CW 271.

THEME

"Make joy complete by being like-minded, having the same love, being one in spirit and purpose."

Who is a true child of God? The religious leaders of Jesus' day were certain that Jesus of Nazareth could not be the Son of the living God as confessed by the disciples (Pentecost 14, Series A, Matt. 16:16). Confident that He could not satisfy the demand, they asked for His proof. "By what authority are You doing these things?" (Matt. 21:23). Their teeth had been set on edge by Jesus. The keepers of God's vineyard felt secure in their rightness, and so they put themselves in opposition to God's own plan. Today's liturgy, therefore, demands our attention by presenting a warning to us who are the present tenants in the vineyard.

Religious talk and pious observance of the liturgy do not make us true children of God. Not public display but obedient response to God's will reveals true daughters and sons of God (Matt. 21:28-31). "Repent and live" is the Father's constant invitation. God does not hold us responsible for the infidelity of others but certainly holds us accountable for our own lack of fruitfulness. The unrepentant person, unwilling to let God turn her or him toward God in faith, word and deed, produces only bitterness for self and community. The repentant person, directed by a new heart and a new spirit, offers to God a chalice filled with a sweet and noble wine. This is God's true delight, for God takes no pleasure in the death of anyone (Ezek. 18:26-32). The true child of God continually asks, "Show me your ways, O Lord, teach me your paths. . . . Remember not the sins of my youth and my rebellious ways; according to Your love remember me, for You are good, O Lord" (LW, Ps. 25:4, 7; LBW, Ps. 25:3, 6).

So like the second son are we all! We speak pleasing words but do not bear the fruit of obedience. Yet the repentance of the first son is always accepted by the Father. Such repentance is measured by the ways of the Son, Jesus. He accepted the servant's role, humbled Himself and became obedient to death, even death on a cross. Those who would share in His exaltation must repent of their disobedience and receive the same mind as He, humble themselves, take up their cross, renounce the pride that leads them to determine good and evil for themselves, and follow the path set by Christ (Phil. 2:5-11).

THEME

"Our citizenship is in heaven."

As carefully as the husbandman prepares the vineyard and plants each precious vine, so the Lord prepared the promised land for Israel and planted them in it (Is. 5:1-2; LBW, Ps. 80:8-9). Again and again God sought fruit, but what He found was bitter and useless (Is. 5:3-4). The tenants failed to give the Owner the faithful and loving response He sought (Matt. 21:34-36). Finally, in a last effort to evoke gratitude from them, He sent the Heir, His Son. They sought to slay Him, so they could remain secure within their self-centered rebellion.

From these grapes of wrath God has pressed a new vintage of sweet wine, wine that heals our wounds and gladdens our hearts. "The stone the builders rejected has become the capstone" (LW, Ps. 118:22). The Lord has undone the evil meant by the tenants. This is marvelous in our eyes, and so on each Lord's Day the people whose hearts have been gladdened by His acts rejoice as they lift the cup of the Lord's salvation to receive from Him life so they may be fruitful. All this was done by the Lord; He alone sent His Son and lifted Him up from the grave. That resurrection we celebrate on the day the Lord has made (LW, Ps. 118:22-24).

Much too easily we too can become indifferent to the Owner and presume to think that the vineyard is ours to do with as we please. St. Paul, great apostle that he was, realized that the prize does not go to the self-satisfied but to those who run the race. Spiritual maturity will lead us to follow his example. Our citizenship is in heaven. Those who await transformation do not wait until the final minutes of the race to begin running (Phil. 3:12, 14-15, 17, 20). So in our assemblies we urge one another on that we may all win the laurel crown of victory.

THEME

"I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

In the wilderness God had wooed His beloved Israel and invited her to become His bride. But again and again she showed herself to be faithless. Although called by the prophets to seek restoration, Israel remained distant and unfaithful. Finally, the King of heaven would wait no longer. He set the date for the nuptials of His Son. As befitted the wedding of the King's Son, the wedding would be marked by high festivity, banquets lavish beyond imagining, and the bestowal of rich gifts upon the invited guests. But old habits do not die easily. The invited guests refused to come. Jesus' opponents were too satisfied with their own righteousness to find any joy in the invitation. Nevertheless, the King was not to be denied. The wedding hall would be filled. The very people despised by the self-righteous would be invited. Acknowledging their need, they came (Matt. 22:1-10).

We, too, are invited to the banquet of the Son's nuptials. We need only remove the garments of our pride and accept the dazzling raiment bestowed freely by the King on His Son's friends (Matt. 22:11-14). God has prepared a table before us so we may be assured that goodness and love will follow us all the days of our lives (Ps. 23:5-6). The banquet we gather about now is the Sacrament of Christ's body and blood. Humble bread is for us the richest food. Simple wine is the intoxicating drink of the life-giving Spirit. But even our Eucharist is but a type of the yet greater feast that will be set for us when death is swallowed up forever (Is. 25:8). Even though we shall still have to walk through the valley of the shadow of death, we are to fear no evil, for the King is with us (Ps. 23:4).

We, the church, have been assured a place in the banquet, so we assist one another in our waiting. We exhort one another to joy. We set aside anxiety and find determination in prayer, confident that God will keep us safely until the great Day to come. We have been espoused to the King's Son. The bride's time and life can be filled only with whatever is true, noble, right, pure, lovely and admirable (Phil. 4:4-8). Though we may yet shed tears through these days of preparation, in that day "the Sovereign Lord will wipe away the tears from all faces" (Is. 25:8).

THEME "Ascribe to the Lord the glory due His name."

The invitations to the nuptials of the King's Son have been issued. God has chosen the guests and called them with the Gospel of the Son which comes with power, with the Holy Spirit, and with deep conviction (1 Thess. 1:5a). Today we offer thanksgiving that God has given us faith, love and hope as evidences of God's work within us as He moves events toward the ultimate celebration of His Son. For Jesus' contemporaries one great obstacle to the kingdom clearly remained: imperious Caesar who mocked the Lord God and kept the people of God in subjugation. If Jesus were indeed the Messiah, would He not first have to throw the yoke of Caesar from off the shoulders of the people? Would He play into the hands of His enemies by calling for rebellion or would He reveal Himself as only one more false hope by advocating submission? So they asked Him: "Is it right to pay taxes to Caesar or not?" (Matt. 22:17).

It was not and is not that simple. Caesar, too, may be in God's service. The unbelieving Cyrus had been chosen by God to advance God's plan for salvation. Cyrus, moved by God's mysterious will, set the exiles free. A chastened remnant was released to return to Jerusalem. Whatever the pretensions to divinity of imperial Rome, there was still but one Ruler. "I am the Lord, and there is no other" (Is. 45:5). We may give to Caesar what is Caesar's, for he too has a part to play as God determines. By giving Caesar what he may rightfully claim, we give to God what is God's (Matt. 22:21). It is not for us to know the times and the manner by which God's kingdom will come to bring all things to an end. The Lord alone is the righteous Judge. His alone is the truth (Ps. 96:13). We can but bow down before Him in adoration and offer our Kyries and our Alleluias. Our God says, "I form the light and create darkness, I bring prosperity and create disaster; I, the Lord, do all these things" (Is. 45:7)—without our assistance. Gloria in excelsis!

PENTECOST 23

THEME "Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind."

Shadow as well as light are found in the lives of God's people, though we have all turned away from idols so that we might serve the living and true God as we wait for the Son's return from heaven (1 Thess. 1:9-10). Those idols, however, never completely fade away. The greatest of all the idols will continue to call us to worship it until we have been rescued finally and completely from the coming wrath of God. How easily and quickly we fall back into worship of self, displacing love for God and our sisters and brothers! Blessed are those who do not walk in the counsel of the wicked but find counsel instead in the law of the Lord. They meditate day and night on the gracious will of God. Having been born again in the waters of life, we are sustained in the driest of times and bear the fruits of faith, but those who live for self will not stand when God judges them (Ps. 1). The disciples of the Lord become imitators of the messengers of the Gospel and of the Lord Himself in the time of waiting for His return.

Again and again tempters come to us and invite us to make of our religion an intellectual exercise. Rather than doing the will of God, we are tempted to use our religion to avoid doing what we should know is required of us. Hence Jesus summons us to straightforward love of God and neighbor (Matt. 22:36-40). We are to be holy as God Himself is holy, for we have been set aside to be witnesses to the light in the midst of the darkness of this age. The holiness bestowed by God is witnessed to by the holiness displayed in love for God and neighbor (Lev. 19:2, 15-18). We are to astonish the world by our eagerness to serve our neighbor's needs as if they were our own. To that end God has set us free to live in the light, for in this love the Law and the Prophets will be fulfilled and we will walk in the light even if we are surrounded by darkness.

THEME

"Let justice roll on like a river, righteousness like a never-failing stream."

Nothing seems to be changing. The world seems to be as it always has been—not perfect perhaps, but enduring. We see no problems before us that reasonable people of good will and technical expertise cannot solve. This gives us confidence in the thought that the prophets of our time have been but crying "Wolf!" by alarming us at moments of apparent crisis. So many around us have settled for a view of history that speaks only of progress and never of judgment that God's own people may succumb to the same optimistic view.

Today Amos strides into our midst to keep us from this error. "Woe to you who long for the day of the Lord! . . . That day will be darkness, not light" (Amos 5:18). Repent! "Let justice roll on like a river, righteousness like a never-failing stream!" (Amos 5:24). Danger surrounds us. More deadly than lions and bears is the danger of a false sense of security, of not seeing the cobra that lurks near us. That deadly serpent takes the form of finding a false security in the house of God. To celebrate the liturgy in God's house correctly and beautifully, saying the right words, feeling the right emotions, dropping a generous gift in the offering, and receiving in pious fashion the Lord's body and blood, while at the same time failing in our duty to love our neighbor as ourselves—for this there is no antidote but repentance. It is repentance that separates the wise and the foolish among us. The wise keep the commandment of Jesus that we love God with all our heart and our neighbor as ourselves (Matt. 25:1-13). Those who put their trust in their observance of the forms of devotion resist the call of Jesus who came to gather the flock together, protect it from the predators afoot and nurture the flock so it may reach mature adulthood. Those who seek another shelter than the brooding wings of God's love will find themselves excluded from the kingdom (Matt. 23:37-39), while those who heed the call will find that not even death can exclude them. "We believe that Jesus died and rose again, and so we believe that God will bring with Jesus those who have fallen asleep in him" (1 Thess. 4:14). Wisdom and life are found now in the place where God dwells, where the Word and life-giving Sacraments give us strength to endure in the faith (LW, Ps. 84:1-2, 7). The wise thirst for God, for they have found that God's lovingkindness is better than life itself. Under the shadow of the sheltering wings of God we find true security and wait for the day of God's power and glory (LBW, Ps. 63:1-3, 7).

If the LW track will be followed for the last three Sundays of the church year, then Matthew 23:37-39 should be used on this Sunday. If the common Lutheran track presented in LW and LBW is used for the final three Sundays after Pentecost, Matthew 25:1-13 should be used on this day. PENTECOST 25

"Let us be self-controlled, putting on faith and love as a breast plate, and the hope of salvation as a helmet."

For every action there is an equal and opposite reaction, we were taught in physical science classes. The same seems true in the church with regard to the doctrine about the last things. Some Christians are so fascinated by the things of the end time, determined to predict the times and to describe the smallest details, that they run the danger of neglecting their duty in the present time. Other Christians, in reaction, are content to set all these things aside as matters of no useful present concern; they run the risk of complacency and unpreparedness. Neither course would meet the approval of the Lord. Today we are reminded that we are stewards of God's Gospel. The Good News is the greatest treasure given us. We are required to invest that Gospel in the marketplaces of our lives so God may have a return in the faith and obedience of others. "Safeguarding" that treasure by keeping it hidden reveals us as unfaithful. The life of the church is to be a continuing investment in the lives of others of the love God showers on us (Matt. 25:14-30).

Our stewardship takes place in difficult times. The convulsions of nature and history may tempt us to hesitancy and misguided caution. We may come to fear the uncertainty. Yet in these troublesome days of danger, we need to see the continuing presence of God in the very events that intimidate us. These days are the dying days of one age. They also witness the birth pangs of the new age to come. Wickedness abounds. The faithful are held in contempt and placed in danger. These are days of testing, days when our love must remain white-hot so that we may resist the temptation to seek safety at the expense of abandoning our hope (Matt. 24:3-14). Others may say of these days, "Peace and safety," but we know that the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night. As children of the light we shun every manifestation of the darkness and entrust our safety to God's care (1 Thess. 5:2-8). God has faithfully cared for us as a parent cares for a beloved child. Even though we are often rebellious and turn away from God's love, the Son of God took His wrath upon Himself so that it will be turned away from us (Hosea 11:1-4, 8-9). We are assembled on this day in the presence of God so that we may encourage one another and build one another up (1 Thess. 5:11), for God is our refuge. He gives us these days so we may apply our hearts to His wisdom. We ask that especially in the turmoil of these last days we may see God at work on behalf of His people. In the "morning" that is coming, our afflictions will be healed by God and everlasting joy will be ours (Ps. 90).

THIRD-LAST SUNDAY IN THE CHURCH YEAR (LW) *

THEME Man's days are determined...and have set limits he cannot exceed."

The optimism of youth and the hope based on a perennially limitless science cause modern Western men and women to push death to the perimeters of their minds. Not for us the medieval fascination with the Dance of Death, death's seizing of every man and every woman, whatever their rank or calling. Yet in the end death does have its way with us. Our thoughts of death often come later in life than they did in the past and perhaps we are less prepared for death than people of earlier centuries. Dread of nuclear holocaust alone seems to have the power to shake the confidence of our generation and to forcefully remind us that there may indeed come days of "great distress, unequalled from the beginning of the world until now—and never to be equalled again." However, when that time unequalled for dread comes, it will be by God's decree and not by our heedlessness. For the sake of the elect only will He shorten those days (Matt. 24:21-22).

Our frailty and mortality are already now in evidence. "Man born of woman is of few days and full of trouble. He springs up like a flower and withers away" even though made in God's image and filled with the breath of the Spirit (Job 14:1-2). When we assemble in our churches on the day of the resurrection, it is as dying men and women living before the eternal Lord who, because of our iniquities, turns us back to the dust from where we were formed. Wisdom teaches us to number our days aright, using them with an eye to our mortality (Ps. 90:1, 8-9, 12). By God's grace, however, the life given by Christ's Spirit gives us hope for the life that is deeper and more everlasting than that given us by natural birth. To this end we renew our prayers that the Lord will make our love for one another increase and that our life will be blameless and holy, reflecting already now the life we shall live when the Lord Jesus comes with all His holy ones (1 Thess. 3:12-13).

*Unlike the Inter-Lutheran Commission on Worship lectionary series in which the propers for Pentecost 27, Pentecost 26, and so on may be omitted so the church year is always completed by the Festival of Christ the King (LBW), the LW alternate series is designed so the propers for Pentecost 25, Pentecost 24, and so on may be omitted so the church year is always completed by the Third-Last, Second-Last, and Last Sundays in the Church Year. (See pp. 390-3 for a discussion of this matter.)

SECOND-LAST SUNDAY IN THE CHURCH YEAR (LW)

THEME "Give thanks to the Lord, call on His name; make known among the nations what He has done."

The oppressed turn to the king for justice, the righting of wrongs done to them in spite of their faithful service to the king. Those who love justice have no reason to fear the king's coming; only those who refuse to serve him and who misuse those who are faithful to him have reason to fear. Our King is the King of righteousness. He cannot forever permit the misuse of the righteous ones of the kingdom, so He comes in judgment. He has, He does, and He will.

His people are sustained as they wait by the remembrance of the judgments God has already pronounced on behalf of them. They look to the Lord and His strength. Although they live in the midst of an unjust society, by faith they are enabled to discern God's judgment in all the earth (Ps. 105:4-5, 7). To vindicate the people of the kingdom, the Lord "will bring judgment on all mankind." The evidences of His judgment are seen in the disaster made inevitable by humankind's sin (Jer. 25:31-32). Like the Thessalonians, we too have turned away from the idols of this world to serve the living and true God who sent His Son to redeem us from our iniquity by His death on the cross. The Father raised Him from death so we are able to await in holiness His coming again to rescue us from the coming wrath. The example of Jesus and His messengers teaches us how to be imitators of God's own righteousness so that our works, flowing out of the same love that filled Christ, will be just. In that righteousness we shall endure to the end (1 Thess. 1:3, 6, 9).

The way in which people receive the brothers and sisters of Jesus reveals their inner disposition. The vulnerability of Christ's own reflects the weakness in which God in Christ also comes before humankind. Those who do not receive God's witnesses to His love have rejected Him as well, and they come under judgment. But those who receive Christ's brothers and sisters bearing witness to the mercy of God and join them in their vulnerability and humility have also welcomed God into their lives. These will be brought to everlasting life. To them God will say, "Take your inheritance, the kingdom prepared for you since the creation of the world" (Matt. 25:31-46).

LAST SUNDAY IN THE CHURCH YEAR (LW)

SUNDAY OF THE FULFILLMENT

THEME "Put your hope in the Lord, for with the Lord is unfailing love and with Him is full redemption."

The Word of the Lord is sure, His promises are sure. Though "ever since our fathers died, everything goes on as it has since the beginning of creation," we wait confidently for the day of the Lord which will come like a thief, unannounced and when least expected (2 Peter 3:4, 10). Each week on the day of the resurrection those who wait in hope rehearse the work of the Bridegroom that makes the invitation to the banquet possible. We celebrate with our fellow guests the bread broken, the blood shed, having all been cleansed by Baptism and holy absolution so we may be received into the banquet to come. Today we enter the gates of the Lord with thanksgiving and praise for His goodness and love which have been ours through all generations (Ps. 100:4-5). In the darkness of this world some scoff and use the cover of the night to pursue their own desires (2 Peter 3:3). But the Word proclaimed by God's watchmen speaks of the coming of the day for which we wait. Our hope is fixed in the Lord who comes (Ps. 130:5-7). When He comes He will inaugurate a new Jerusalem from which death will be banished. The wolf will feed together with the lamb and not on it! The tragedy of unfulfilled human expectations will cease to exist. The sin that burdens and darkens human life will be replaced by joy in God's creation (Is. 65:17-25).

We sustain our hope by God's Word. The foolish hear that Word but do not respond with repentance and faith. The wise hear the Word, accept the promise it brings and keep the new commandment of love given by the Bridegroom to His friends as a sign of invitation to the feast (Matt. 25:1-12). All is ready. The wise keep eager watch together lest He come when we are not ready.

Pentecost 26 (LBW) *

THEME "Put your hope in the Lord, both now and forevermore."

Faithfulness is required of us in the crisis of these last days. For none of us is this more critical than for those called to teach the Word and preside at the altar of God. The words of the psalmist set the tone for them. "O Lord, I am not proud; I have no haughty looks. . . . I still my soul and make it quiet, like a child upon its mother's breast" (Ps. 131:1, 3). Such a humble and trusting spirit excludes pride and permits God's compassion to sustain us through those ministers of Word and Sacrament. The apostle could write, "We were gentle among you, like a mother caring for her little children. We loved you so much that we were delighted to share with you not only the gospel of God but our lives as well." As a result, his readers could receive the Word from him not as human words only, but as it actually is, the Word of God (1 Thess. 2:7-8, 13).

Contrasted with the apostle are those who, in Jesus' day, sat in Moses' seat of authoritative teaching, seeking the prestige of the office without practicing what they preached (Matt. 23:2-5). Likewise, the Levites of earlier times did not always honor God's name through true instruction of the people and lives that reflected the peace and uprightness expected of the messengers of the Lord Almighty (Mal. 2:2, 6-7). The honor which their office deserves from God's faithful must lead the ministers to a life of service. For in the kingdom, service of God's people most dignifies those who follow in the footsteps of Jesus, for He humbled Himself before being exalted (Matt. 23:11-12). Only so can they encourage, comfort and urge the saints to live lives worthy of the God who calls both teacher and disciple into His kingdom and glory (1 Thess. 2:12). In solidarity with the messengers God has sent, the church offers its prayers for them in its liturgies.

PENTECOST 27 (LBW) *

THEME

"The gospel will be preached in the whole world . . . and then the end will come."

Crisis brings confusion during which error presents itself as truth. What seems enduring is tumbled down. In such times even the faithful may be misled and the love of many may grow cold. The saints must "search for the Lord and his strength" and "continually seek his face" so that they can continue to distinguish the false prophets from the true. The true prophet reminds the people of the marvels and wonders that God has done in the past so that they may continue to trust in His promises (Ps. 105:4-5). Everything else may change but what God has done to save His people endures. In all times and in all places the true prophet helps us celebrate the love of God revealed in the death and resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ, the new Temple in whom we encounter the healing, forgiving Lord whose judgments will prevail over the chaos of these last days. Though our temples of stone and wood are shaken by the tremors that accompany the birth pangs of the age being delivered by God, the Gospel will continue to testify to all the nations of His triumphant will (Matt. 24:1, 8, 14). Even as the enemies of the Gospel seek to stamp out the faith, the true prophets invite the opponents to listen to God's call, repent and follow His will so that they may escape the disaster to come (Jer. 26:4-6). Even as false prophets chill the heart and love of the faithful, the servants of God encourage His people during their distress and persecution so their love may increase and overflow. God will strengthen their hearts so they may remain blameless and holy until the day when Jesus comes with His holy ones (1 Thess. 3:12-13).

As the days grow in severity, we shall have to renew our strength again and again through our assembling together. In our gatherings, that which is false is swept away by the truth presented in the Word proclaimed, the cleansing waters, the broken bread and shared wine and the word of absolution, all of which testify to the marvels done by God.

CHRIST THE KING (LBW)

LAST SUNDAY AFTER PENTECOST

THEME

"The Lord is the great God, the great King above all gods."

David was called from caring for his father's sheep to become the shepherd-king of God's flock. The Israelites had lived under God's shepherding care for 40 years in the wilderness and were led into the hills and valleys of Canaan. There they faced new dangers. They sought a king. In David God gave them a shepherd to care for them, protect them from the enemy and render good judgment so that right might prevail. Again and again in their worship they were reminded who the Good Shepherd was. "Come, let us sing to the Lord. . . . Let us come before His presence with thanksgiving. . . . For He is our God, and we are the people of His pasture and the sheep of His hand" (Ps. 95:1-2, 7).

David was never a perfect shepherd, but Israel remembered him fondly, especially after unfaithful shepherds scattered the flock. They yearned for another David. God assured them that He Himself would regather the flock, heal the wounded, and send a new David who would not exploit the flock but deal justly with them (Ezek. 34:11-16, 23-24). At the end of time the true Shepherd will come again to gather the nations together and judge all people so He might do justice for the sheep, rewarding those who treat them as God would and punishing those who do them injury. The sheep, Christ's own brothers and sisters, are in the world, weak and vulnerable. The treatment given them as they bear witness to the Shepherd in their lives is the standard by which judgment will be made by the King. Reception or rejection of their appeal is a sign of whether the King Himself is honored or rejected. And on that hangs salvation (Matt. 25:31-46).

This final judgment will come as the culmination of Christ's ministry. By His death and resurrection, the power of the enemy of the sheep was crushed. All the sheep will share in His triumph. "Christ has indeed been raised from the dead, the firstfruits of those who have fallen asleep" (1 Cor. 15:20). When death has been finally destroyed and all the sheep have received eternal life in the kingdom, the Son, who came into the world so all the sheep could be restored to the Father's fold, will celebrate the completion of His ministry by acknowledging the sovereignty of the one eternal Shepherd and King.

ST. MICHAEL AND ALL ANGELS

September 29

THEME "Now has come the salvation and the power and the wisdom of our God and the authority of His Christ."

Our Lord was given a vision of Satan falling like lightning from heaven, one of heaven's stars falling to eventual oblivion. Satan's power was breaking, even as the 72 proclaimed the Good News in Jesus' name. "Lord, even the demons submit to us in your name" (Luke 10:17-18). Even though we may not know that vision or that power, yet we see the effects of Christ's victory and the sheltering love of the Lord. "He forgives all my sins and heals all my diseases; He redeems my life from the pit and crowns me with love and compassion. He satisfies my desires with good things, so that my youth is renewed like the eagle's" (Ps. 103:3-5).

When in the course of Satan's wrath against those who carry God's mark upon them, whether it be Daniel's people or those of John's seven churches, God does not abandon His people. Michael and the angels are the sign of God's continuing care. Whether it be "the mighty ones" of heaven or the lowlier but faithful servants of God on earth, He uses them to deliver His people.

"Lead us not into temptation," we pray daily. Surely, as Luther teaches in the Small Catechism, God tempts no one to sin, but the time of trial, the testing of our faith, comes sooner or later to all of us. Then all of God's power is bent to save us from unbelief, despair, and the other great sins that might rob us of our place in the Kingdom.

Martyrs have surrendered their lives rather than deny their Lord. They overcame their Accuser by the blood of the Lamb who had washed them clean in the living waters of Baptism (Rev. 7:14). Satan's fury does not avail, for in the awakening of the dead to come, the wise "will shine like the brightness of the heavens, and those who lead many to righteousness, like the stars for ever and ever" (Dan. 12:3)—new stars to spangle God's heaven from which Satan has fallen to his ruin.

CODA

The following or a similar rite may be used on this day by congregations to offer prayer on behalf of the children on the congregation's Nursery Roll (see p. 300). It may follow the sermon at Holy Communion or Daily Prayer.

BLESSING OF THE NURSERY ROLL

The Presiding Minister says:

Our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ said, "See that you do not despise one of these little ones; for I tell you that in heaven their angels always behold the face of My Father who is in heaven" (Matt. 18:10 RSV). Mindful of our Father's care of the young, we offer prayer on behalf of the youngest members of our congregation on St. Michael and All Angels' Day (or on the Sunday before St. Michael and All Angels' Day).

Parents and sponsors are invited now to bring their young children forward for prayer and the laying on of hands. When all have presented themselves, the minister continues:

Hear these words from the Gospel according to St. Mark:

They were bringing children to [Jesus], that He might touch them; and the disciples rebuked them. But when Jesus saw it, He was indignant, and said to them, "Let the children come to Me, do not hinder them; for to such belongs the kingdom of God. Truly, I say to you, whoever does not receive the kingdom of God like a child shall not enter it." And He took them in His arms and blessed them, laying His hands upon them. (Mark 10:13-16 RSV)

Let us pray. (Silence)

Father in heaven, bless these parents and sponsors, that they may cherish the children entrusted to them. Make them wise and understanding, enable their children to grow in grace and knowledge of You, and surround their families with the light of Your truth and the warmth of Your love; through Jesus Christ our Lord.*

The congregation says: Amen.

The minister then places both hands upon each of the children in turn and says:

(Name), the Father in heaven, for Jesus' sake, strengthen in you the gift of the Holy Spirit and bring you to everlasting life.

The parents and sponsors of each child say: Amen.

The minister continues:

Let us pray. (Silence)

Almighty God, look with favor upon these children; grant that, being nourished with all goodness, they may grow in faith and life until they come to the full stature of Jesus Christ, Your Son, our Lord.

The Alternative Service Book 1980* (London: SPCK, Cambridge University Press, 1980), p. 216 (adapt.).

The baptismal names, never the family name, are used in blessings and prayers.

The Alternative Service Book 1980 (London: SPCK, Cambridge University Press, 1980), p. 215.

The congregation says: Amen.

All return to their places.

It is recommended that on this day the Hymn of Praise "Worthy Is Christ" be sung.

J. S. Bach's cantata Lord God, Before Thy Feet We Fall (BWV 130) is appropriate to this day, especially the tenor aria "Lord, Thy Cherubim, Oh, Send Us" and the chorale "To Thee Our Humble Praise" (SATB, opt. inst.; Breitkopf 7130).

Another fine hymn for this day is:

Angels and Ministers (The Hymnal: 1940, 122)

REFORMATION DAY

October 31*

THEME

"The righteousness from God comes through faith in Jesus Christ."

God's purpose for us never changes, but we are peculiarly adept at confusing His purposes and persuading ourselves that our bent purpose is identical with God's. Boasting "We are the heirs of Luther" is not necessarily far removed from saying, "We are Abraham's descendants and have never been slaves of anyone" (John 8:33). We may remain slaves to sin even as we gather to praise God for our freedom in the Gospel. Reformation is not a onetime thing that spreads its mantle inevitably over those who celebrate it; reformation is a daily necessity for the church's life with God. God is never faithless, but we have been faithless again and again. Reformation is not a time for boasting of our superiority but of giving thanks that God ever and again invites His people to repent, rely on grace, and be renewed in mission and ministry.

The true Abrahamite has God's covenant written on the heart. The true Abrahamite does not view the covenant as a matter of obligations and payments but as a gift of grace. Those in bondage to sin only enmesh themselves when they seek to break that bondage "by observing the law" (Rom. 3:20). The shackles of sin can only be struck off by the Lord of the Law. "There is no difference, for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God, and are justified freely by His grace through the redemption that came by Christ Jesus" (Rom. 3:22-24).

The acceptance of grace is at the heart of "the new covenant." God did not give to His people in ancient time an earned covenant and then replace it with the principle of grace. The newness is found in the fulfillment of God's intentions through Christ's passover and in the radical renewal of the human heart made possible by the outpouring of the Holy Spirit, for God has forgiven our wickedness and has set aside our sins in the light of Christ's sacrifice made for us (Jer. 31:34). Christ's passover completed the work begun when God led His people by the hand through the sea out of Egypt. We, too, have been taken by the hand to live by the river of God "whose streams make glad the city of God, the holy place where the Most High dwells" (Ps. 46:4). Our liturgy celebrates the peace that is ours. When we say to one another, "Peace be with you," we invoke the salvation of God, for the old enemies—the devils, the world, and our sinful self—are being destroyed for our sakes. God remains forever the refuge and strength of His people (Ps. 46:1, 8-9).

ALL SAINTS' DAY

November 1*

THEME "See the Lamb . . . the light of the heavenly Jerusalem. Nations will walk by its light, and the kings of the earth will bring their splendor to it."

Filled with the Holy Spirit, Mary sang of the Kingdom to be inaugurated by the birth of her Son. For her it was as if everything were already fulfilled: "He has shown the strength of His arm; He has scattered the proud in their conceit. He has cast down the mighty from their thrones and has lifted up the lowly. He has filled the hungry with good things, and the rich He has sent away empty. He has come to the help of his servant Israel, for He has remembered His promise of mercy, the promise He made to our fathers, to Abraham and His children forever" (Magnificat, Evening Prayer).

For those whom God has called to His nearer presence, the time of waiting is over. For us on earth who celebrate God's redemption, the time of waiting continues. Yet we see the signs of the Kingdom in our midst. Through them God enables us to say with Mary, "My soul proclaims the greatness of the Lord. . . . The Almighty has done great things for me" (Magnificat). We ask God for the ability to live and believe now as though all would most certainly be done as He has promised. We praise God, certain that He opens the way to the Tree of Life for His saints. That tree has been denied our race because of our congenital sin. As fallen creatures we seek to be lords and ladies of our lives, free to choose good and evil for ourselves without reference to God.

Long before Mary sang her song, the poverty and humility of the lowly were seen as signs of the spiritual humility in which we are to stand before God, making no demands, subsisting richly by His gracious condescension alone. The saints in heaven now see God; they have found comfort and have entered fully into the Kingdom. As God promised, our "dead will live; their bodies will rise." Those "who dwell in the dust, wake up and shout for joy" (Is. 26:19). The saints have tasted and seen that the Lord is good; those who take refuge in Him are blessed. "Those who fear Him lack nothing" (Ps. 34:8-9).

We shall be invited to the nuptials of the Lamb. All those of every age and every place whose names are written in the Lamb's book of life will come with us (Rev. 21:9, 27). What is foreshadowed now in Word and Sacrament will be given us in the immediate presence of the Lamb to which they have pointed us. The curse will be taken away; life everlasting will remain (Rev. 22:3).

CODA

The following or a similar rite may be used by congregations on this day to remember the faithful departed. It may follow the sermon at Holy Communion and Daily Prayer.

The Presiding Minister or another minister says:

I heard a voice from heaven saying, "Write this: Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord henceforth." "Blessed indeed," says the Spirit, "that they may rest from their labors, for their deeds follow them." (Rev. 14:13 RSV)

Let us remember with thanksgiving those who have gone before us with the sign of faith, for they were created by God to offer Him praise and thanksgiving forever, and He gave them new life through His Son in Holy Baptism, and nourished them in the company of His people at His holy table, and in His mercy has summoned them to His nearer presence so that they may continue in joyful service of Him forever.

Now are read the names of those who received the ministry of the congregation during their last days and received a Christian burial. In large congregations it may be necessary to limit the names read to those who have died since the previous All Saints' Day.

The minister continues:

In joyful expectation of the resurrection to life, we remember before You, O Lord, all our departed kin and friends who have gone before us in faith. We offer thanksgiving for the gift of faith and hold fast to the certainty of Your promises.

Now are read those names previously submitted by members of the congregation. The reading of the names is concluded with these words:

. . . and all those who are in our hearts and minds this day.

The Presiding Minister then says:

Let us pray. (Silence)

Lord, remember Your church throughout the world; make all its members grow in love for You and for one another. As You have received our brothers and sisters who have gone to their rest in the hope of the resurrection to eternal life, bring us at the last with them into the light of Your presence, that in union with all Your saints we may give You glory forever, through Your Son, Jesus Christ our Lord.

The people say: Amen.

It is recommended that on this day the Hymn of Praise "Worthy Is Christ" be sung.

A DAY OF SPECIAL OR NATIONAL THANKSGIVING (LW)

DAY OF THANKSGIVING (LBW)

THEME "God will meet all your needs according to His glorious riches in Christ Jesus."

The Lord took bread and gave thanks. Whenever we take bread and give thanks, that is, when we celebrate the Eucharist, the Thanksgiving par excellence, we unite in the hymn of creation. We become a part of the endless lifting up of hands in thanksgiving to the Creator who has endowed us with every good gift. Nothing so shames our fallen race as our failure to offer thanks to God. Nine times out of ten are we not also indifferent to the response of offering the thanks due to God for the healing of our hurts?

The Lord's way of offering thanks, as was the way of God's people for long years before His coming, was to "remember," to recite with believing heart the marvels God had done for His people in past times of need. To thank God is to acknowledge that who we are and what we have is His doing, not our own. So Moses cautions the people of Israel: When you enter and possess the land the Lord promised your forefathers, remember how the Lord God led you in the desert these 40 years, remember the testing, remember the manna, . . . remember, remember (Deut. 8:1-3). Those who do not remember cannot offer thanks.

We are a remembering people. Zion remembers God's awesome deeds of righteousness. We, too, remember God's care for the land and how He waters it, so the earth can bring forth grain and the meadows may be covered with flocks (Ps. 65:1, 5, 9-13). Thanksgiving wards off anxiety. Thanksgiving permits God's peace to fill our hearts and minds. Thanksgiving turns our thoughts from our own needs to those of God's saints (Phil. 4:6-7, 10). Thanksgiving makes for contentment. Thanksgiving permits us to see the hand of God at work in the world about us. Our thanksgiving, which declares God the source of all gifts, leads others to a knowledge of the truth (1 Tim. 2:2-4). Our breaking of the bread proclaims the death of Christ for the life of the world. Our thanksgiving over the cup proclaims the bitter cup the Savior drank and the cup of salvation that is ours now and forever, when our thanksgivings will echo through the streets of the Jerusalem above.
